"To the students of Georgia State, the faculty and the alumni, we shall together strive to meet the challenge of the institution in the periods to come . . . I also believe that every institution will 'live or die according to the way it meets its challenges.'"

President Noah N. Langdale, Jr.
Initial Statement upon assuming the Presidency of the college in 1957.

Behind a massive desk in a comfortable office, you will find the supreme figure in Georgia State College, President Langdale. His enthusiasm and vitality will penetrate all stiffness, and before you leave, you will know him to be an "old friend." You will realize that his liking and respect for you is genuine, as is his eagerness to serve you.

At a leadership banquet, you will find a brilliant speaker, who calls on his extensive experience with people in every profession and every phase of business to deliver a message of personal importance to you.

When you enter the sunny, cordial interior of his home on Tuxedo Road, you will find Dr. and Mrs. Langdale the gracious host and hostess who welcome you as their own special guest of honor.

Dr. Langdale's versatility and flexibility enable him to be a hundred separate specialists. Honors bestowed upon him for his scholarship, his civic work, his athletic achievements, and his educational service reflect the dynamism and drive which have resulted in his phenomenal success.

At 39 years of age, Dr. Langdale has been awarded his LL.B. from Harvard University Law School and his M.B.A. from Harvard University Graduate School. He has played varsity tackle on championship Alabama football teams, served as an assistant athletic coach at Harvard, been elected to Phi Beta Kappa, taught Naval Mathematics, served on the Board of the USO Operating Committee of the Valdosta-Moody Air Force Council, edited an award-winning periodical for the Rotary Club, founded a department of Business Administration at Valdosta State College, and gained membership to the Georgia And American Bar Associations, the Kentucky Colonel Corps, the Gridiron Honor Society of the University of Georgia, the Sons of the American Revolution, the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks, Kappa Phi Kappa, and Alpha Kappa Psi.

These accomplishments mark our President Langdale as a man of purpose, an individual with the infinite capacity for love which drives him to serve humanity to his fullest ability. It is to this great protector of our ideals who radiates strength of direction with each stride towards the betterment of our college that we, the Rampway Staff, dedicate our RAMPWAY '60.

GEORGIA STATE COLLEGE IS PEOPLE. We, the students, are working for an education to place ourselves in a world of economics, society, and art. These buildings house our classes, our textbooks, our activities, and our people.

Our President lives in a gracious mansion in Atlanta's famed Northside, provided for him by the College and the Board of Regents.

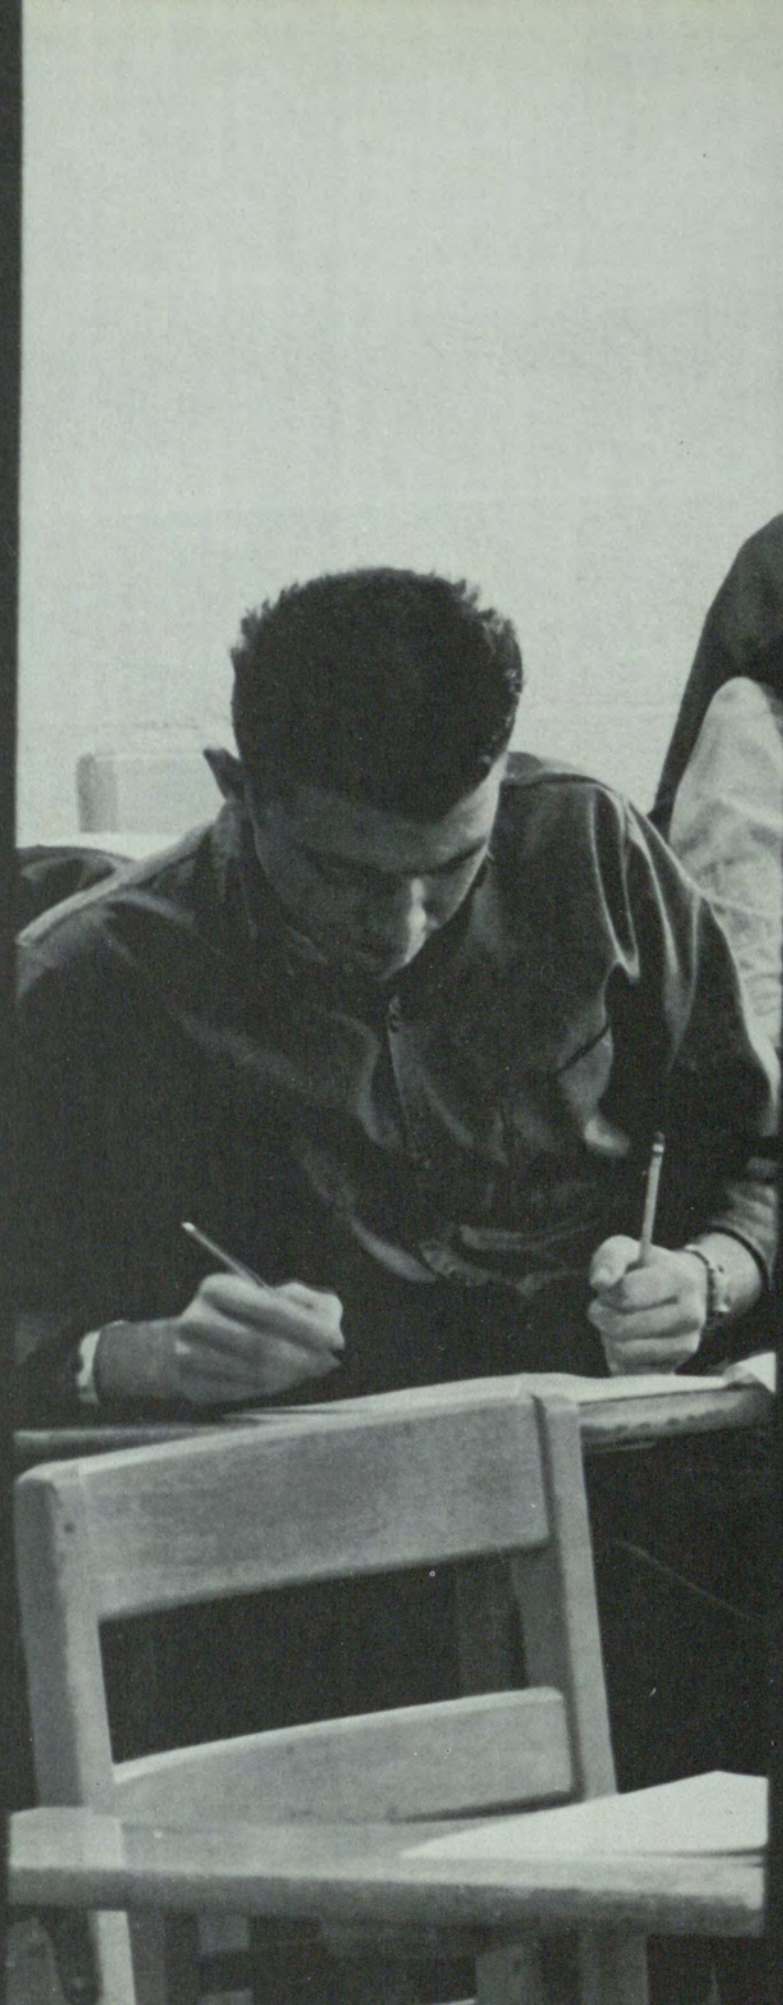

Near Stone Mountain is our Indian Creek Lodge which is equipped with living room, hall, dining room, kitchen, bowling alleys and a swimming pool. Our organizations find the Lodge ideal for special social events in all seasons.

Our spacious Gilmer Street building celebrates its fifth birthday this year. It has a light, fresh interior, and is the only entirely air-conditioned up-town college building in the South.

We are located one block from the center of Atlanta, Gateway to the South; one block from the State Capitol; the police department; the four largest banks in Georgia; and within walking distance of the largest newspaper in the southeast.

The Atlanta Municipal Auditorium and the gardens of Hurt Park, as well as its colored fountain, grace our door-step.

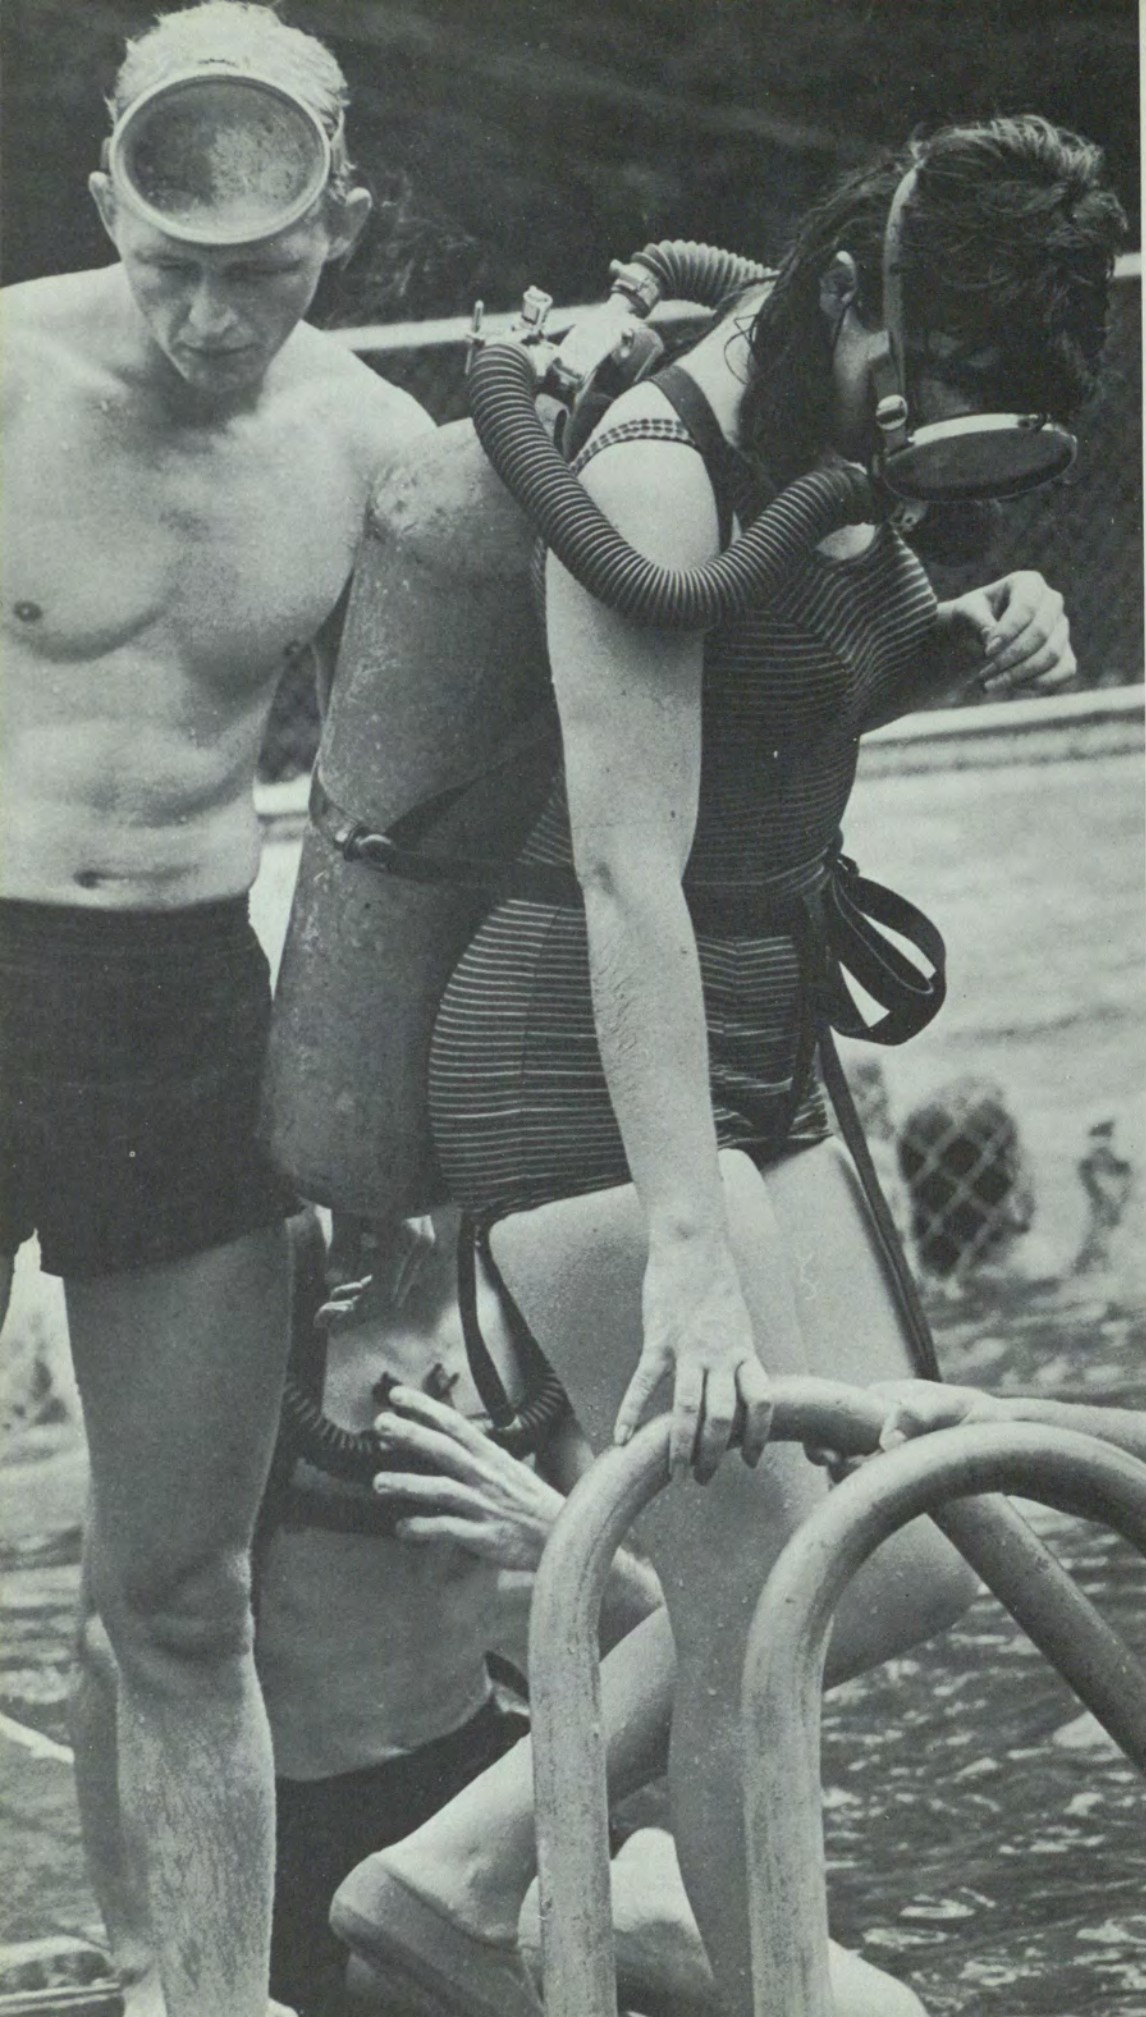

We students, our faculty, our administrators—we know Georgia State College to be primarily an institution of education. We are not here simply for a good time or to find rich play-boy husbands. We have come to Georgia State to better ourselves, and our student activities which evolve from this unity of direction and drive serve only to aid us in our development.

A talk given by Charlton Heston in promotion of his motion picture Ben Hur included an appeal for sincere academic achievement! His co-star, Haya Harareet, greatly enhanced our premises with her beauty.

If an educational crisis does exist in America today, we are meeting that situation with increased entrance and classroom requirements. This is proved by the greatly reduced student-body shrinkage of only four per cent. Our 1960 standards are high, and each successive year's standards will be higher. The South's top college for business administration will soon be the South's top college for arts and sciences also. We are on the move.

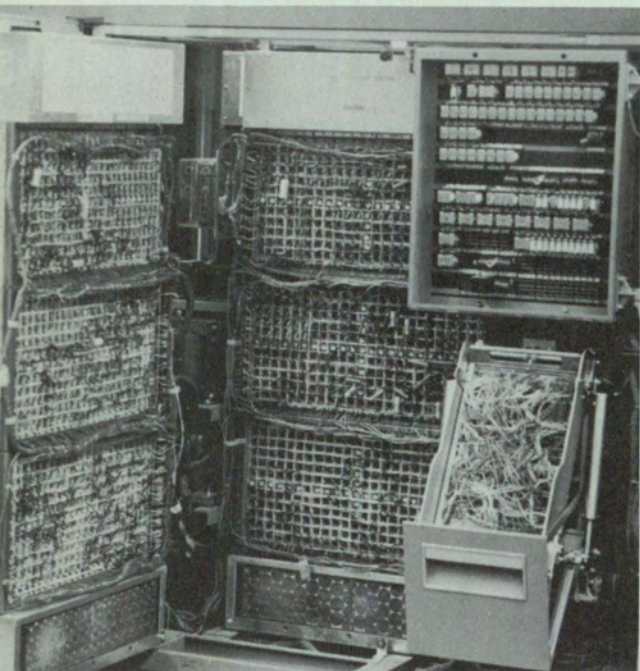

Always ready to experiment, various departments in the College constantly undertake new endeavors. The biology department trains advanced students in skin-diving so that they can find fresh, rare specimens for their lab study.

Georgia State's name is brought to prominence in educational television by our Classroom of the Air, a major undertaking viewed over a local TV station weekly.

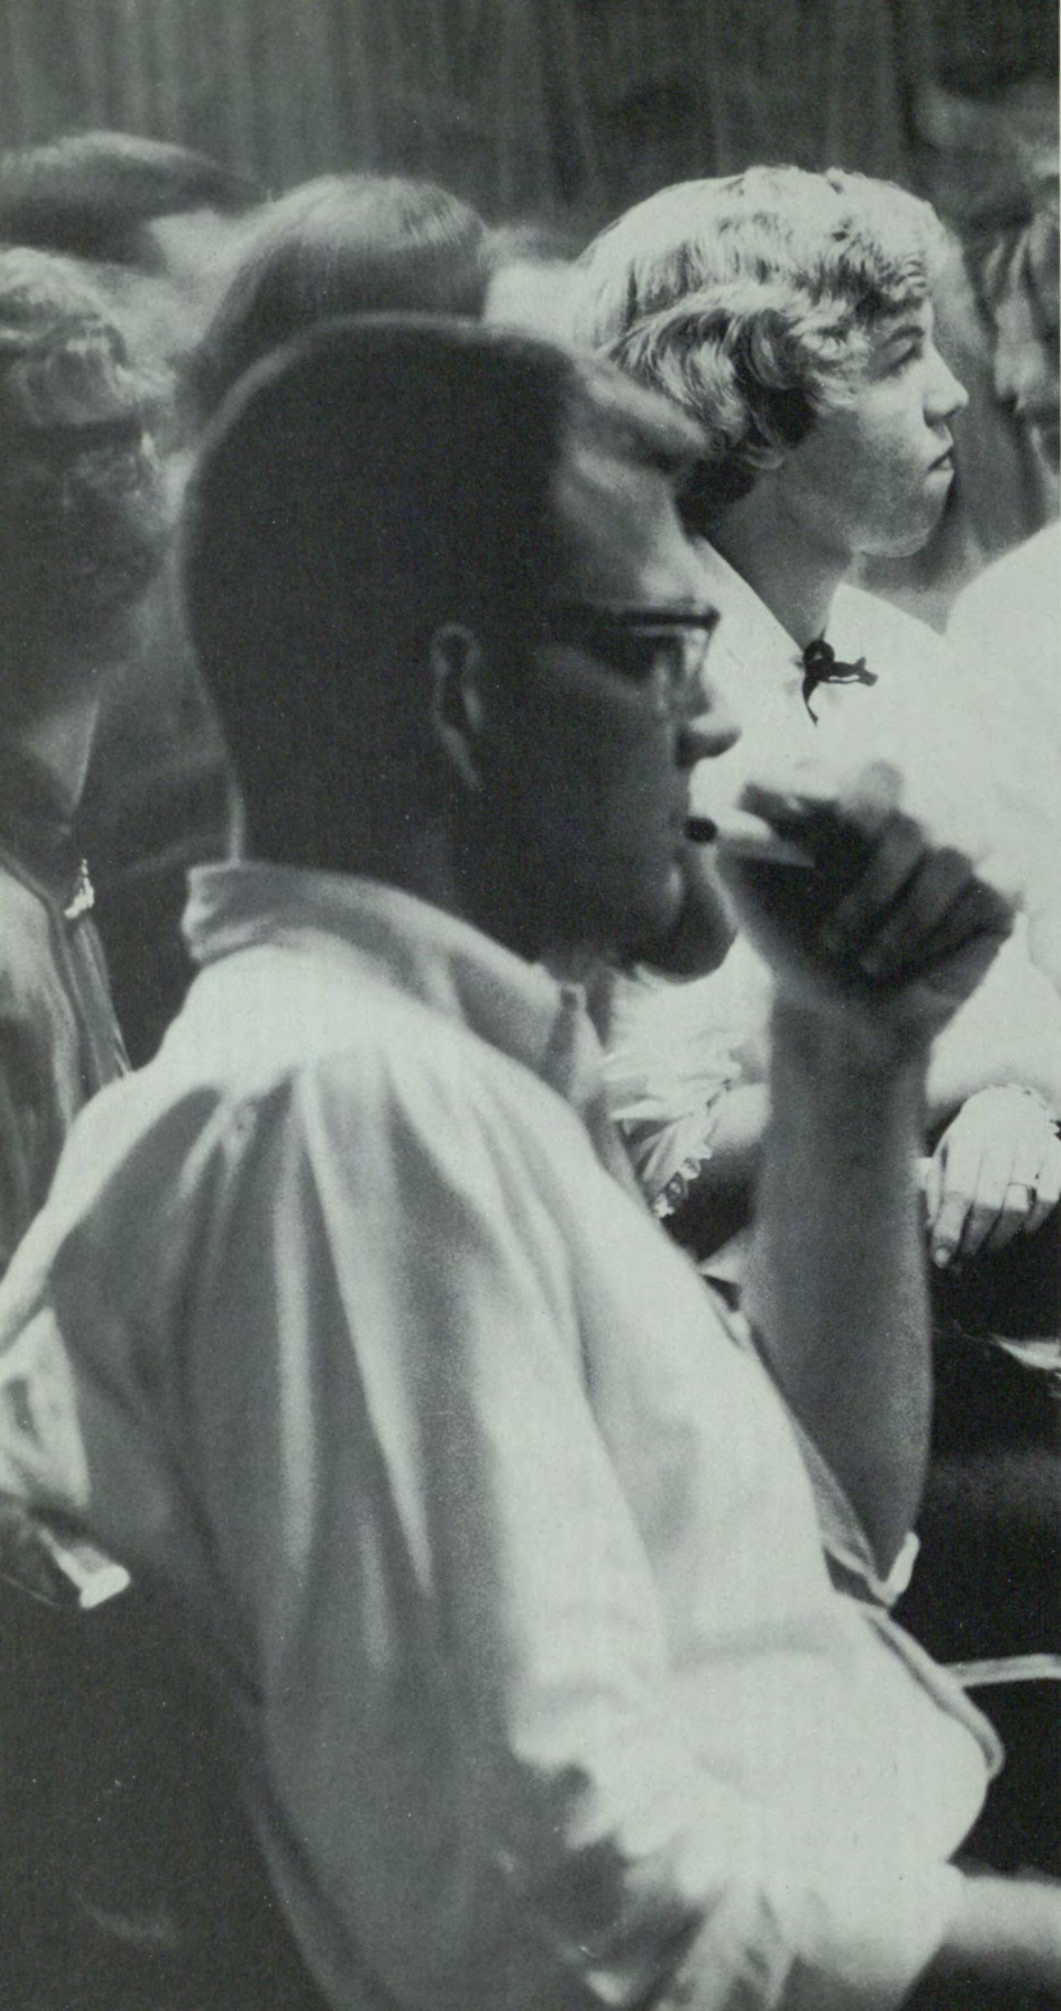

For the use of the students, we have a complex, new RAMAC, a computer center, which can solve rigid physics problems and can store over five million digits of information, to be called back at the touch of a button.

All our facilities are designed for student participation, and our urban location allows us to take advantage of Atlanta's Piedmont park and numerous gymnasiums for athletic events.

As we drive through the tunnel into our vibrant college . . .

As we absorb the lectures of our professors . . .

As we converse with each other sharing a coke break . . .

As we rise to a heated discussion in a council meeting . . .

As we relax in the hush of our library . . .

As we eagerly read the latest in our Georgia State Signal . . .

We come to realize that as students in a college of people, we are GEORGIA STATE COLLEGE.

ADMINISTRATION

JOHN D. BLAIR received his B.S. degree from Clemson College. Mr. Blair has shown his administrative ability prior to coming to Georgia State. While on the faculty of Lanier High in Macon, he and Morgan Blake, late editor of the ATLANTA JOURNAL, organized the first state high school basketball tournament.

GEORGE E. MANNERS, Dean of the School of Business Administration, is among those deans who have received their degrees here at Georgia State. In addition to receiving his B.S.C. degree here, Dr. Manners has been awarded the M.B.A. degree from the University of Georgia and the Ph.D. from Emory University. He has two children: Susan and George Jr.

J. C. HORTON BURCH, in addition to being Dean of the School of Arts and Sciences, is a professor of English. He received his Ph.D. from Duke University. Dr. Burch is a family man as well as educator. He has three children: Nancy, 13; Jimmy, 10; and Susan, age 8.

WILLIAM M. SUTTLES, Dean Of Students, was selected Rural Minister Of The Year (1959) for the State of Georgia. In addition to receiving this honor, Dr. Suttles holds numerous degrees. Among them are B.C.S., M.R.E., B.D., Th.M. and Ed.D. His doctorate is from Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

KENNETH ENGLAND, Dean Of Men, is the supervisor of all activities involving fraternities. He has an everpresent knowledge of all student activities, and is an avid reader of William Faulkner. Dr. England holds a B.S. and M.A. degrees in addition to his Ph.D. which he obtained at Vanderbilt University.

NELL TROTTER, Dean Of Women, holds the B.A. from the University of Arkansas and the M.A. from the University of Wisconsin. Mrs. Trotter is also Assistant Professor of Business Education. A member of the National Association of Women Deans and Vice President of the Georgia Section, Mrs. Trotter is in WHO'S WHO IN AMERICAN EDUCATION.

V. V. LAVROFF holds B.S. from Georgia Tech and M.A. degrees from Emory University. Mr. Lavroff is Comptroller and Associate Professor of Mathematics. He also is the author of a book, TOPICS IN ELEMENTARY ALGEBRA FOR ADULT STUDENTS.

W. ROGERS HAMMOND is the author of the book HOW TO SOLVE INTRODUCTORY ACCOUNTING PROBLEMS and is Associate Dean, School of Business Administration as well as Director of Graduate Studies. Dr. Hammond is a member of the American Institute of C.P.A.'s. He holds the B.C.S. degree from Georgia State, the M.B.A. from Hawaii and the D.B.A. from Indiana University.

PAUL G. BLOUNT is Assistant Dean, School of Arts and Sciences and Associate Professor of English. He is a member of Phi Sigma Iota, and WHO'S WHO IN AMERICAN EDUCATION. Dean Blount holds the A.B. degree from Westminster and the M.A. from Emory University. Mr. Blount is also faculty advisor of Pi Alpha Fraternity.

DOZIER C. CADE is Director of Publicity and Head of the Department of Journalism. Dr. Cade holds A.B. and M.S.J. degrees. His Ph.D. is from State University of Iowa. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternities.

HENRY T. MALONE is Director Of Development and a noted author. His book CHEROKEES OF THE OLD SOUTH was instrumental in his winning of the Distinguished Literary Achievement Award in 1957 given by the Georgia Writers Association.

WILLIAM R. PULLEN, Librarian, holds B.A., B.S. degrees. His Ph.D. is from the University of North Carolina. As one of eight library administrators in the nation, he was selected to participate in the Carnegie Project in Advanced Library Administration at Rutgers University.

WILLIAM S. PATRICK, Director of Admissions, holds B.B.A. and M.S. degrees from Georgia Institute of Technology. Mr. Patrick is a member of Dean's Advisory Committee and Blue Key National Honor Society.

Objectives of the accounting program are to develop the ability of the student to think logically, to solve business problems rationally, and to equip the student for the various careers into which an accountant may enter.

Accounting is the language of business. An understanding of accounting is essential in most areas of business and beneficial in all.

Human understanding begins with the study of man as one living organism among others. The person who knows something of the forces at work in life is equipped to respond to the order and beauty in the realm of living things. The biological sciences are thus important in general culture and necessary as background for many callings, such as agriculture, forestry, medicine, medical technology, nursing, public health, and many industries.

Frugality is not the primary reason for the Department of Economics, Finance, and Statistics. The department contributes to the general education of the student by enabling him to comprehend economic processes and institutions. Moreover, by isolating and identifying the variety of social goals found in our society, and in recognizing that they are somewhat divergent, the student will gain an understanding of conflicting economic ideas advanced by various groups within our country.

Programs for the professional preparation of elementary and secondary school teachers are offered by the Department of Education. The department's programs are also well suited for the general education of parents and others interested in learning problems of children and youth, and in the improvement of education in our society. Many of the public school teachers in the Atlanta area attend the seminars offered by the department each summer to receive additional certification credit in their chosen profession.

As another step in the advancement of Georgia State, the English Department graduated their first, and the College's first, A.B. degree student in English in the Summer of 1958. With an outstanding staff of professors, the department was the first to grant any A.B. degree from this institution. In the school of Arts and Sciences, the English Department is the largest, both in number of majors and full-time faculty.

The Hospital Administration program is offered in recognition of the need and the demand for trained hospital administrators. The program has been developed on an assumption, which has been proved correct by experience, that successful administrators for small hospitals can be trained on the undergraduate level. The curriculum is planned in close cooperation with the Division of Hospital Services, Georgia State Department of Public Health, and the Georgia Hospital Association. Hospitals in the area cooperate to provide facilities and opportunity for the required hospital experience.

Atlanta is one of the outstanding insurance centers of the United States. The area served by this institution has been, and will continue to be, an important center of insurance activity. The department of Insurance, Real Estate, and Law provides a source of academic training for those contemplating a career in the insurance industry, as well as in the closely allied fields of actuarial science, business law, and real estate. The leaders in these fields have given their full endorsement of this department's curriculum. A testimony of their help is the Ben Massell endowed Chair of Real Estate.

The Department of Journalism offers courses which prepare students for newspaper, radio, television, magazine, or public relations careers. Courses in journalism are so designed that a student not planning to enter journalism as a profession may take with profit some of the courses as part of his general education. Outstanding professional journalists in the Atlanta area are invited to teach courses in their special fields.

This program of study is designed to provide professional training and to develop the competence of students for careers in the management of business and economic affairs.

Management is essential to any enterprise, small or large, whether it be industrial, commercial, financial, social, or governmental.

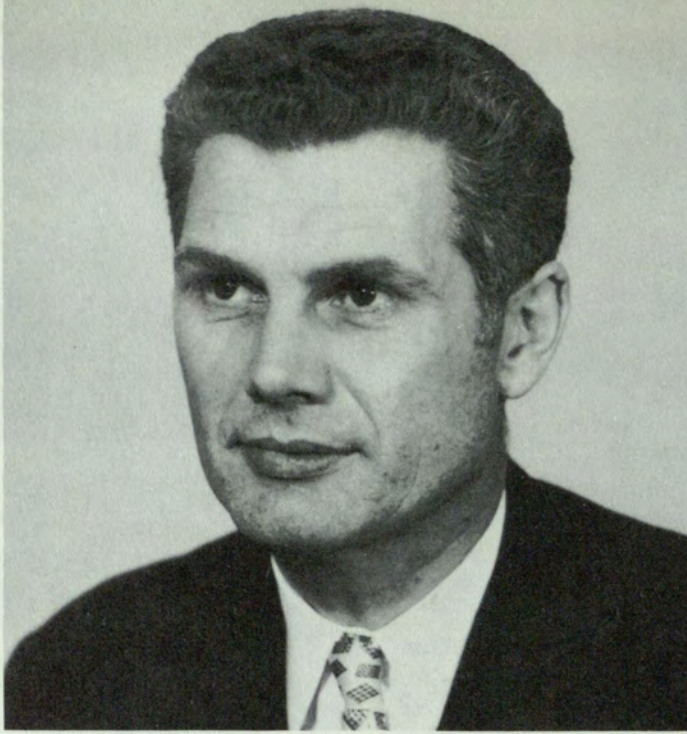

The study and understanding of management principles and practices will aid those who intend to enter the field professionally as administrators, executives, production managers, personnel and industrial relations managers, management consultants, or proprietor-managers.

Economic activity is concerned largely with producing goods and distributing them. Marketing shares importance with other branches of economic activity because in the business sense it is synonymous with distribution. The emphasis in the Marketing Department is to prepare men and women to develop a capacity to solve management problems involving distribution, to think rationally, and to learn the areas of their choice among sales, advertising, marketing research, retailing, or credit

The Department of Modern Foreign Languages offers courses required for the Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science degrees. In the course offerings students will find all the requirements for an allied field in modern foreign languages. These courses are designed to develop the ability to converse and correspond in French, German, and Spanish, and to give as adequate a background as possible in the literature and culture of the people of these countries.

Other services to the students and the residents of the Atlanta area by this department included a 16-week televised course in conversational French, offered this winter on the weekly Georgia State Classroom, on a local TV station.

The Physical Education Department presents the student an opportunity to develop skills and interests in a variety of activities, to develop mental and physical health, and to develop social and ethical values. The department's curriculum includes athletic activities of special interest to college students—team sports, individual sports, aquatics, modern dance, gymnastics, and health education.

Jane B. I. Hart, Department Head / Herbert Burgess

physical education

The courses in Physics are designed to meet the needs of two groups of students; (1) the technical student needing physics for teaching, research, engineering, medicine, or other scientific endeavors; (2) the non-technical student desiring a laboratory science which acquaints him with the laws, theories, and experimental methods of physical science.

Robert I. Allen, Department Head

The demand for transportation, communication, and power has expanded very rapidly in the United States in recent years. The program of training in transportation and public utilities has been developed to serve three groups of students. The first of these is made up of those who desire to be employed or who are already employed in the fields of transportation, power, or communications. The second is made up of those interested in government employment concerned with promotion or regulation of these vital business units. The third is composed of students who seek a broad general background so as to better understand the complex world in which we live.

Dear Editor,

Speaking in behalf of the rest of the Trio, may I say that it has been our honor to judge your beauty contest at Georgia State.

Please realize that it is very difficult to judge by pictures and that we probably judged on the basis that Nick and Dave are photography maniacs and I married a Georgia girl.

Hoping that the winners will be happy and the losers will realize our difficulty in choosing, we remain--

Yours truly,

The yearly publication Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities includes thirty-two Georgia State juniors and seniors this year.

These students were chosen by the General Council and the Office of the Dean of Students in recognition of outstanding contributions to the College.

This signal honor carries with it more than inclusion in the book, for Who's Who is one of the highest honors available to upperclassmen at Georgia State.

George Adams combines both academic excellence and extra-curricular endeavors. He is Vice-president of the Evening Student Council and is active in Intramural Key, Alpha Kappa Psi, Veterans' Club, and Sigma Nu.

William L. Beasley, Jr. was chairman of Mardi Gras. He is Assistant Editor of the Rampway, Junior Class President, an officer in Circle K, and has held various positions in Kappa Sigma.

John Clint Buckner was chairman of the Leadership Conference. Clint is a Vice-president of both General Council and Delta Sigma Pi. As an outstanding ROTC cadet officer, he enjoys membership in Pershing Rifles and Scabbard and Blade.

who's who

Linda Beeler is an Associate Justice of the Day Student Council, and a member-at-large to the General Council. She is past president of Delta Zeta.

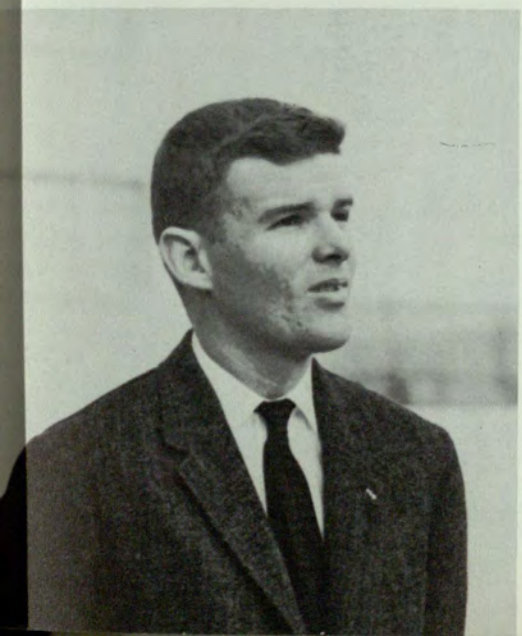

Linda Brown is President of the Day Student Council, a member of Crimson Key and the Student Education Association.

Joe Bryan is commander of the Pershing Rifles Drill Team. He is active in all military groups, and is secretary of Delta Sigma Pi.

Frank Byrd is President of the Evening Senior Class. He holds membership in Delta Sigma Pi and Intramural Key.

Doris Cash is President of Crimson Key, Vice-president of Delta Lambda Sigma, and Treasurer of Phi Chi Theta. She is also an Evening Student Council Representative.

J. D. Caswell has long been active in college activities. He was president of General Council, and is now Vice-president of Alpha Kappa Psi. He is a charter member of Sigma Nu.

Claire Dempsey is past President of Panhellenic Council, and is currently President of Alpha Omicron Pi.

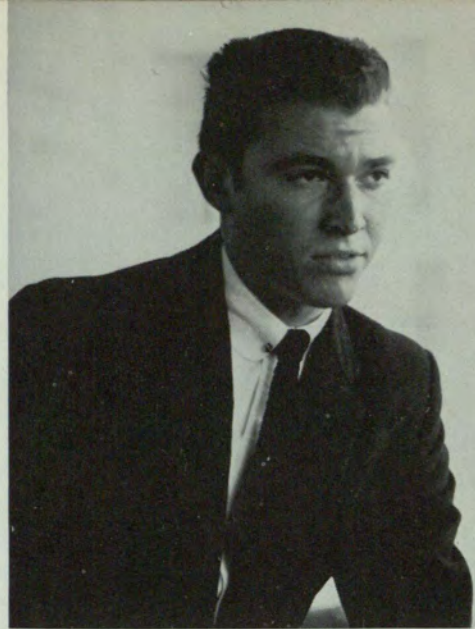

Martha Free is Editor of the Signal, after two years as reporter, News Editor, and Managing Editor on the paper.

Carol Freeman was a Cheerleader for two years. She is a member of G Club, Westminster Fellowship, and is Scholarship chairman of Delta Zeta.

Don Germano is Cadet Colonel and Commander of the ROTC Battle Group. He holds membership in Pershing Rifles and Scabbard and Blade. Don is also one of the first Associate Justices of the Day Student Council.

Paul Hebert is an honor student who is a member of Blue Key and the Accounting Society.

Marilyn Heisel is President of Alpha Phi, member of Crimson Key and the Student Education Association. She has served as decorations chairman of several college dances.

Mary Ann Heron is Vice-president of Crimson Key. She holds membership in Baptist Student Union, Alpha Lambda Delta, Phi Chi Theta, Evening Student Council, and Delta Zeta.

John Lanier is Treasurer of the General Council. He is a member of the Accounting Society, Evening Student Council, Circle K, and Kappa Sigma.

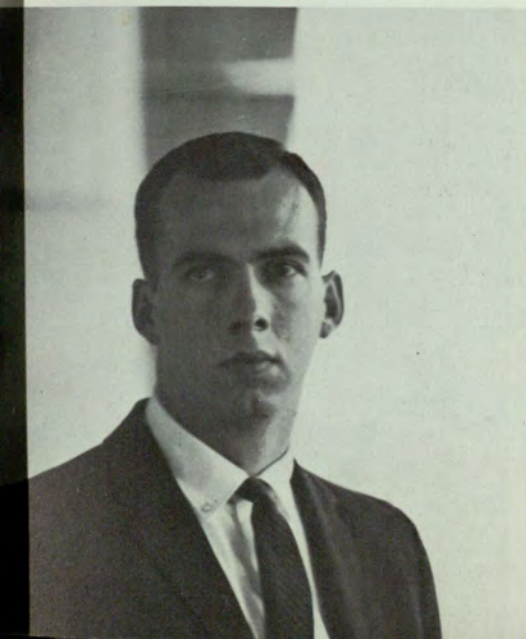

Jerry LeCroy is President of Interfraternity Council, past president of Circle K, and was active in the Evening Student Council, Accounting Society, and General Council.

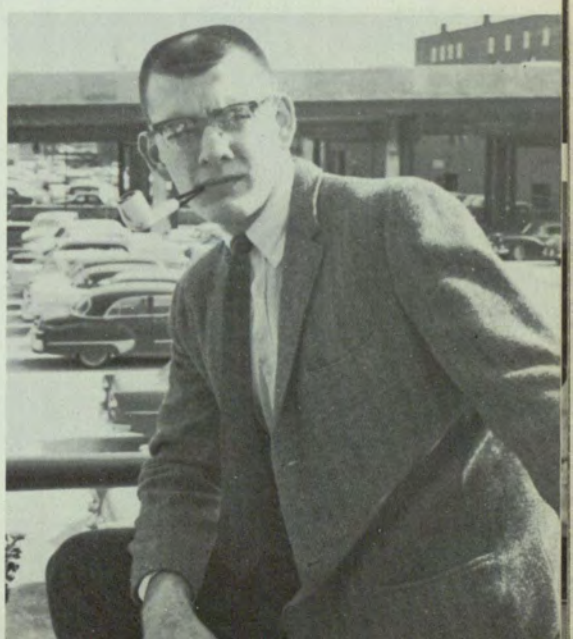

Carolyn Lee was a founder of the Panhellenic Council at Georgia State and has been its President twice. She is a member of Crimson Key, past Editor of the Rampway, and was President of Delta Zeta.

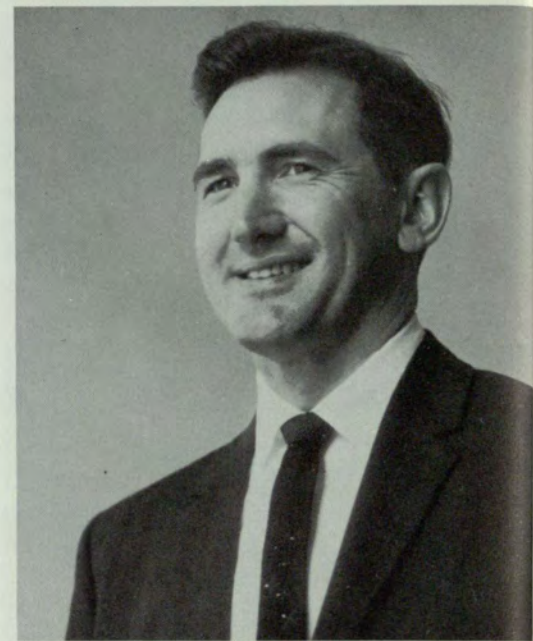

Kenneth McCollum is currently President of both Blue Key and the Accounting Society. He was Manager of the Blue Key Bookstore last year.

Monty V. Montgomery is Chief Justice of the Day Student Council and Business Manager of the Signal. Monty is an active member of Kappa Sigma.

Left page

Danny Moret is Vice-president of Interfraternity Council and President of Alpha Epsilon Pi. He is a Day Student Council Senator, and is in the Society for the Advancement of Management, and General Council.

Perle Mossman is listed in Who's Who for the second year. She is Associate Editor of the Rampway and Managing Editor of the Signal, after previously holding various positions on those publications for two years. She is a charter member and President of Delta Phi Epsilon at Georgia State; Secretary of both the Panhellenic Council and General Council; and is Treasurer of G Club.

Donald C. Penny is Editor of the Rampway. He is also a Day Student Council Senator and a member of General Council.

Larry Gene Powell is Captain of the Basketball team with four years of action; president of G Club; and a Cadet Major in ROTC.

Thomas Sangster is President of Alpha Kappa Psi; and is a member of the Veterans Club, Society for the Advancement of Management; General Council, and Sigma Nu.

Mel Stout is President of General Council, and past president of Veterans Club. He holds active membership in Alpha Kappa Psi, Pi Sigma Epsilon; and the Society for the Advancement of Management.

Right page

Catherine (Kitty) Stretch has been on the Dean's List several times. She is active in Crimson Key, and is Vice-president of Delta Zeta.

James Thompson is President of Delta Mu Delta, and is a member of Intramural Key and Phi Eta Sigma.

Jim Tracy is President of the Evening Student Council, and holds membership in Delta Sigma Pi and General Council.

Ten sophomores and juniors are chosen by the Offices of the Deans of Students each year to receive recognition as Outstanding Underclassmen.

The honor is little pay for the hours each of them has spent in the extra-curricula activities at Georgia State.

The students pictured on these two pages are able leaders of an active student body.

Lewis Ash was chairman of Homecoming, and holds a student Council office for the third year.

Linda Brown is the first female student to serve as president of the Day Student Council.

Doris Cash is an evening student who heads Crimson Key and serves on many student committees.

Elizabeth Cordle is an able liaison officer between the day and evening students.

Claire Dempsey's experience as president of Panhellenic Council last year comes in handy on her various campus activities.

Martha Free spends most of her free hours fulfilling the duties of editor of the Signal.

Monty Montgomery is managing editor of the Signal, with extra writing experience as the author of the Day Student Council's Constitution.

Don Penny edits the Rampway '60.

Kitty Stretch is another evening student who finds time for many hours spent aiding her college.

outstanding underclassmen

Three days of orientation introduced the new Freshman Class to the College, the administration, and student leaders.

The class of '63 spent many hours listening to explanatory lectures, concerning the two schools of Business Administration and the Arts and Sciences School. Listening intently, the students learned of the various social activities and organizations of the school they hoped to attend for the next four years.

Free food and brunches were the order of the day as students seem to comprehend much more with a full stomach than an empty one. After filling up on the last free food they would ever get at Georgia State College, discussion was in order pertaining to getting acquainted with each other and finding new friends.

After food for thought as well as the stomach was all stored away safely, the job of registration began for nearly 500 new freshmen. Following registration, the class of '63 was on their way to higher education.

freshmen orientation

During the fall quarter 3,700 students registered at Georgia State College. Facing such an involved operation, students had to stand in block-long lines as the start of another year in their aim towards graduation.

There were lines for advisement, cards, schedule checkers, the treasurer's cages, and finally sectioning.

Come change day, the lines begin anew; but students soon settle down to their class schedules and another quarter begins.

The national sororities at Georgia State held their formal rush season during the first two weeks of fall quarter. These weeks were filled with teas and informal parties held in the chapter rooms and Stone Mountain room.

The rush season officially began with ice water teas, held in the sorority rooms. It provided the rushees and sorority members a chance to meet and get acquainted with one another.

As the weeks progressed, longer parties were given, with the sorority girls dressed in costumes. The rushees were entertained with songs and skits.

Alpha Omicron Pi had a beatnik party, Alpha Phi gave an oriental party, and Delta Zeta had a south seas party. Delta Phi Epsilon entertained rushees at the homes of their alumni.

Then came the preferentials to climax the 1959 rush season. Alpha Phi gave their traditional luau; DZ and AOPi gave formal parties.

Bids were issued at the end of formal rush, and sorority members welcomed their new sisters.

sorority rush

Fraternity Rush involves everything from rush girl teas to all-out parties. Each Fraternity has its special events held each rush year. Sigma Phi Epsilon has its Mountaineer Party, Pi Kappa Alpha has its annual Gangster Party, Kappa Sigma holds its Paris Sewer Party, and Sigma Nu holds their Ship Wreck Party. Pi Kappa Phi also is in the party mood as they hold their Western Party.

Costumes are in order for all of these events, and the outcome is more often than not very entertaining.

MISSISSIPPI STATE COLLEGE
WELCOME
NOV. 25

MISSISSIPPI STATE COLLEGE 1959

The twenty-fifth day of November marked Georgia State's Homecoming this year.

Festivities started with a banquet held in the Student Lounge. Entertainment was furnished by the Kappa Sigma and Delta Zeta social groups, who captured the honor by vocal tryout held among the fraternities and sororities.

Honored guests included Atlanta's mayor William B. Hartsfield, and Judge of the Fulton Superior Court Jephtha Tanksley. Judge Tanksley, a Georgia State alumnus, was guest speaker.

Immediately after the banquet, the Homecoming Dance commenced in the City Auditorium, with Buddy Bair providing the music.

home coming

At intermission of the Homecoming Dance, Miss Joyce Pickett was crowned Homecoming Queen by the 1958 Queen, Miss Joyce Yerkes.

Miss Pickett was chosen from among 29 contestants who entered the contest through various activities and organizations. Many of the girls in the contest hold other beauty titles, or have participated in beauty pageants.

The contestants were judged through personal interview by three of Atlanta's leading beauty and art consultants, who asked each of them questions about their college life and future plans.

Songs, skits, dancing, and fun are the order of Greek Week. Sponsored jointly by the Panhellenic and Interfraternity councils, the week of events is a focal point of the Greeks' year.

Among the entries in the Skit Night were parodies of "Macbeth," "The Wizard of Oz," and "The Great Train Robbery." Alpha Omicron Pi's "Beat Greek" won first place in the sorority division, and the Kappa Sigma "Summit Meeting" placed first among the fraternities.

Kappa Theta had the most colorful ensemble at the Sing Night. The audience heard the Delta Zetas and Sigma Nus sing their way to first place honors.

greek week

Winners of the skit and song contests were announced during the dance at the end of Greek Week. Happy presidents collected the trophies denoting their groups' competitiveness.

The Auburn Knights provided the dance music and entertainment at this festive occasion at the Hellenic Center.

Miss Marcelle Cartee was crowned the Greek Goddess by Miss Kitty Stretch, the 1959 Goddess. Members of the Goddess' court are Carol Sligh and Helene Duke.

Festivities usually common in New Orleans at the Mardi Gras Season enveloped Georgia State on February 26th and 27th.

The college held its annual Mardi Gras festival, which consisted of a carnival night and a revelry night plus a crowning of a king and queen of Mardi Gras.

Concessions offered the student or faculty member chances to win everything from cigarettes to large cakes. If the individual didn't care to take a chance on winning a cake or pie he had a chance to throw one at a Sigma Nu brother.

Organizations sponsored the concessions as well as running the show themselves and having an enjoyable time in doing so. If thirst or hunger hit the Mardi Gras visitor, he could always find consolation in candy apples or cotton candy.

mardi gras

In the entertainment division there were featured dancing girls and a knock-the-man into the water contest. This was attained by tossing a baseball at a target which, with a direct hit, would drop a Pershing Rifles member in the water.

Sigma Phi Epsilon provided music for those who were interested in trying to win a cake to swing music.

The Mardi Gras dance was held at the Georgian Room of the Biltmore Hotel. The Debonaires provided the music at the ball, with Phil and Nancy of Wits End entertaining during the intermission.

Penny Hill and Ron Shutley were selected for this honor based upon votes cast by the student body.

Spring Festival is held during the last week of April, for the purpose of introducing high school seniors to the program of Georgia State College.

These seniors toured the College grounds under the able assistance of sorority and fraternity members who pointed out numerous points of interest. After the tour refreshments were served on the roof terrace.

Earlier in the day the May Queen, Miss Joyce Pickett, was crowned in Hurt Park as the leading beauty queen of Spring, 1959. The Pershing Rifles Drill Platoon acted as escorts for the festive occasion.

spring festival

Thirty lovely Georgia State coeds gracefully paraded before three of Atlanta's top beauty experts who had the difficult job of choosing the May Queen of 1959.

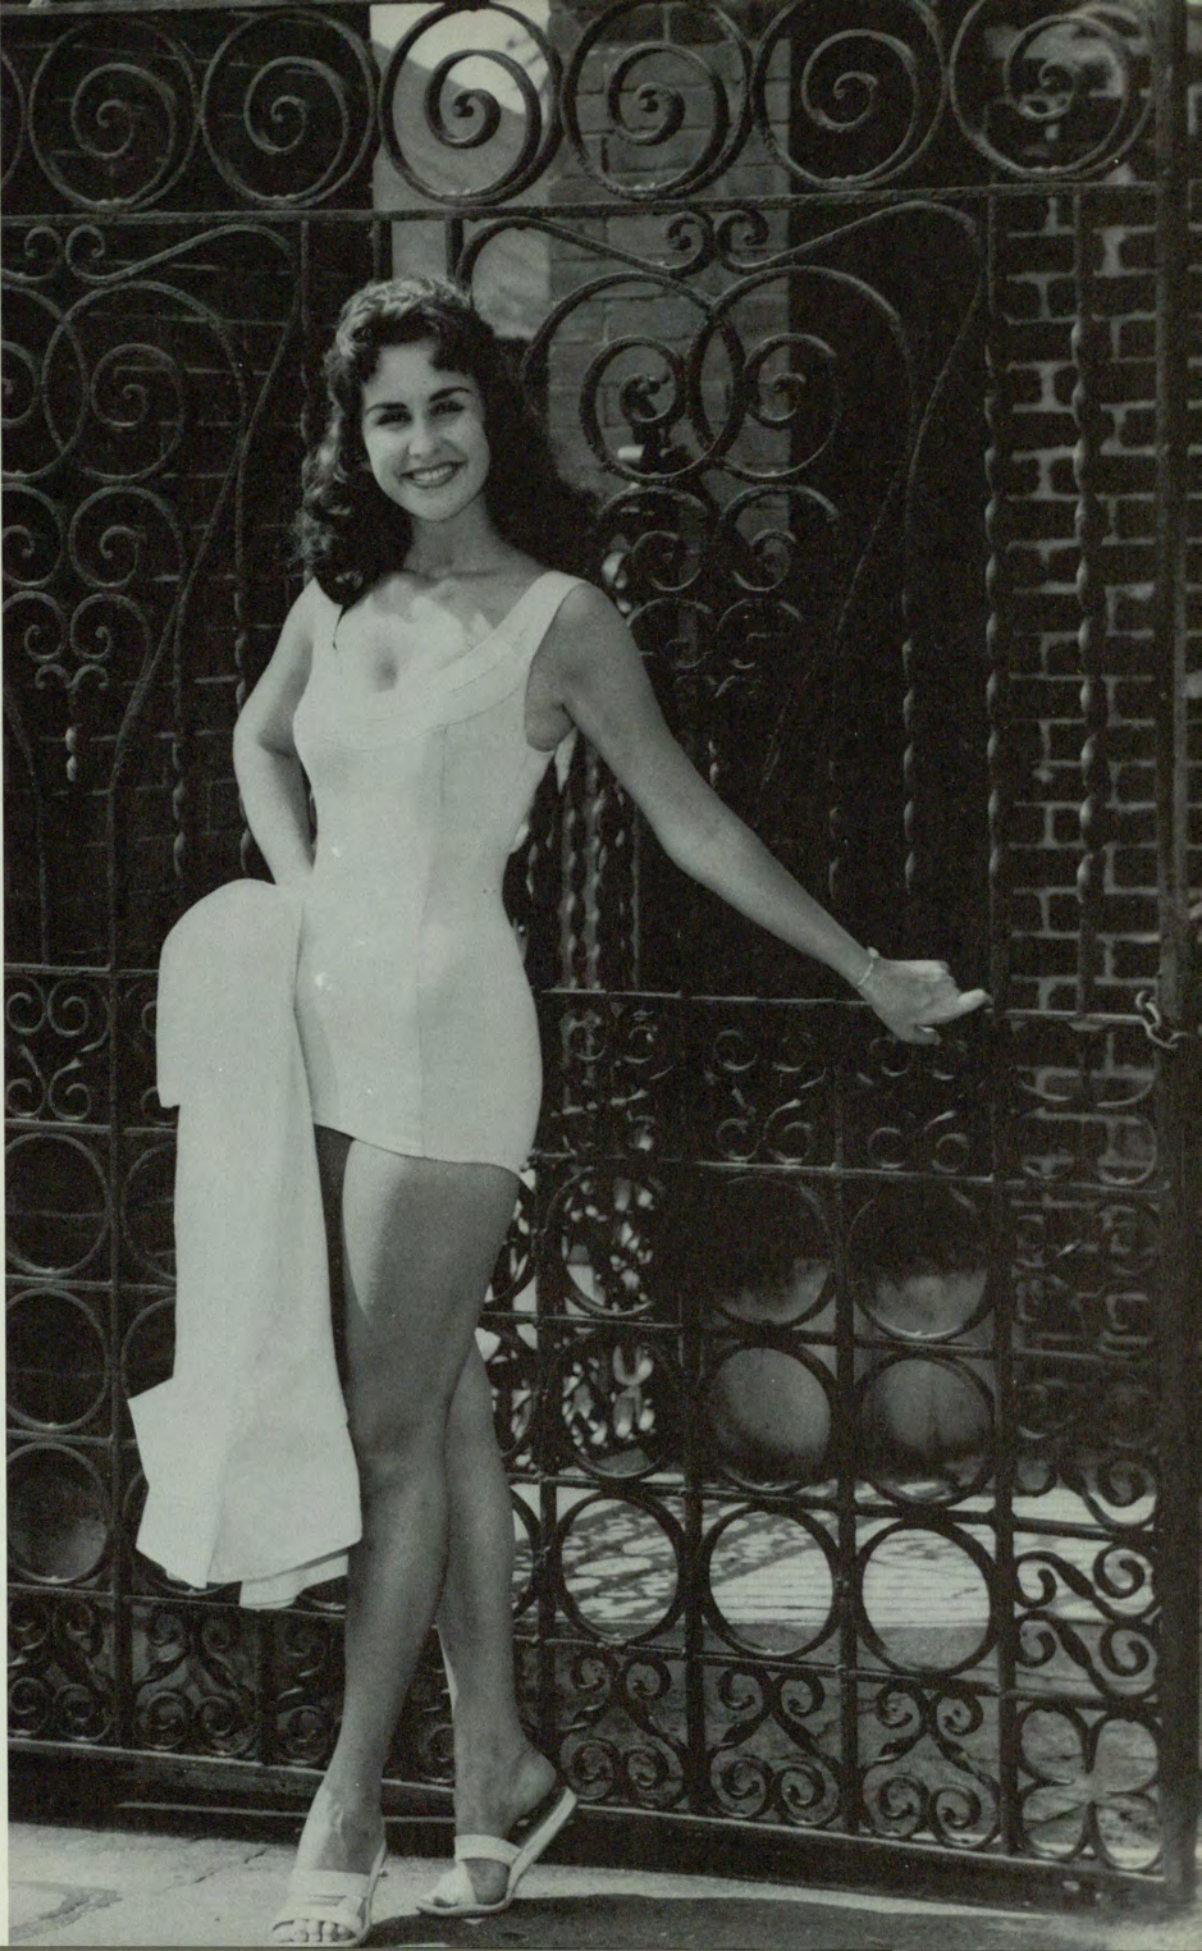

The three judges for the contest were Patricia LaHatte, promotion director for Atlanta Newspapers, Inc.; Leon Frohsin, fashion authority; and Tracy O'Neal, commercial photographer.

The judging took place in the Little Theatre on the sixth floor of the Ivy Street Building. The judges' choice was announced during the festivities which took place in Hurt Park.

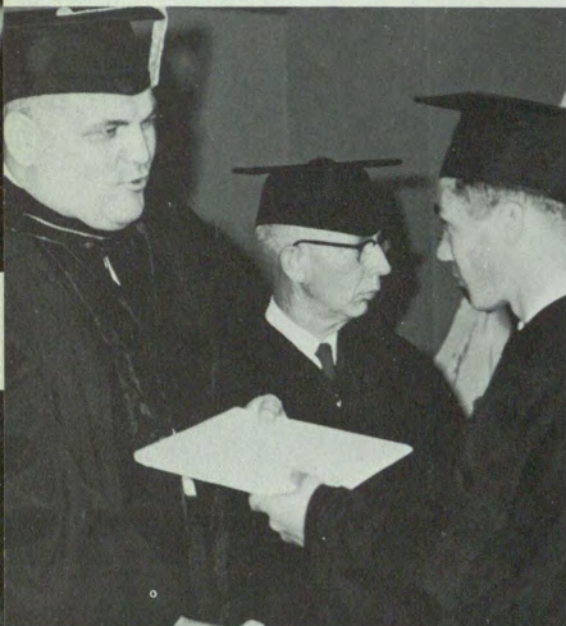

The 1959 May Queen—loveliest of the lovely—is beautiful Joyce Pickett. Queen Joyce combined beauty and poise, along with charm and intelligence, and won her right to reign as 1959 May Queen. She was selected from more than thirty other contestants.

A sophomore, the 19-year-old Queen has black hair and blue eyes. She is also SPE sweetheart and a member of Delta Zeta sorority. The lovely princesses of Queen Joyce's court were Janeen Pitts, Pepper Helms, Brenda Smith, Pat Smith, Beverly DeLoach, and Jeanine Craig.

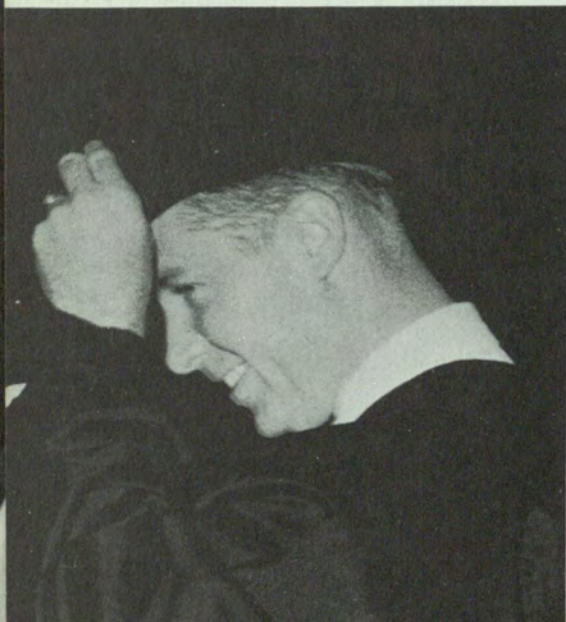

Graduation Sunday is the long-awaited climax to many years of work. Spring Commencement is held in the City Auditorium, with faithful parents, spouses, children, friends and associates all in attendance.

The black academic gown is carefully adjusted, the mortar board set at just the right angle on the head, and another person awaits admission to the growing list of Georgia State Alumni.

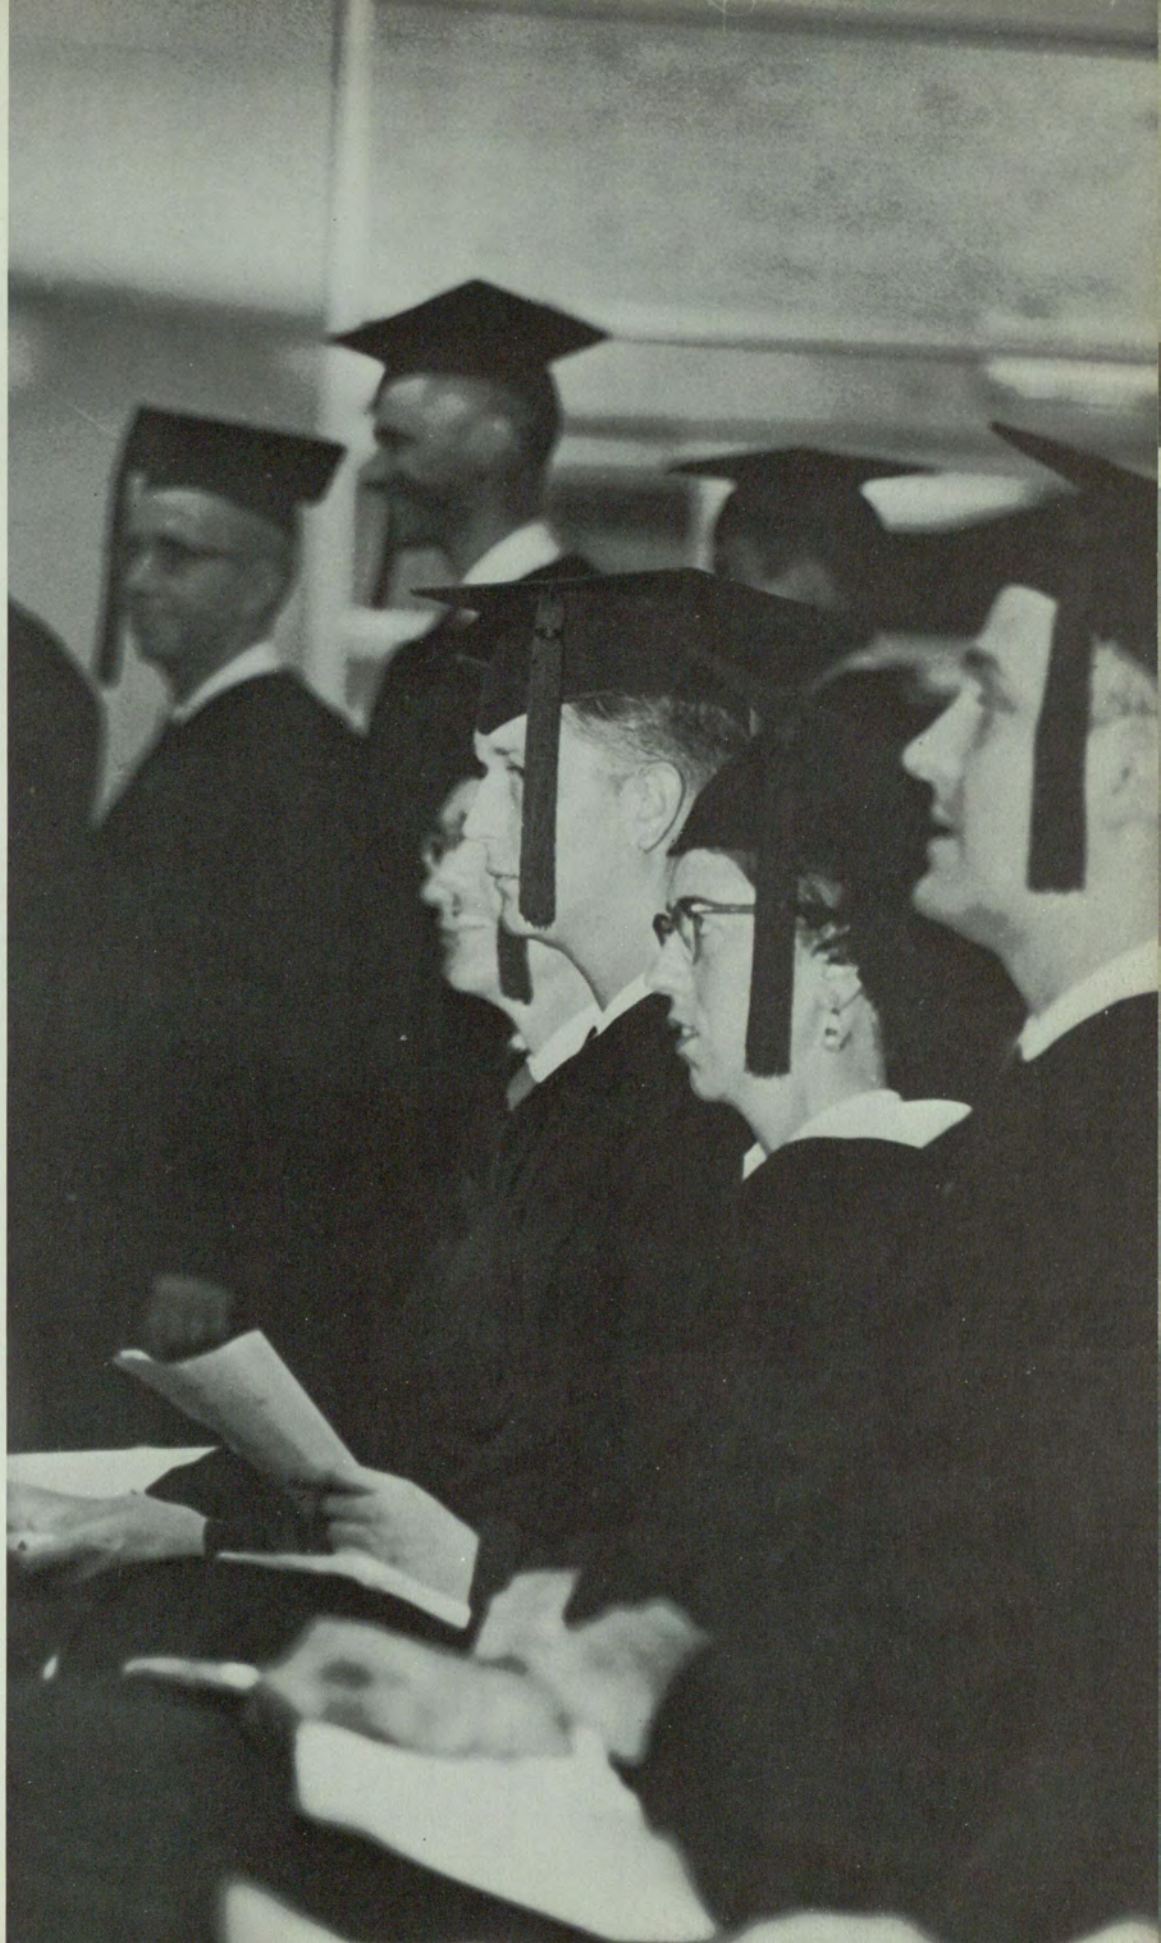

The Dean of each School announces a name, the Assistant Registrar hands a degree to the President, and another graduate receives the statement of his academic accomplishment.

Even this is not the zenith of formal education, for ever-increasing numbers of graduates will not stop here, but will begin work on higher degrees.

A completely new form of organization came into being this fall when the new constitution of the Day Student Council was ratified.

The officers of the Council watched over multiple elections as Senators and a Chief Justice were elected for the first time.

Following the pattern of a smaller, more active Council, only two class officers were chosen to represent each of the four divisions.

Another newly-created post is that of representative from the General Council.

Linda Brown is President of the Day Student Council. John King is Vice-president; Shirley Gay is Secretary; Lewis Ash is the Treasurer.

Producing this 264-page Rampway '60 was difficult to say the least, but it was made easier through the cooperation of a good staff, and qualified advisors.

Don Penny, editor of Rampway '60, spent hours supervising the work of photographer Bennett Collins, and even more time coordinating the efforts of the staff.

Perle Mossman, as associate editor, had to perform a variety of tasks, many of which cropped up at the last moment.

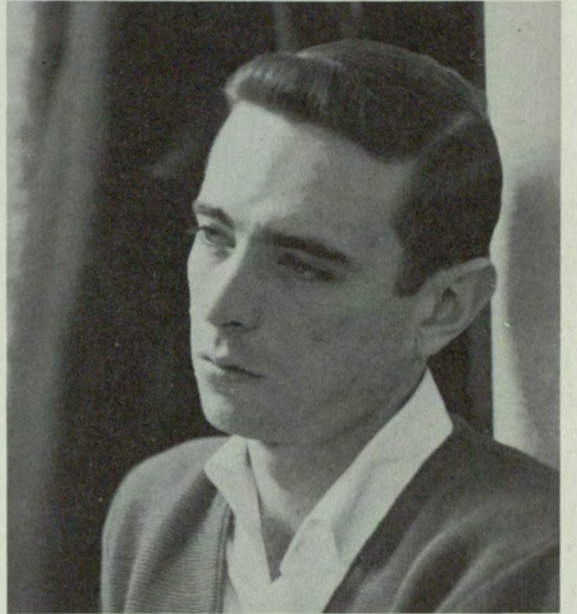

Carolyn Clark always maintained her smile while performing the duties of business manager.

Bill Beasley concentrated on the responsibilities of assistant editor.

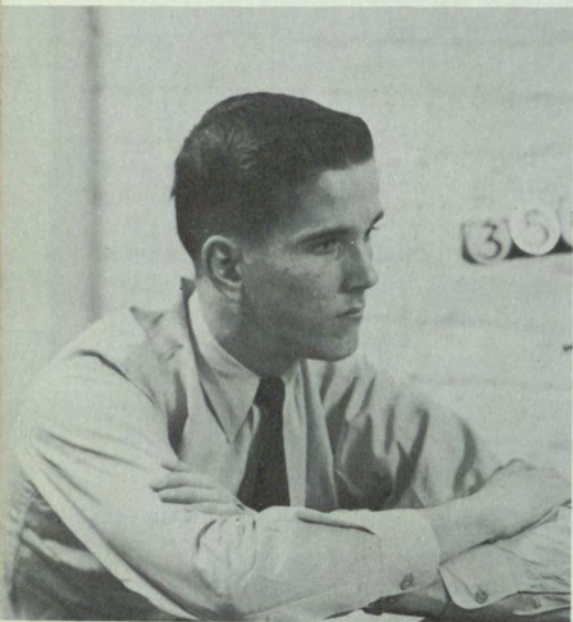

Nancy Barrington's job as art editor demanded that she spend much of her time at the drawing board.

Jane Knowlton had much to do in her capacity as organizations editor.

Jimmy Jones handled the faculty smoothly for the administration section.

Frances Farrar had to get information on the June and August graduates.

May Sikes covered each of the feature events at the college. Harold Riggs used whatever tactics necessary to assure complete coverage of the military program.

Janeen Pitts and Tommy Swaim were the specialists for the sorority and fraternity pages.

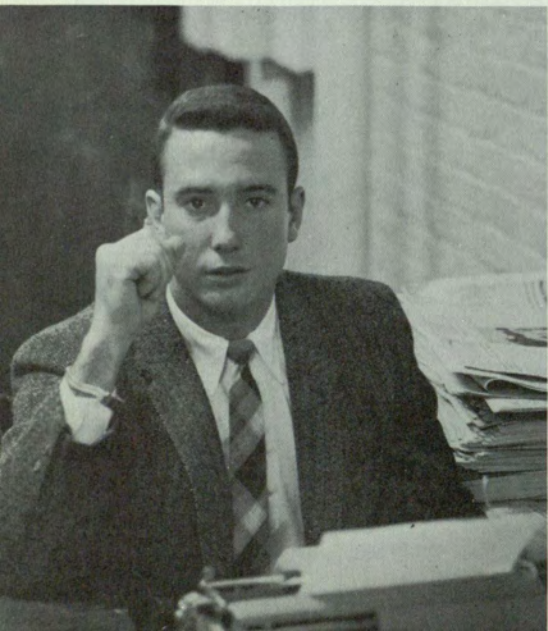

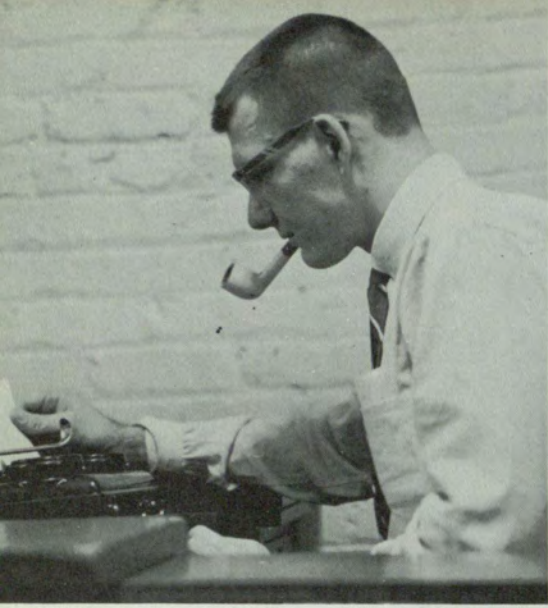

Vi Coggans and Mike Allen paired off to help produce the big activities section.

David Dyer played historian to get a view of sports at the college. Tommy Cash had the task of writing copy for everything in this, the Rampway '60.

Bi-weekly issues of the Signal means hard work for each member of the staff, and often much anguish for the editor.

Martha Free's singleness of purpose designed to produce a top college paper required that she draw extensively from her three years of experience on the Signal.

Monty Montgomery was chosen to manage the business end of the paper—handling the advertising and cash records.

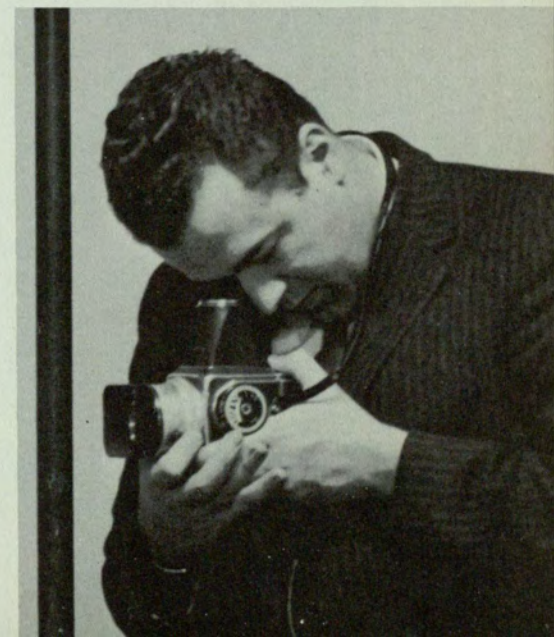

Perle Mossman's position as managing editor led her into many phases of newspaper production.

Dick Field was news editor for the fall quarter, and had the responsibility of uncovering the news as it happened. Judy Murdoch took over the position in the winter quarter.

Tommy Cash covered the sports picture for the paper.

Mary Rogers was the contact for the society column.

Bennett Collins produced the pictures in each issue.

The editorial board of the Signal directed the work of the editors, columnists, and reporters, producing enough work to keep the office one of the busiest rooms in the Ivy St. building, from the dawn of the college day to the wee hours of evening classes, weekends no exception.

The journalism students and others interested in newspaper work came to regard the Signal office as a writer's secluded cell and the staff's semi-private quarters.

All available shelves and desks remained cluttered with supplies, books, and exchange newspapers. Recently repainted walls were covered with story assignments, cartoons, and a calendar which forecast the all-too-soon deadlines for the Signal.

The Players produce one play a quarter to the enjoyment of the students, faculty members, and other live-theatre lovers.

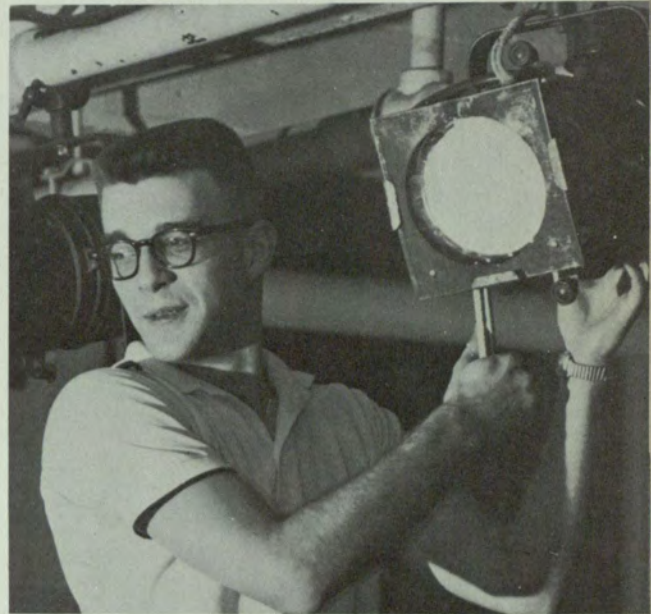

Once a play is selected for production, Mr. James Sligh, the drama director announces the audition for parts, and rehearsals are soon underway.

In the short span of a month, characters must be created, lines learned, sets designed, and technical facilities adjusted.

Summer quarters saw the production of "The Tender Trap," one of the many Broadway plays seen at the college. "The Hasty Heart" in the fall quarter transposed the audience to a hospital in England during World War II.

George Bernard Shaw's "Arms and the Man" was the comedy of winter quarter. The spring quarter offering was Moss Hart's "Light Up The Sky".

Several of the Players have earned membership in the national drama honorary society, Alpha Psi Omega, by their dramatic endeavors; but the primary reward for them all come as they perform for the audience in the Little Theatre.

The Georgia State College Concert Band serves a three-fold purpose.

Instruments are in the hands of music students who have the opportunity to work as an integral part of an ensemble, under the guidance of trained instructors, and the conducting of Mr. William Hill.

Other students and their friends hear the Concert Band during performances in Assembly, and special events like the Spring Festival. The band has also made television appearances and gone on tours to play before civic clubs and high school audiences.

The third benefit to their college then, is the good will they foster for Georgia State wherever they perform, as well as the advertisement of a good music department.

The basketball team and the whole college appreciates the work of the Cheerleaders who performed at the games.

Chosen by auditions early in the fall quarter, the members of the cheerleading squad spent many hours composing and learning the short routines which pep up the breaks in the course of a basketball game.

Now they have been joined by the newly-formed majorette group which also sports the Georgia State "G." Together these girls work hard to improve college spirit through athletics.

majorettes cheerleaders

Georgia State's Baseball troops played 16 games last year and are scheduled to play a somewhat tougher schedule this year.

The Panther nine, coached by Herbert (Stoney) Burgess, played some top teams and were effective against the best. The team played Mercer University, which boasts of having one of the better nines in the State and fell to the Macon crew by 3-1 and 3-2 margins. It might be mentioned that this same Mercer team walloped Auburn, a top South Eastern Conference contender, by six-point spreads each time they met in '59.

Despite the loss of several key players, Georgia State has high hopes for the 1960 season. Bill Ivey, Bill Barr and Bill Johnson are three returning lettermen who definitely will give the offense some spark, while several new prospects in the pitching department promise a fine mound corps.

baseball

Georgia State's basketball five played one of the roughest schedules in the college's history.

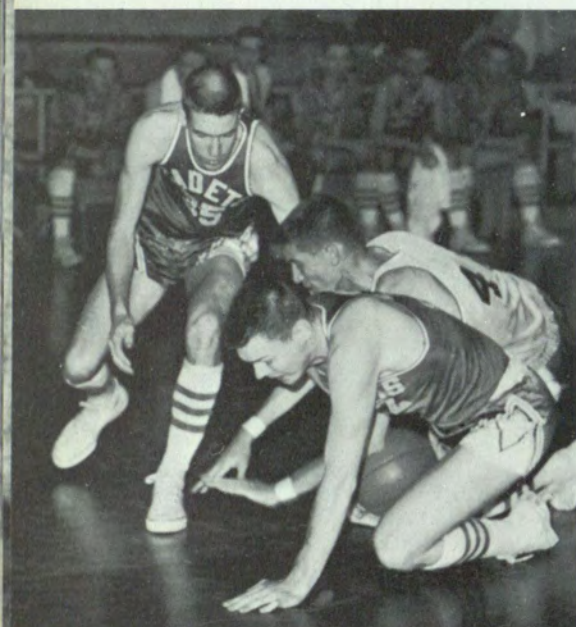

Coming up every year, the basketball Panthers played such teams as Tennessee Wesleyan College, University of Chattanooga, Newberry College and Saint Bernard College—all without the benefit of a single scholarship. The players never had to leave a court in disgrace, for in spite of lack of scholarship players the Panthers still managed to knock down some steadfast teams.

Most of the teams Georgia State beat were in the Georgia Intercollegiate Conference, which has gained prominence throughout Georgia. Valdosta State College and North Georgia College are two who tasted defeat at the hands of the "Ivy Street Crew" plus mascot.

basketball

Georgia State's "starting five" had only one senior—Gene Powell, a 6-4 forward who saw three years of front line action. The remainder of the team was composed of sophomores and juniors. Frank Doherty, a 6-5 junior, held down the center post. The prominent 22 on Frank's jersey was always in the middle of rebounding action as was the 42 worn by Powell.

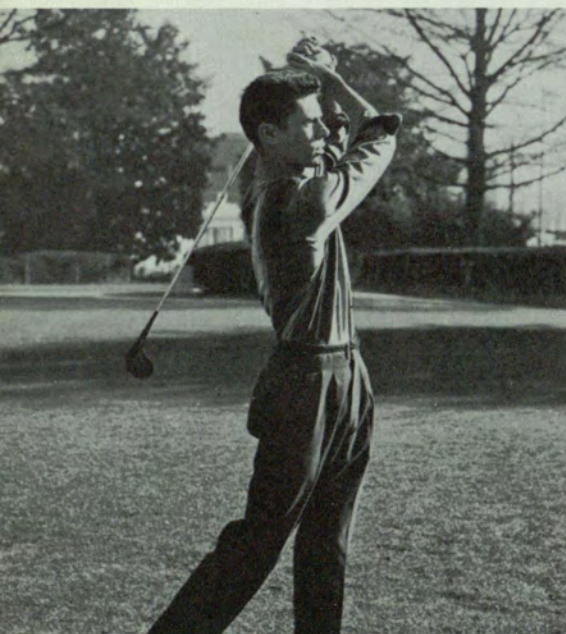

Jimmy Stone and James Garner held down one guard post while soph George Costner (10) held down the other outside position. Opposite Powell at the forward position was sophomore David Dyer. Dyer at 6-3 was another Panther player who was among the starters and continually in the backboard scenes.

Coach Burgess' sixth man was dependable 44 Glenn Morgan. In the picture on the opposite page Coach Burgess, known by the players as "Stoney," reflects the tension of a game as seen from the bench. Subs Bill Connor, Mike Webb, and resting Morgan look on at the action of the floor.

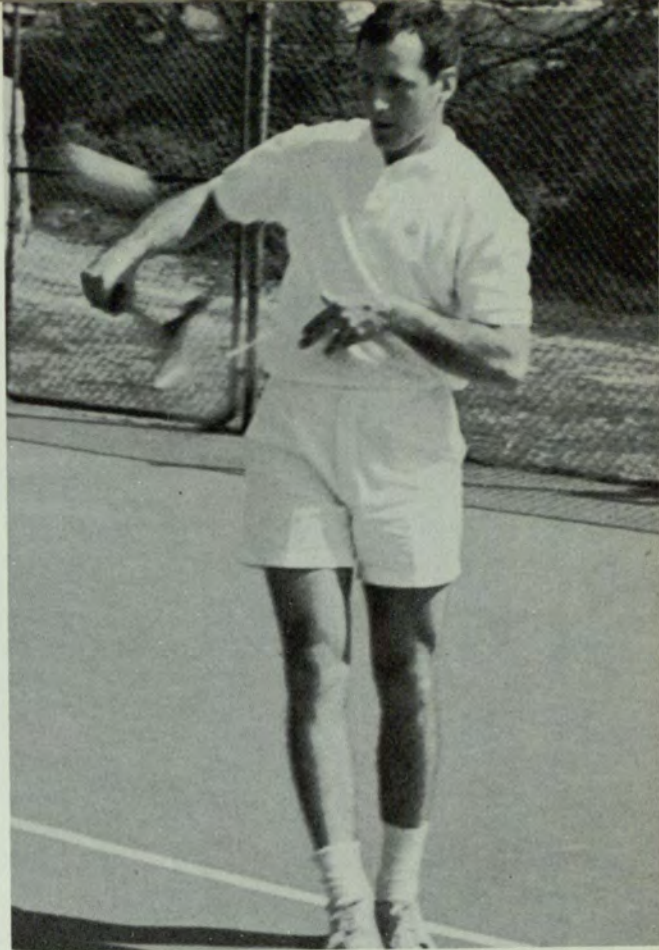

During the 1959 season, the Georgia State golf team had an improved season, winning half its matches.

A strong finish against the University of Georgia indicated high hopes for this year.

The 1960 schedule includes tough competition, with matches with both Georgia and Tech. The return of Jim Mikel and Harley Chambers, plus several new players makes the team look strong and should present good results.

golf

Coach Francis Bridges, in his fourth year as tennis mentor, took the best balanced team Georgia State has put on a court into 14 top flight matches this year.

With four juniors and two sophomores on the squad, the Panther netmen met teams from the Universities of South Carolina and Georgia, Stetson, Mercer, Emory University, and Jacksonville University.

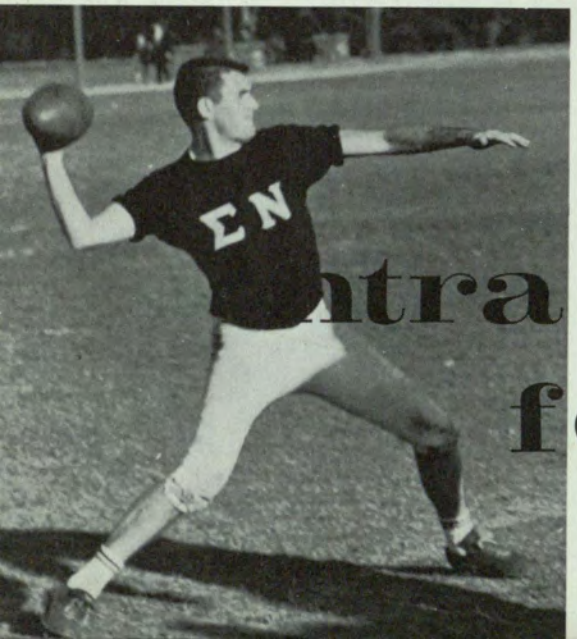

Bob Clark, Roger Jones, Marcus Strickland, and Pat McGlon were the more experienced players. These boys have been on the team for three years.

Danny Touchon, Charles Hall, Sam Frankell, and Johnny Robinson were players who provided the additional strength to win the various matches. Each of these players had at least one or more years of experience.

tennis

Without a College football team, Georgia State uses fraternity football as a good and entertaining substitute.

Football champions this year were the players of Sigma Nu. Pi Kappa Alpha was the only team to defeat the "Snakes" this year and even so the score was a close 6-0 margin. However the Sigma Nu's came back in the playoff game and defeated the Pi K A's.

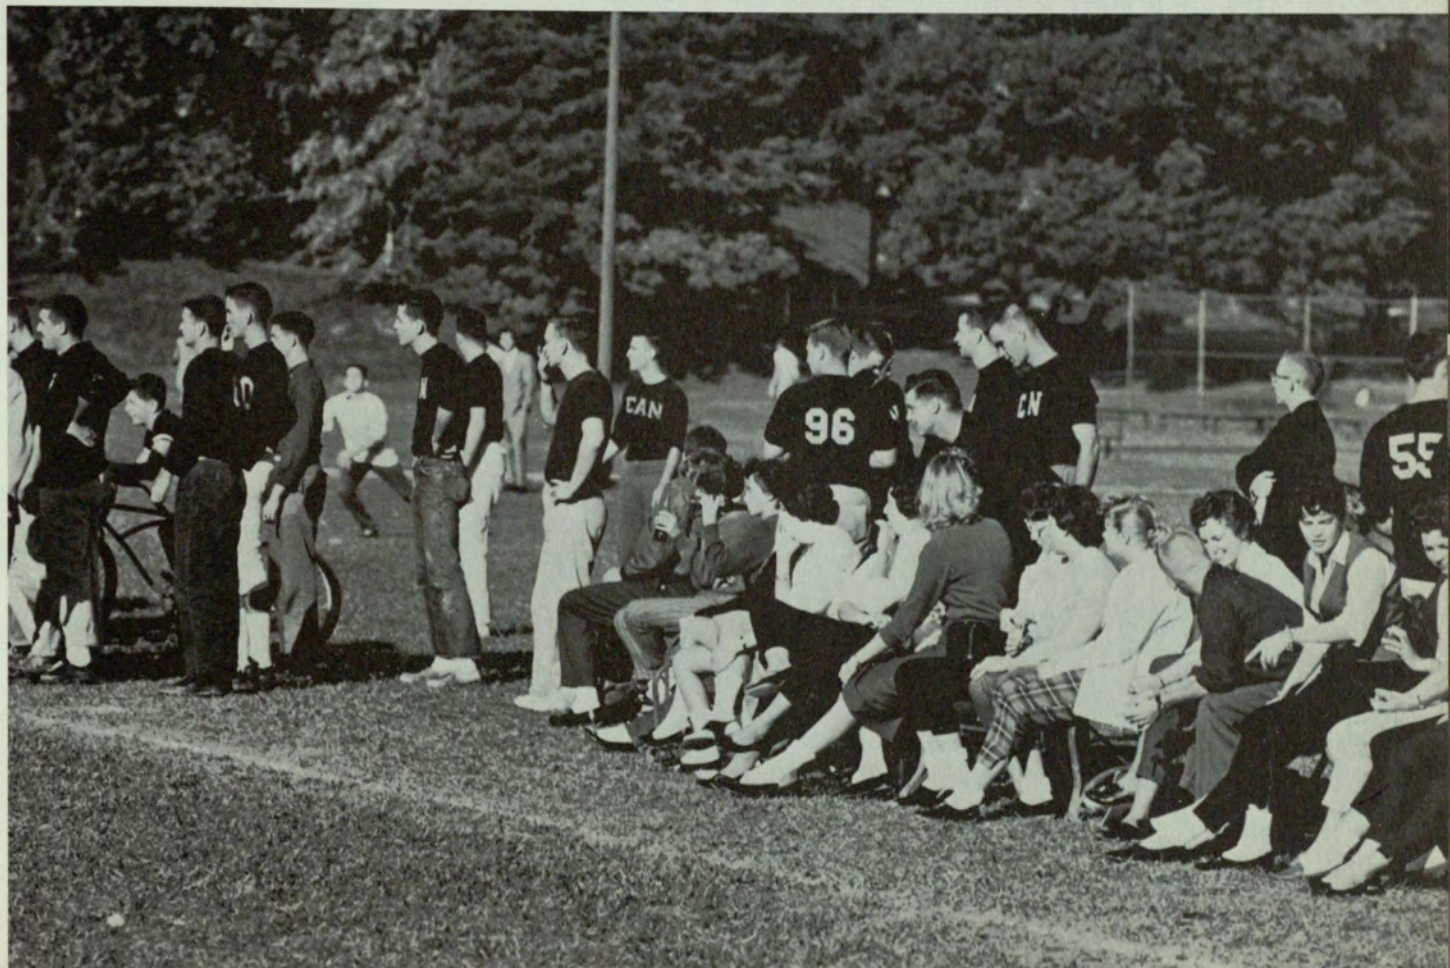

The playoff came as a result of both Pi Kappa Alpha and Sigma Nu holding identical 4-1 records.

Sharp defensive play and breaks when they needed them gave the "Snakes" a 13-0 victory margin as well as the IFC championship.

intramural football

Intramural Basketball was played this year under the direction of the Interfraternity Council, with the men's social fraternities participating.

Kappa Sigma won the championship by edging out Pi Kappa Alpha in the last game of the season. Sigma Phi Epsilon was second while Sigma Nu and Pi Kappa Phi were next in the final wrap-up. Fraternity ball clubs averaged around 44 points per ball game.

The contests were held at local gyms throughout the city, and competition was tough as fraternities fought for prestige in the winter sports program.

As the sun begins to thaw out the baseball and softball diamonds of Piedmont Park, the Interfraternity Council begins its intramural softball season.

With all the men's social fraternities participating, the season's games are usually highly contested outings. Two games a week are played in this local fraternity pastime.

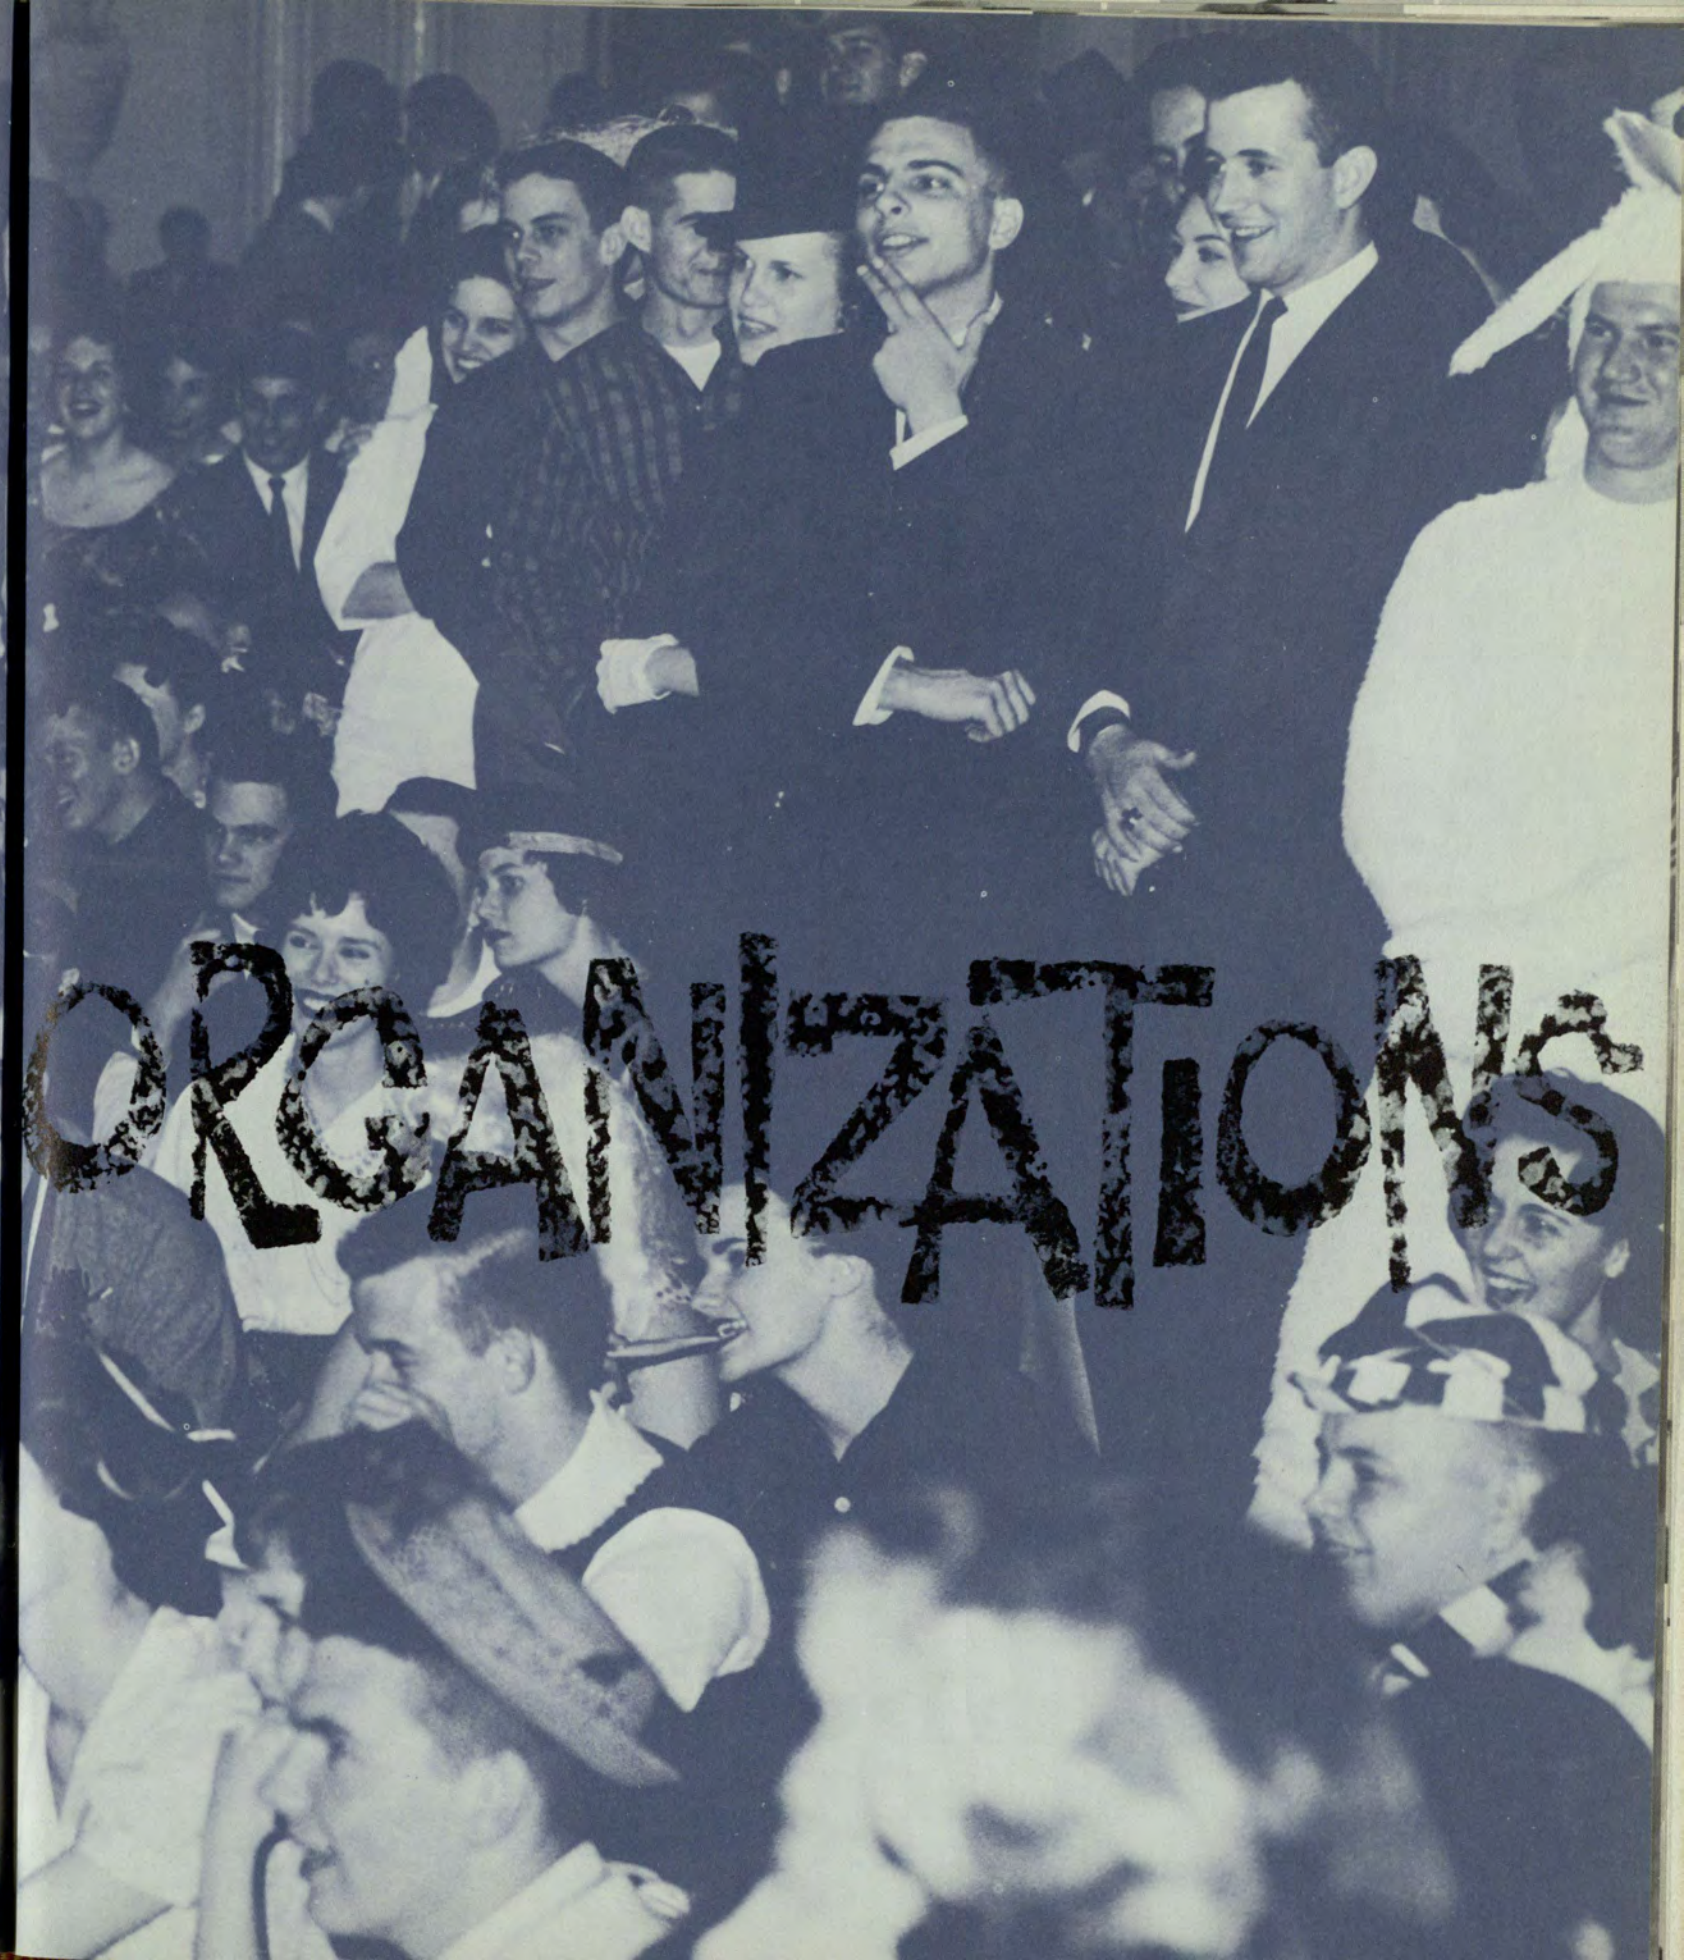

In 1959 Sigma Nu won the trophy and went undefeated in season play. Vernon Huff, Sigma Nu's ace pitcher, fired his team to five straight wins and no losses.

Sigma Phi Epsilon and Pi Alpha (Pi Kappa Alpha) were next in the standings.

National sororities plan joint endeavors through their representatives on the college Panhellenic Council. The most important coordinated effort of the Council is formal Rush, held at the first of the college year.

Although one of the smallest organizations on campus, Delta Phi Epsilon participates actively in college events.

They hold a Pledge-active party in the fall quarter and a dinner honoring new initiates in winter and spring quarters.

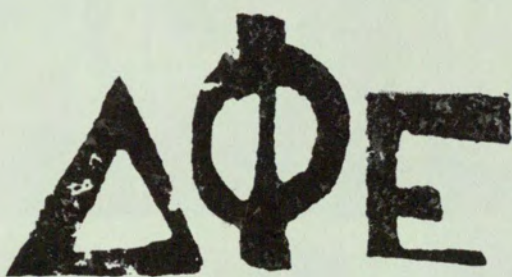

Two of the "sorors" in the Delta Mu chapter graduated in December with academic averages high above a 5.0 throughout their college careers. They were elected to Crimson Key in recognition of their scholastic ability and service to the students at the college. Another member has been listed in Who's Who for two years. The sorority won the 1958-59 Scholastic Award for a National Panhellenic sorority.

The twenty-fifth biennial international convention of the sorority was held in Atlanta in December, 1959. Delta Mu served as one of the host chapters for the convention.

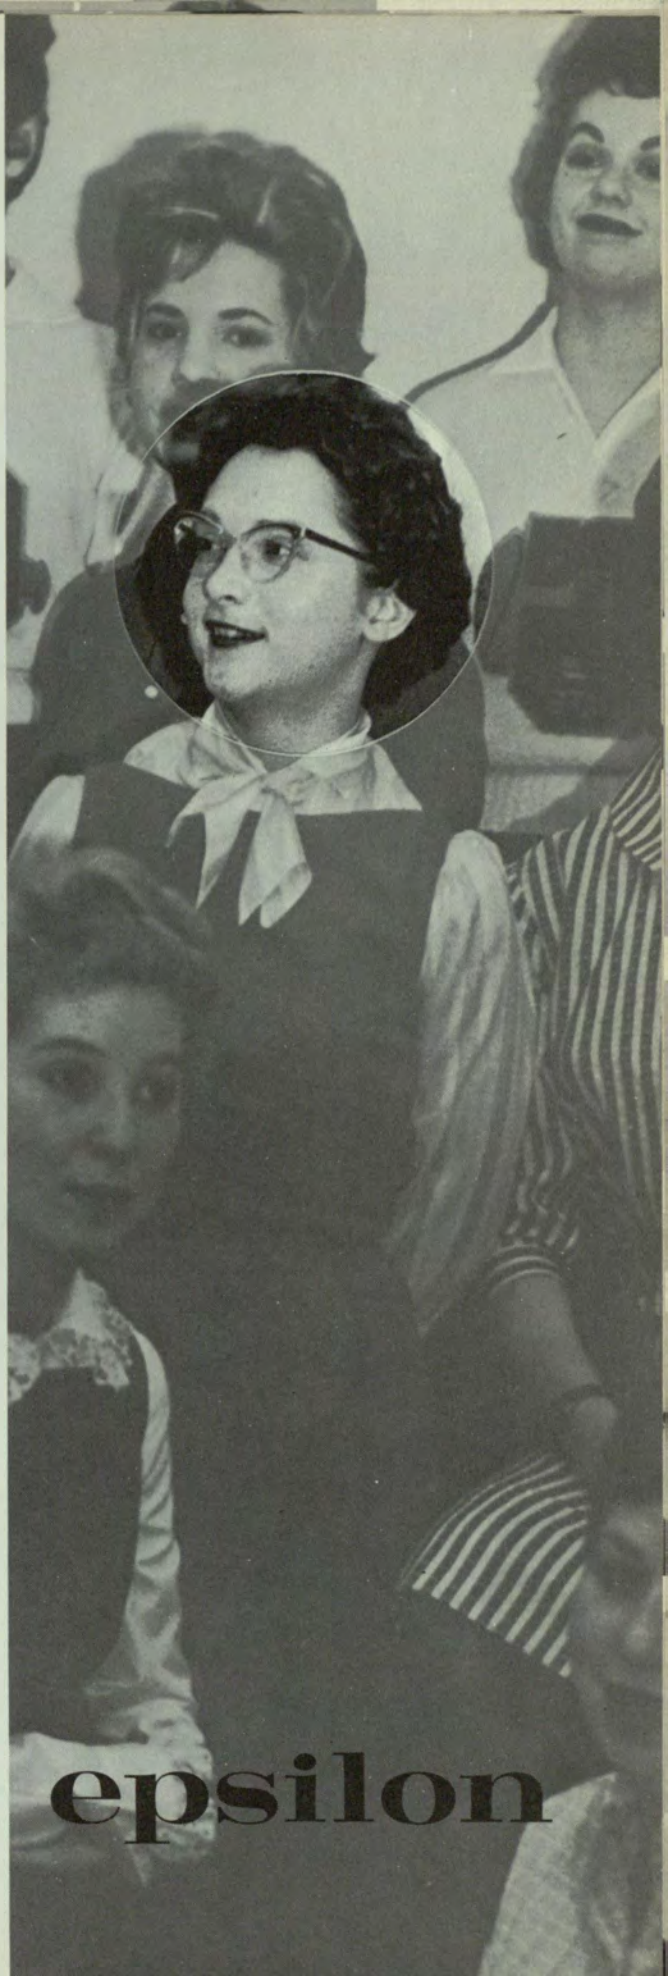

Nationally, Delta Phi Epsilon has an award citing an outstanding man or woman who has distinguished himself during the period involved. The recipients include Edward R. Murrow (1955), Adlai E. Stevenson (1957), and Leonard Bernstein (1959).

Officers of the sorority are President, Perle Mossman; President of the Pledge Class, Dorothy Lewis; and Secretary-Treasurer of the Pledge Class, Betty Sacks.

Founded by Mrs. Nell H. Trotter, Dean of Women, as a night school sorority in 1937, the Theta's have grown from a night school sorority into a day and night social organization.

Though primarily a night division sorority, Kappa Theta rushed day school students for the first time during the winter quarter of 1959 for the purpose of pledging students who did not wish to affiliate with a national sorority.

The sorority's colors are Green and Gold; the flower is the Talisman Rose. The Crescent is the emblem of the sorority. Each year the organization sponsors the Kappa Theta Cup, the Margaret Slocum Award and the Helen Cochran Award to deserving members who have shown outstanding qualities during the year.

Scholarship, Brotherhood, Leadership—that is Kappa Sigma. The Kappa Sigs hold editorships on the Rampway and the Signal. Besides having Jerry LeCroy as president of IFC, the group also holds the honor of having seven actives on the Student Council, including two class presidents.

In scholarship, Kappa Sigma offers two scholarships annually to two deserving brothers. These scholarships are given in the winter and spring quarters and greatly encourage academic superiority.

Kappa Sigs are active socially too. They held their annual Black and White Formal at the Hellenic Center in Atlanta, and later on in the year had their Summer House Party at Cherokee Lodge on Lake Burton in North Georgia.

Some outstanding members of Kappa Sigma include Hoagy Carmichael, Edward R. Murrow, Drew Pearson, Estes Kefauver, and David Nelson.

Pi Alpha became the Epsilon Nu chapter of the national fraternity Pi Kappa Alpha on February 25, 1960. This installation brings the number of chapters in Pi Kappa Alpha to 133. Atlanta now becomes the only city in the U. S. to boast three chapters in Pi Kappa Alpha.

Their initiation was the highlight of the fraternity's college year. Other outstanding events were the Playboy party and their annual Beachcomber party.

During the current year Pi Alpha was awarded the trophy for outstanding service in connection with the George M. Sparks Scholarship Fund and won a stereo set in the Marlboro cigarette pack contest.

Dean Paul G. Blout was initiated into Pi Kappa Alpha as the fraternity's faculty advisor.

When Pi Kappa Phi fraternity became part of Georgia State College, it became the first national fraternity to be installed on the campus.

Since this installation Beta Kappa chapter has upheld the principles and policies of the national organization. Beta Kappa has proven itself to be an outstanding member of the parent organization. The fraternity has over ninety chapters and twenty thousand members.

Harmonious accord and unfaltering loyalty to the college and its administration; an enrichment of life through everlasting bonds of brotherhood, and the opening of doors of fraternal communion to all eligible students at Georgia State are the desires of Pi Kappa Phi.

During the year Beta Kappa held its annual Hawaiian party, Dogpatch party, and the highlight of the social year the Rose Ball. The chapter also observed Founders Day on December 10.

Sigma Phi Epsilon was "wild" at their Tennessee Mountaineer Party and many other social events throughout the year. In addition to this forest party, the Sig Eps also held their annual Sweetheart Ball in May. The SPE's sweetheart this year is Homecoming Queen.

While parties are important to the SPE's, they also participate in many worthy charity activities. Their Summer Camp for Underprivileged Children is the only one of its kind held in Georgia and is sponsored by the brotherly SPE's. The Sig Eps also were the first ones to establish a fraternity club for mothers and wives of brothers, known as the Golden Heart.

On campus the SPE's continually seek to maintain lofty ideals of brotherhood, scholarship, and fraternalism.

Outstanding members of the national organization include such famous personalities as Woody Herman, food authority Duncan Hines, motion picture star Tom Ewell, and Victor Anderson, governor of Nebraska.

foundation

During the year Westminster Fellowship offers a variety of programs to promote the Christian faith in the academic community.

There were talks by local pastors, a tape recording of a sermon by the Rev. Peter Marshall, and a parody on the death scene in "Death of a Salesman." Other programs were centered around the question, "Why Praise God?"

In addition to the regular Chapel devotional programs, the Presbytery Rally was held in the fall, a Synod retreat in the winter, and a Westminster Fellowship retreat in the spring.

Officers are: President, George Weber; Vice-president, Mary Rogers; Secretary, Patty Crum; and Treasurer, Helen Eickhoff.

Progress and action—These are two words that can define the Pershing Rifles organization at Georgia State.

Since 1958 when Clint Buckner brought the PR's into the limelight, until the present date, the PR's have had sound leadership. Their members rank higher than average in all phases of military activities. This year the organization placed three candidates on the Who's Who list in college affairs and bolstered spirits by taking a leading part in May Day ceremonies. The Pershing Rifles participated in the Regimental drill meet this year.

Its members are nationally affiliated with the organization that was founded by General John J. Pershing in 1894 at the University of Nebraska.

Officers of the organization are: Captain, Joe Bran; Executive Officer, Donald Berry; S-1, Bill Hayes; S-2, Ernie Quickel; S-3, Wayne Hastin; and S-4, Richard Dickerson.

The Society of Scabbard & Blade is a national honorary military fraternity. Since 1905 it has been the nation's highest ranking military fraternity with a current enrollment of 139 active chapters and 79,000 members. The Georgia State Chapter was established in 1954. Membership is by invitation only.

Principal on-campus activities of Scabbard & Blade include co-sponsorship of the Annual Military Ball, the presentation of awards to outstanding members of the Cadet Corps, and general assistance to the ROTC Program.

Officers are: President, Don Germano; Vice-president, Davis Tarrer; Treasurer, Gene Powell; and Secretary, Richard Creasman.

Members of Sword and Shield are distinguished by a maroon and gold fourragere on the shoulder, plus a ribbon of the same colors worn over the heart.

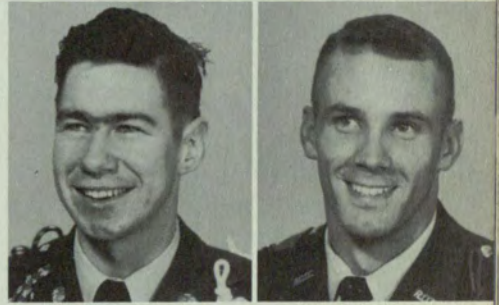

The local military fraternity strives to promote a more amicable relationship between basic and advanced cadets. They co-sponsor the Military Ball and hold quarterly parties.

Officers are President, Lynn Daubenspeck; Vice-president, John Blair; Secretary, Wayne Fuller; and Treasurer, Hugh Allen.

The annual Military Ball of 1959 was held at the Atlanta Biltmore Hotel on March fourth. The 1959 Ball saw Cadet Colonel John H. Cowart present the Battle Group Sweetheart, Miss Brenda Smith.

Miss Smith, who was escorted by her fiancée, Cadet Captain Clint Buckner, was the eighth sweetheart of the military cadets since Georgia State first picked up the Reserve Officer Training Corps program in 1951.

Sponsored by the Scabbard and Blade, Sword and Shield, and Pershing Rifles military fraternities, the Military Ball provided entertainment for all ROTC cadets and their dates.

1960 has produced the ninth Battle Group Sweetheart, Miss Penny Hill.

A Federal Inspection team, composed of officers from various colleges and universities in the third army district, rated Georgia State as "superior" in the Spring review of 1959.

During these inspection tours the Battle Group obtains its standing and rate, as compared with other colleges and universities in the Third Army district.

The inspection is thorough and complete from the rifle racks, to the individual cadets at "Inspection—Arms."

The most memorable occasion to any cadet completing the four-year ROTC program is when he is administered the oath of an officer in the U. S. Armed Forces.

On completion of the oath he receives the bars of a second lieutenant of the regular Army, ready for a tour of active duty.

This ceremony puts the finishing touches on a college degree.

Because of the ROTC program, another officer has been trained through the program of the original Land Grant for military training, first devised in 1862.

commissioning

The summer between the junior and senior years of each advanced student's time in ROTC is spent at Summer Camp, held at Fort Benning, Georgia.

At this time his capability as a leader and future officer of the United States Army is thoroughly tested. Practical problems are transferred from pencil and paper to actual experience in the field.

The cadet puts to practical use his knowledge and experience, and gains confidence by actually employing military tactics and handling weapons.

This is "Boot Camp" for the advanced students.

summer camp

Pre-drill meeting for advanced corp cadets is conducted before each drill. At this time the Standing operations procedure for each drill is explained completely.

After Cadet Colonel Don Germano elaborates on the coming day's drill and answers all questions pertinent to the drill, the Professor Of Military Science And Tactics, Lieutenant Colonel Culp, briefs the advanced corps on their weaknesses and ways for possible improvement.

Through this instruction the cadets in turn are better able to help the basic cadets by setting a correct example.

Georgia State welcomed a new PMS&T in October. James L. Culp, a lieutenant colonel with 20 years service in the Army, carries on in the job previously held by Col. David - - Professor of Military and Science and Tactics.

classes

The Battle Group Commander barks "Pass in Review." At this command, the band begins to play and the companies take the first step of the review by the Battle Group staff and other regular Army personnel.

Success of a company passing in review is gained by each cadet's cover in the proper manner, each cadet marching with correct cadence, head and eyes straight ahead.

Each company is judged by the cadet staff and Professor Of Military Science And Tactics as to excellence in carrying out the commands as well as other military principles.

Competition among companies is keen and the outstanding company of the day is awarded with an early release from drill or some other comparable favor.

The Master of Business Administration degree will be awarded for the first time in June. Those who will receive the graduate degree this year are members of the class which was admitted in the fall of 1958. They will have devoted two years to the program of the Graduate Division.

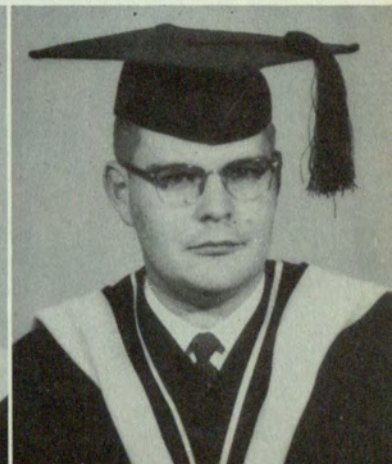

The primary objective of the graduate program is to prepare men and women for positions of administrative responsibility in business, governmental, and other organizations. Preparation for administrative positions requires a broad understanding of business and organizational problems, an intimate knowledge of effective methods for solving them, and a subtlety of mind in the recognition and solution of problems. The graduate program is designed to provide the student with such knowledge and understanding, supported by a moderate specialization in a particular area or organizational activity.

and a word from the editors

The RAMPWAY '60 comes to you from the students and faculty members who began work on it last June. We sincerely hope you like it.

The cover and near-square dimensions, the use of color on the division pages, and the vertical layout set it apart from its predecessors. All of this required many hours of planning, experimenting, advising and checking.

We owe special appreciation to our faculty advisors, Mr. Joseph Perrin of the art department and Dr. Kenneth England of the English department (both shown above in a rare moment of relaxation).

They spent much time going over the different segments of the book with us—always asking how it could be made "just a little more distinguished."

We're proud of the results; we hope you enjoy it; and we thank everyone for the opportunity to have produced this RAMPWAY '60.

F

INE PRINTING SINCE 1887—

That's the story of Foote & Davies, Inc.

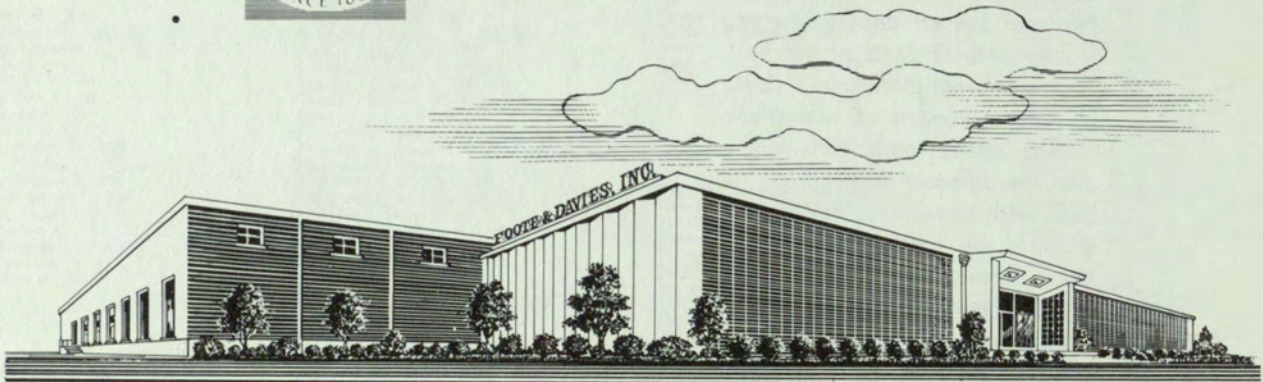

Today we have one of the most modern and best equipped plants in the country. And fine Yearbooks have always been an important part of our business. Our craftsmen believe in quality and strive to produce the "best in the Industry." Our excellent printing doesn't just happen—it's a combination of production research, craftsmanship, and painstaking supervision.
