HAPPENINGS

"At Georgia State it's easier to be yourself. Come with an open mind and be ready to experience." Marlys Moxley

JUST FOR FUN ... WHAT ARE YOU AT GSU?

Are you a preppy? I know you are simply dying to know the answer to the question: What is a preppy? Well, before you blow your cookies and go straight to boot camp, I'm going to tell you.

Technically a preppy is a student attending a private school for preparation to enter college. However, at Georgia State University the word preppy has an entirely different meaning. "Preppy" is a mindset and a way of dressing that tends to set the individual apart from other.

PRISCILLA PREPPY: She shows a decided preference for woolen skirts, both plaid and solids. She likes to wear oxford cloth shirts (mainly in pastel blue, yellow, or pink) and blouses that have lace within the general vicinity of the neck. Wool pullover sweaters with at least two initials embroidered somewhere on them are also a favorite of our Lady Preppy. Everything can be covered by a basic navy jacket. As for shoes, penny loafers are usually worn with knee-socks, but "no pennies please!" Other shoes for the preppy look include topsiders and slip-ons with little tassels on the top.

Jewelry for the Preppy Lady includes add-a-bead necklaces - with everything from gold to pearl and jade beads added and serpentine and herringbone chains, usually accompanied by charm-holders hung with gold charms of every description - especially popular are hearts, "10," and "Nobody's Perfecte."

PETER PREPPY: He is characterized by very short hair, almost always parted on the side with a boyish wisp of hair "accidently" brushing his forehead. Peter wears essentially the same wardrobe as Priscilla Preppy — sans the lacy blouse, and of course he wears khaki or navy slacks instead of the wool skirt.

THE WESTERN LOOK: These people can be recognized by their preference for Western boots, jeans, belts, shirts and occasionally for the more adventurous, Western hats taken off in the classroom of course.

COW PATTY: She brings a bit of the West to downtown Atlanta by dressing like Dale Evans in one of her old Western movies. She wears denim skirts, gingham blouses, Western hats and boots. If Patty has a lot of money, she can often be found wearing red or even blue Western boots.

To dress things up, Patty likes to rely on peasant blouses and ruffled skirts in calico prints worn with coolie flats or ballet shoes.

Recently there has been a tendency for Patty to slip to the other side with the Indian look — this is characterized by beaded moccasins and beaded belts.

COW CHIP: Here's a man who, if he plays his cards right, can have that gusty, macho ppearance of having just been the subject of a Marlboro cigarette ad. For this man, the only jeans that are fit to be seen in are those that appear to have served on the open ranges and dusty plains of some Texas prairie. These are topped with plaid and solid Western shirts. Boots with a distinctively Western appearance serve to complete the look. However, they must have that special snub-nosed styling designed to duplicate the bow-legged and saddle-sore loping gait of the true range hand.

NEW WAVE (Also referred to as the Punkus Extremeus): If you have ever seen a person with turquoise hair and safety pins for earrings and it wasn't Halloween, you have probably seen a person dressing "Punk." Before you run to the campus counseling center or even the infirmary, let me put your mind at rest: it was real and you did see it. In Punk dressing anything (with a capital "A") goes.

THE NEW WAVE MALE: This person likes to wear his hair parted in the middle with fluffy wings that are combed straight back. They are fond of wearing dress shirts with tiny collars that are usually light pink. This type of male likes to wear extremely thin neckties in mostly dark solid colors. He usually wears very loose, boxy jackets with narrow lapels and baggy pants that narrow at the ankles. He often completes this look with beige cloth jazz oxfords.

When Mr. New Wave goes casual, he usually wears very (very, very, very) tight jeans and a plain white short-sleeved T-shirt that is invariably accesorized by a pack of cigarettes rolled up in one sleeve. This attire is then finished off with black motorcylce boots sporting toes that are as pointy as possible. Rumor has it that the pointy toes assist the wearer in walking a straight line when entering class after a long night of partying. However, no conclusive evidence is available at this time.

THE NEW WAVE FEMALE: This is the lady who usually dresses in two-piece skirt suits that could almost be considered conservative, if it weren't for their cheery range of colors (like fuschia and chartreuse) and the deep slit creeping up the side of her skirt. Whether she is wearing boots or shoes, the New Wave Female has to have her stilleto heels. Make-up is no problem for this lady - the heavier the better. Once in a while she will surprise you by wearing blue, green, or black lipstick, just to see if you'll notice. Helpful Hint: If you want to make her day tell the New Wave Female that she looks like either Rocky, Magenta, or Columbia in the "Rocky Horror Show."

> MISS OR MRS CONSERVATIVE (The word Ms. is not in her vocabulary): Here's a lady we all know. Her manners are impeccable and her taste is infallible. Miss Conservative can usually be found in basic suits that come in colors like charcoal gray, navy, or beige. She wears suits that have a classic cut and will last her for years. Miss Conservative would never dream of wearing a slightly fitted jacket or a tight skirt. Slits are an absolute no-no. Other no-no's include bright colors, heavy make-up, large or obvious jewelry, and high heels (unless they are classic pumps).

> MR. CONSERVATIVE: If you have ever done a double-take because you thought you had seen President Ronald Reagan gracing the halls of GSU, you've most likely run into Mr. Conservative. Like our lady conservative he never over-dresses in any way. Mr. Conservative can usually be seen wearing charcoal gray or dark blue suits with matching vests. On occasion he will don a beige suit just to update his image. A necktie in dark colors is a standard fixture where Mr. Conservative is concerned. This necktie is held in place by a very plain gold or silver tie clasp. Whether his shoes are brown or black, slip-ons or oxfords, Mr. Conservative would much rather stay home than be seen in public wearing shoes that do not bear that spit-and-polish shine.

JOCK: The wardrobe of the jock is essentially the same whether the jock happens to be either male or female. Both male and female jocks tend to wear their hair short and very neatly cut, but the female of the species can occasionally be seen to have shoulder length hair pulled back into a single ponytail. The female jock is the one wearing clear lipgloss and mascara. Guy jocks usually dress like Bruce Jenner in one of his early Wheaties commercials. Jocks can be seen on campus wearing jogging suits and running shoes. With the first rays of warm weather and sunshine, they erupt in tennis whites sporting a tennis racket in one hand and tennis balls in the other. These people really have a deep concern for the care and maintenance of their bodies; health is important to them. So if you want to really scare a jock just tell him that he has gained a few pounds since you last saw him. Then say, "Hey, don't worry. It looks good on you!"

VOGUE "STYLISH": These are the people who look like they have just stepped out of a fashion magazine, and they probably have. They care how they dress, and they pursue that never-ending task of always looking right.

SUZY STYLISH: She is happiest if she can have a designer label on everything she wears, whether it be a blouse, skirt, dress, handbag, shoes, jeans or anything else. Suzy is concerned about fashion. If it is new, she will probably have it first. Of course, fashions don't always have to make sense for Suzy to try them. If the ladies' fashion magazine Vogue says wearing potatoe sacks (with the potatoes still in them) accessorized with a half-frozen pizza attached to the head will be the new "in" fashion, who is Suzy to argue with Paris. She prides herself on trying anything at least once.

VICTOR VOGUE: Always tries to add a dash of panash to our campus. A devotee of Menswear Daily, Victor wears bulky knit sweaters and plaid wool mufflers in the winter, and golfing shirts and tennis sweaters in the spring. Victor's hair is never cut; it is styled instead.

Although not quite as designer conscious as his female counterpart, Victor most often will try to avoid anything unusual. As everyone knows, attracting too much attention would be just plain gauche.

DESIGNER JEANS: Everyone seems to be into the designer jean craze. Whether they've got the Jordache "look," they're one of Wrangler's "tough customers," their Gloria Vanderbilts fit "like the skin on a grape," or "nothing comes between them and their Calvins."

Today anyone can get in on the designer jean act. Male and female, skinny, fat, short, tall, big, or small. So far the only observable drawback is the price.

S. French

ANYTHING GOES: If you haven't seen yourself yet, this is probably you. The person who falls into the "Anything Goes" category dresses "Preppy" one day, "Western" the next, and may even combine the two looks the following day. This person slips from a conservative suit or dress to jeans and a silk shirt with the ease of a quick change artist. This is the person who sets his or her own trends and cultivates his own style to suit his lifestyle needs and particular personality. They know that whatever suits them on a particular day is "right" for them.

EVERYTHING WENT: A last word must be reserved for the "Everything Went" dresser. This is a person who carries the "Anything Goes" type a little to far.

The year 1980 has not been highly unusual as compared to others, especially by Georgia State standards. As many or all students have learned, anything that can happen here usually does (i.e. Murphy's Law).

For instance, music took a turn for the better. Disco and anything with a close semblance died and was quickly replaced with New Wave, Punk, basic rock, and quite successfully I might add. For those nonbelievers, consider the three night sellout of the B-52's, or even the two nights of The Ramones. The top albums for this year included The Pretenders, The B-52's Wild Planet, and Argy-Bargy from Squeeze. In Atlanta, evidence of change came when The Bistro reopened under auspices of Baby and The Pacifiers. Club 688 strived to be the local CBGB's by bringing in major punk stars like Iggy Pop for five nights. Local groups, The Brains and The Basics, were as popular in New York as they were in Atlanta. Plaza concerts also reflected the changing tastes. We witnessed such performances by Lobe Tan, The Mistakes, Plazza Drugs and a session from the Downtown Executives (run by Georgia State's on Pam Cross) which had more students performing than were in the band. Never fear though, the oldies are still going strong especially when Sandy Beach played them on WRAS replacing Ron Ricks.

Films are still the major form of entertainment on the Concrete Campus, although TV took an upswing as the world watched and waited to see who shot J.R. Ewing. Unfortunately, this was not the best year for the film companies as witnessed by the multi-million dollar Heaven's Gate which flopped before it hit the theatres. Then, there was the strike by the Screen Actors Guild which complicated things, but no mind, State students found many films to like and dislike. The favorites were The Empire Strikes Back, or Star Wars Part Two as it was fondly referred to; Clint Eastwood's Bronco Billy and Any Which Way You Can; the directorial debut from Robert Redford, Ordinary People; Fame; The Long Riders; Stir Crazy; Airplane; The Elephant Man; Friday the Thirteenth and like always, The Rocky Horror Picture Show.

George Lefont, a familiar name among students, who always strives to bring us the new and innovated was true to his word. He delighted us all by bringing some of the best films this year to Atlanta. Among his offerings were The Great Santini, Australian film My Brilliant Career, The Return of the Seacaucus Seven, The Tin Drum, and his Silver Screen Classics which shall remain in a class by themselves.

Like I said before, this was not the best year in film and most students vocalized their dislikes more than their likes. Major sore spots were Rudy Boy, Realm of the Senses, The Blue Lagoon, Terror Train, Willie and Phil, Cruising, Urban Cowboy, Can't Stop the Music, The Blues Brothers, The Blue Lagoon, and The Blue Lagoon.

Lyceum, which has been recognized by many major Atlantans as well as students as one of the best film programs of its kind, presented some major film happenings with its screenings of Summer of Love, The War at Home, which included an intense discussion, and the quarterly Student Film Festival.

And there were the usual zany stunts that have come to be expected such as The Rock and Roll High School Punk Contest, Lolita at Lyceum, and the several bedecked and bejeweled who were handing out Kleenex at the screening of Lana Turner's Imitation of Life urging us to cry for Lana. One never knows what to expect at a Lyceum screening and perhaps that's for the best.

All in all, perhaps this wasn't such a devastating year. Many of us could have done without the side effects of the film Urban Cowboy, the major effects of Brooke Shields in The Blue Lagoon, and the senseless death of John Lennon. I think it's known as live and learn, so next year gang, let's think and try to make more good films than bad, ban disco completely from the airwaves, prohibit Gay Talese from writing about The Neighbors Wife and prevent Brooke Shields from making a sequel to The Blue Lagoon.

ENTERTAINMENT '80

Sissy Spacek stars in "Coal Miner's Daughter," which is based on the autobiography of Loretta Lynn.

Brooke Shields and Christopher Atkins are two teen-agers shipwrecked on an island in "The Blue Lagoon."

Irene Cara and Lee Curreri do a song and dance number in "Fame."

Jessica Harper and Woody Allen star in "Stardust Memories."

THE SHADOW BOX

Death is a difficult subject to deal with in society.

Michael Cristofer's The Shadow Box is a story of three families who must each deal with the heartache of a relative who is dying. The play displays how both the victim and the family members can suffer through a long and painful terminal illness.

The setting is a forest where three cottages on hospital grounds are inhabited by terminal patients for medical and psychological observation.

This selection was certainly a challenge for the Players last spring, as the play called for acting at a highly emotional and intensified level.

The Shadow Box was directed by Dorset Noble and produced, as all the Players' productions are, by James E. Sligh.

The actors were Madeleine St. Romain (the interviewer), Gary Anderson (Joe), David Cross (Steve), Cheryl Marynell (Maggie), Joe Vickery (Brian), James Spencer (Mark), Vicki Constantinides (Beverly), Lynn Summer (Agnes), and Maggie McMillan (Felicity).

Beverly and her ex-husband, Brian, talk lightly of his illness and near death.

Agnes calms her mother, Felicity, as she cries out for her other daughter, Claire, who has been dead for years.

FREE TO BE ... YOU AND ME

When eight children and eight adults combine acting and singing talents on stage, Free to Be ... You and Me may very well be the results you get.

The Players presented Free to Be ... You and Me during the summer, and received enthusiastic responses from both parents and youngsters alike.

The play consists of a collection of short stories with moral twists. Many of the stories were sharp and catchy. Others were ironic and satirical, and still some scenarios were soft and touching. All were appealing and well interpreted by the cast.

James E. Sligh directed the production. Musical director and choreographer was Burg Blanton.

A delightful cast included Tommy Aberway, Chuck Couture, Bruce Goldberg, Susan Gooding, Debby Harke, Kim Jacobson, Edward McNally, Beth Reid, Jennifer Sligh, Alexandra Stynchombe, Donna Summers, Andy Walton, and Darren Williams.

GODSPELL

Superb song and dance lit up the Players stage fall

lighting director Dorset Noble. The talented and energetic cast included Judy Arman-droff, Debby Harke, Freddie Hendricks, Rabbitt Jones, Patty Maquire, Eddie Owen, Nicole Phillips, Robert Wayne, David Willoughby, and David Willis. Music was provided by Jeff McIntyre on piano, Gary Brown on guitar, David Gentry on drums, and Joey Cruel on bass. Godspell was conceived by John-Michael Tabelak. The talent behind the music and lyrics is Stephen Schwartz.

The cast of Godspell display their energy and talent during two weeks of performing.

The Alumni Association at Georgia State University is working hard to make "The 80's Belong to GSU."

Ten million dollars in 10 years is a challenge the association faces to meet its fund raising goal.

One way to stimulate support among alumni is to educate, motivate, and activate the fundraising plan, according to alumni president Charles McDonald.

The first step in educating the alumni has already begun. Each member of the board is recruiting 10 other alumni who will be trained as GSU spokespersons. Each selected alumnus will, in turn, contact five other alumni to seek financial support.

Through loyal support, more than 44,000 GSU alumni can help make this university even stronger in the '80s.

Mr. Charles E. McDonald Jr., alumni president; Dr. Catherine E. Miles; President Noah Langdale Jr.; and Executive Vice President and Provost William M. Suttles.

Alumni volunteers add these graduates to the alumni record system. "Alumni registration" is held quarterly. The volunteers pictured are Lynn Lawson, Dana Meeks, and Ned Richards.

MS.RAMPWAY

Twenty girls were the center of attention in the Urban Life Auditorium on October 24th. The 1980 Ms. Rampway pageant attracted 70 GSU girls for this year's competition.

An enthusiastic crowd of about 300 students, friends, moms, dads, brothers and sisters were present to cheer for their favorite entry and listen to the musical talent of Dan Cater.

A former Miss Kansas, Richelle Williams was crowned the 1980-1981 Ms. Rampway. Richelle competed in modeling casual wear and an evening gown. She also answered a question that reflected her quick thinking.

Fourth runner-up was Eloise Hendrix; third runner-up was Indy Bradley; second runner-up was Becky Reddy; and first runner-up was Sheryl Llewellyn.

The judges were Velda Denton, T. J. Flowers and Wesley Patillo from the Bauder Fashion College. Mark Kullberg of Hunter Publishing Company was the fourth judge. Mike Garretson, general manager of WRAS, was the Master of Ceremonies.

The other 15 semi-finalists were Wendy Bailey, Ericka Cruz, Beth Ducatel, Debra Galloway, Sheila Garnette, Mary Goodman, Stacey Graham, Leslie Keighron, Arlene Kirkland, Angelia Latners, Renee Mills, Robin Morrison, Melissa O'Rear, Betsy Reese and Vicki Smith.

GREETINGS FROM INCEPT

In its eleventh year the Georgia State University orientation program, Incept, has earned quite a name for itself in the southern United States.

Every summer approximately 3500 students participate in one of the Incept conferences preceeding their first quarter at Georgia State. Nine conferences are held with all the details planned exclusively by the 26 student inceptors.

The program is divided into freshmen and transfer student conferences.

Both of the conferences consist of campus tours, class advisement, and registration. They also include marketplace, where the organizations on campus are invited to tell the new students about their group.

Campus and faculty dialogue featuring student leaders and key faculty members fulfill the agenda.

As compared to the one day transfer conference, incoming freshmen participate for two days and spend the night at the Marriott Hotel in Atlanta.

Gary McMinn talks to inceptees about the Sigma Nu fraternity.

Tours are a frequent responsibility for inceptors.

Inceptees browse through past RAMPWAY yearbooks at marketplace.

A board of governors is chosen by the outgoing governors during winter quarter. The 1980 Board of Governors included Kathy Wilson, Mike Tiller, Lee Ann Simmons, Marsha Shockley, and Barbara Lindberg. William Pate served as president. Each inceptor is required to take a spring quarter public relations class taught by Dr. Harold Davis. The class is designed to help the Inceptors learn how to effectively relate with people.

An important part of the inceptor's job is to know the facts and history of GSU. Many times during the year they are asked to give visitors a tour of the campus.

The sign says it all!

Inceptor Mark Kopkin entertains his group of inceptees.

The Student Government Association Leadership Conclave is a weekend retreat designed to help student leaders improve their leadership skills — skills which will not only help them as students but which could also be beneficial after graduation.

The retreat, held the weekend before fall quarter began, is the final result of many months of planning. The twenty-four member SGA conclave committee, headed by Chairman Burch Kinard, began planning at the start of summer. Camp Mikell in Tocooa, Georgia was this years's location for the retreat.

Two members of each organization on campus were invited to attend the retreat, which included workshops, speakers, and entertainment.

Ice Breakers began the events for the weekend. Through name bingo, human machines and other interesting games, the 142 participants were introduced to each other.

Students attended workshops which involved topics on financial management and effective writing. Several Deans, administrators, and professors from Georgia State University taught the workshops.

The highlight of the weekend was Saturday night's address by Atlanta Constitution columnist Lewis Grizzard. Grizzard's principal topics were his love for Georgia, the southern states, and collegiate football in the southeast.

Of course time was available for swimming, volleyball, and dancing.

Meeting new friends is a great benefit of attending the retreat. Participants wait for a workshop to begin.

One of two spacious parking lots at the new terminal. Midfield supplies Atlanta with more gates and four concourses.

Delta and Eastern were in competition for the first arriving plane at Midfield.

DELTA

Atlanta is now the home of the largest airport in the world, and the second busiest. The William B. Hartsfield Atlanta International Airport, formerly Midfield during construction, was open with full service September 21, 1980, months before its expected completion.

The new complex covers the area of 45 football fields and provides airline service to every major metropolitan city in the United States as well as Europe, Mexico, and the Caribbean.

Adjoining the North and South Terminals are two six-thousand space parking lots that are fenced, lighted, and attended 24 hours a day. To accommodate handicapped persons, one hundred of these spaces are located near the terminal.

Travelers can walk, use the moving sidewalks, or board the transit system, popularly known as the people movers, to reach their gates.

Inside, the terminal is decorated with art that conveys the modern setting of the structure — a structure that was completed within budget, and which was constructed by minority companies.

The former airport terminal looks like a ghost town.

"Enjoy the ride" ... for 50¢

Inflation really hit Atlanta when MARTA (Metro Atlanta Rapid Transit Authority) proposed a fare increase of 25 cents. Immediate reactions were visible from activist groups, political leaders, and Atlanta residents.

These people fought hard to keep the fare at 25 cents, but MARTA said that with the growing inflation, it must make more money to remain in full service. After MARTA compared its fare charge with other transit systems across the country, U.S. District Court Judge Marvin Shoob ruled MARTA well within economic and legal boundaries.

On July 26, 1980, the 50 cent increase became effective in Atlanta. Concerned citizens said that the increase would cause problems for the poverty strickened, the elderly on fixed incomes, and students whose only transportation is MARTA.

Nevertheless, people continue to ride MAR-TA without complaints. They need the transportation and realize the situation of the U.S. economy.

Since the increase, MARTA has cut some of its routes and is talking of another increase in the near future.

A passenger enters an empty train station. People leave the train in a hurry. It costs 50 cents to ride MARTA now.

ANNUAL AFFAIR

For five years now, the Players have presented Robert Luttrel McBath dramatizing short stories by Sir P.G. Wodehouse as a Valentine's Day celebration.

"Strychnine in the Soup" was performed on February 12 in the GSU Student Center Theatre during the 10 o'clock break.

Robert McBath interprets Wodehouse's "Strychnine in the Soup" with his expressive style and wit.

SPECIAL ART

The Urban Life Center displayed artworks October 10-17 by members of the Fine Line Exhibition, an organization for the physical and socially handicapped.

Twenty-nine year old Rick McClung's paintings were a major part of the display.

This self-taught painter, who lost his left arm in 1978, creates scenes of Atlanta and its people.

The growing intensity of the handicapped to be accepted by society is evident in a quote by McClung to the GSU SIGNAL, "I want to be known as a artist, not a handicapped artist ..."

McClung's "The Soul Man" looks on a painting admirer at the exhibit.

A BRIGHTER FACE FOR GSU

You may have seen the lights as you left school one evening, or you may have noticed them as you rode into town on MARTA in the morning: the Urban Life Tower brightly shines with the GSU logo facing north and south, and the words Georgia State University facing east and west.

In the planning for over a year, the signs were finally lit winter quarter, 1981. Their cost was $30,000, which came from a general institution fund.

The signs are made of aluminum and acrylic. They are lit by a photo-cell, which turns them on at night and switches them off in the morning. The GSU letters stand 48 in. tall, and the Georgia State University letters stand 30 in. high.

Planners hope that the signs will improve the image of Georgia State, and help the university to have a greater visibility in the city.

Two workers challenge the Urban Life Building.

A NEW LOOK

Georgia State's newest acquisition, the Municipal Auditorium, is expected to be completed by fall quarter, 1982. The building was purchased on October 31, 1979 from the City of Atlanta for $1,375,000. Total construction cost to renovate the auditorium for university use is expected to be $4,080,000.

When the building is completed, it will house an Early Childhood Education Laboratory (the Day Care Center), a Communications Laboratory (the Speech and Drama Department), the University Archives, the Personnel Department, the Placement Office, the Alumni Office, the Development Office, Publication and Printing offices, an Information Stand and an expanded parking lot.

READERS THEATRE OVER THE CUCKOO'S NEST

It is amazing what the Speech and Drama Department at Georgia State University can do with room 115 in the General Classroom Building. The Readers Theatre's production of Dale Wasserman's One Flew Over The Cuckoo's Nest is a classic example of what actors and director can accomplish under less than ideal conditions.

Director Linda Burson Lewis transformed the tiny room into a mental institution, with walls painted a harsh green and actors costumed in authentic hospital clothing.

With a talented cast who displayed wide varieties of emotion, The Readers Theatre successfully created a mental institution inhabited by diversified characters who have lost all hope, and one man's venture to give the patients, and perhaps himself, the courage to live again beyond the hospital's walls.

The delightful cast included Gary Anderson, Cork Bowman, Joy Williams, Paul Alarcon, Matt Daley, Curt Paschal, Tim Johnson, Madeleine St. Romain, Keith Franklin, and Steve Hoffman.

Nurse Ratched emphasizes hospital rules to the doctor. Billy Bibbet tells R.P. McMurphy about the dreaded Nurse Ratched. Chief Bromden grasps for strength from his dead father.

"JOAN OF ARC"

If anyone can transform a tiny classroom into a dungeon, a tavern, a court, and a busy marketplace, Bob Watson, this years director of the Readers Theatre can.

The Speech and Drama Department presented Bertolt Brecht's "The Trial of Joan of Arc" fall quarter in room 115 of the General Classroom Building.

Watson arranged the audience's chairs around the center of the room, so the play could be acted in every corner and the center, Joan's cell.

This innovative production was received well by its audiences, and SIGNAL writer Anicia Lane said it best when she wrote, "Watson and his troup deserve a standing ovation for having the guts to try the risky and the talent to pull it off."

The actors were Elizabeth Nix, Randy MacIntre, Kathleen McWhorter, Ellen Wilds, Marlys Moxley, Lenore Guirreri, Dwight Mills, Julia Posey, and Randy Palmer.

In the marketplace, the voices of the peasants can be heard defending their maid Joan.

Joan is sent back to prison after she recants before the court of religious officials.

The Bishop, Midi, and Manchon await Joan to explain her voices and male attire.

PINBALL WIZARD

For seven weeks, avid student pinball players competed on the Firepower pinball machine in the J.C. Camp Student Center Gameroom at Georgia State University.

The Total Audio Visual Services, Inc., who supplies the gameroom with game machines, sponsored the pinball contest.

On February 16, six winners met to play for a prize of $250 or a pinball machine. All six finalists received a Panasonic AM/FM radio for their victories thus far.

Steve Parker, with a score of 834,750 points, won top prize and chose the money.

The other finalists were Mike Nowell, David Barnaby Pearce, Derrek Conley, and Stanley C. Hawkins.

Michael Ash, Assistant Dean for Student Services, said that it is not definite whether the pinball contest will become an annual affair.

Contestants go for it.

Parker is congratulated by T.A.V.S. representatives.

EXPRESSIONS ... "AN EXPERIMENT IN LIFE"

Georgia State University's 1981 Black Renaissance Arts Festival offered students, faculty and visitors a variety of expressions in the form of paintings, sketchings, photographs, pottery and rope sculpture.

The items were on display on the second and third floors of the Urban Life Building during winter quarter.

Observers were treated to the talents of Andy Cunningham, Al Curtis, John DeVard, Jerome Lawrence, Sheryl Rainey, and Cheryl Sims.

Atlantan freelance artist John DeVard, captured many a passerby's attention with his unique rope sculpture.

The 24-year-old native of New York creates three-dimensional motifs with nylon fibers, cords, wood, feathers, and other "earth materials."

DeVard's sculptures have been featured on display at, among other U.S. cities, the John F. Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C.

Chorale groups, movies and a theatre presentation also contributed to the festival's activities.

GOING UP?

Drinks for everyone — except 18-year-olds. Many teenagers were angry with the decision to raise the state's legal drinking age to 19, excluding those 18-year-olds on active military duty.

Even though the new law will be enforced, the penalty for selling alcoholic beverages to minors has been reduced from a felony to a misdemeanor. It is also a misdemeanor for minors to possess alcoholic beverages, and a minor can now testify against a storeowner, for example, who sells him the beverage.

The new law, proposed by State Senator Joe Thompson of Cobb County, is designed to curtail teenage alcoholism in high schools. Thompson originally proposed 21 as the legal drinking age.

FULL OF FUN

On October 31, 1980, Georgia State University broke the world's record for stuffing bodies into a van.

Sponsored by the GSU Recreational Department, the first annual van stuff was a huge success — 73 Georgia State students were crammed into a 1970 Dodge van.

Sigma Nu Fraternity won the All-University-Champion title in intramural van-stuffing with a total of 60 brothers smashed into the vehicle.

"It may be the first and only annual event," said John Krafka of the Recreation Department.

"It was more fun than anything else, something to get people fired up," he added.

Krafka has entered Georgia State into the Guiness Book of World Records, and expects the event to be in the 1982 book.

For the final "stuff-off," Krafka and the Recreation Department found all the "little people" around campus. With these "little people" cooperating in their small way, Georgia State University succeeded in breaking the world's record for van stuffing.

JUST SOUTH

Last year a group of enthusiastic thespians in the Department of Speech and Drama formed a club called Hit and Run Productions. All shows were acted and directed by students. The debut plays were even written by students.

This year the group changed its name but not its motto. The Drama Shop, as it is now known, urges all students to submit their own plays to the group, and participate in any way possible.

Audiences were delighted fall quarter by two plays written by senior speech and drama student, Sande Cropsey, who tickled funny bones with "Life Like a Fair" and "Save Me, Oh Lord!," an encore performance.

Both plays by the talented Ms. Cropsey were done in narrative style and performed in room 115 of the General Classroom Building.

The actors in "Life Like a Fair" were Deborah Respress, Jeff Whitfield, Sara Thornberg, Catherine del Papa, and Tommy Entrekin.

The actors in "Save Me, Oh Lord!" were Cork Bowman, Cecelia Smith, Gary Anderson, Majella Hardie, Heather Hodson, and Sande Cropsey.

The mean Bertram Hoole threatens the cranky Mrs. Poteete, the preacher's wife.

The narrator talks of Preacher Poteete's plans to save Bertram Hoole.

Bertram Hoole plans to kill his retarded sister and himself by crashing his car.

Dixie Starr is the talk of the town. The unnamed preacher dares the congregation to repent their sins. Preacher Poke cleanses the sins of Dixie Starr, and experiences an event he believes is spiritual.

LEARN AND ENJOY

Dept. of Continuing Education

Season for Self, sponsored by The Division of Continuing Education, offers personal enrichment, non-credit courses designed for the general public. Course catalogs are available every quarter in the Urban Life Building. Information in the catalog describes what will be included in the course: the day and time, the cost, the location and who will be instructing.

The cost for attending ranges from $10 to $70, depending on the length of the class and the supplies that are needed. For instructors, Season for Self employs Georgia State University faculty and professionals from the field.

Fall quarter was successful; the popular classes such as "All Aboard for Birmingham and a History of Trains in the South," "A Day at the Atlanta Historical Society," "How to Make Old-Fashioned Georgia Christmas Decorations," and the various cooking and dancing classes were all a sell-out.

Winter quarter was a time for self-improvement. "Investment Strategies for Women," "Career Development," "Computer Skills," and "Beginning Dance" attracted many participants.

The first quarterly edition of Season for Self was held in the summer of 1975, and consisted of 10 courses. Now Season for Self offers more than 68 courses in its program.

SAY IT WITH A POEM

Where else in Atlanta can you indulge in a love for literature on Friday afternoons? The Georgia State University English Department fills the need by sponsoring a poetry reading series each quarter.

Every other Friday in the 10th floor faculty lounge of the General Classroom Building, students, faculty and staff members assemble to hear professional or aspiring writers read their works.

Spring Quarter 1980: Readers were Jerry Cullum, lecturer and poet; Norman Finkelstein, editor of the literary magazine Daimon; Van Brock, professor of creative writing at Kent State University; Stan Sullivan-Perry, Atlanta writer and actor; Ruth Kolani, part-time professor at Georgia State University; Arthur E. Waterman, Georgia State professor and Dr. William Evans, director of GSU creative writing classes.

Fall Quarter 1980: Readers were Turner Cassidy, Emory University librarian; Paul Zimmer, director, University of Georgia Press; Nancy Simpson Brantley, teacher in North Carolina public schools; Janice Moore, professor of English at Young Harris College; Susan Ludvigson, professor of English at Winthrop College and Raymond Cook, professor at Valdosta State College.

Winter Quarter 1981: Readers were Dr. John Stone, Grady Memorial Hospital cardiologist; Terrill Shepard Soules, Brown's Guide to Georgia staff writer; Drs. Edward Wilson, Eugene Hollahan and W.A. Sessions of the GSU English Department and Nat Anderson, graduate student at Emory University.

The session is directed by Dr. W.A. Sessions of the English Department and has enjoyed great success for the past two years. Next time you happen to be at GSU on a Friday afternoon, stop by and enjoy the readings, the company and the coffee cake.

Paul Zimmer reads selections from his latest book. A guest poet strikes a pose in her home. Dr. John Stone is a writer as well as a cardiologist.

IT'S BEEN A HECTIC YEAR — 1980's NEWS

CARTER VS. PETER COTTON TAIL

Nineteen-eighty was a big year for President Jimmy Carter, during which time he faced many battles on both the national and political fronts. His most fierce battle, however, turned out to be with a carnivorous rabbit in a Georgia lake last April.

While he sat alone in his canoe fishing, President Carter saw a beastly bunny swimming toward him with teeth barred and nostrils flared. The Secret Service stood on shore in abject horror, unable to come to Carter's aid.

Carter thought quicker than you can say nuclear proliferation; he bashed the vicious-soggy-cottontail on top of the head with his paddle. Fortunately this display of bravery was too much for the renegade rabbit who left immediately after receiving his Excedrin headache compliments of the President of the United States.

THE STING

Abscam became a household word in 1980 when an FBI agent, posing as an Arab sheik, filmed Philadelphia congressman Michael O. Meyers accepting an envelope containing $50,000 with the understanding that he would help the "sheik" with immigration problems.

Meyers and the four men he shared the money with, Camden of New Jersey, Angelo Emicletti, Philadelphia City Councilman Louis Johanson and lawyer Howard Cirden, were convicted in the Brooklyn Federal Court on twelve counts of bribery and conspiracy.

The FBI produced nineteen indictments, including six against congressmen, with its controversial Abscam "sting" operation.

The charges were supported by audiotape and videotape evidence of the cash transactions. There was no evidence, however, that any of the suspects actually did anything for the money they received.

CHAOS

In May of 1980, a three-day riot in the Liberty City ghetto of Miami left 18 people dead and scores of businesses burned till, finally, the city had to be suppressed by 3,800 National Guardsmen who patrolled a 40-by-60 block area of the city.

The riots were the expression of rage that erupted when an all-white jury freed the four white policemen who were accused of beating a black insurance man to death.

TURNER TACKLES TELEVISION

June of 1980 delivered Americans a new concept in television when the Cable News Network, the world's first 24-hour-a-day network devoted solely to news, went into operation.

Cable News Network was a gamble by self-make, multimillionaire entrepreneur Ted Turner of Atlanta. Turner bet most of his fortune that an all-news network transmitted by satellite to cable systems across the nation would be a viable and, eventually, profitable venture.

Only time will tell if Turner made a good bet.

NO SHOW

The Summer Olympics, which began July 19, 1980, was hosted by the Soviet Union but boycotted by the United States in protest of the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan.

President Carter had a long and difficult battle convincing the American people and the athletes, many of whom had been training for several years, to support the boycott.

The President attempted to soothe the bitter feelings of the nation's athletic organizations with assurances that the 1980 Olympics could be moved from Moscow, that there would be popular support from other Western nations, and that prestigious counter-Olympics could be arranged.

He proved to be wrong, however, on all three assumptions.

Some American athletes pleading that the Olympics should not be used for political purposes said if they could be allowed to compete in Moscow, they would not accept Olympic medals in protest of the Afghanistan invasion.

In mid-April, after a long and bitter meeting with the U.S. Olympic Committee's House of Delegates, the group finally agreed to abstain from the Games by a majority of 2-to-1.

CUBAN REFUGEES

Miami, Florida was beseiged by a wave of 125,000 homeless and jobless refugees in May.

Fidel Castro agreed to permit people to leave Cuba, and a "Freedom Flotilla" was arranged to help transport the refugees to the United States. However, many of the ships transporting the Cubans were shrimp boats that brought the refugees illegally to the country. It soon appeared that Castro was ridding Cuba of its "undesirables," when large numbers of mentally-ill, aged, and convicted felons began cropping up among the refugees.

Of the 125,000 refugees about 110,000 were resettled in homes, 1,700 were placed in federal prisons and about 12,000 of the most troublesome cases remained at four refugees camps.

Conditions were crowded in the camps and riots broke out, which caused the refugees to form their own internal security force.

AMERICA: WHAT A WASTE

During 1980, Americans faced the potential problems of nearly 50,000 chemical waste dumps that have come to dot the United States since World War II. The Environmental Protection Agency fears that about 2,000 of these are hazardous.

Toxic waste is becoming this country's biggest environmental problem because, far less controlled than nuclear waste, it poses a greater health hazard.

In 1978 the residents of Love Canal, New York discovered they were living next to 21,000 tons of toxic wastes. Government officials declared a "health emergency" and relocated the 237 families closest to the dump site.

In 1980 government released the results of a chromosome test which demonstrated a larger than normal percentage of the remaining Love Canal residents had chromosome damage.

Toxic waste has made it necessary for the temporary relocation of the remaining 710 families, and now Americans are aware of the growing problem that improperly dumped chemical wastes pose to public health.

KILLER QUAKE

Italy experienced the deadliest earthquake to hit Europe in 65 years in December of 1980.

The killer quake, which measured 6.8 on the open-ended Richter scale, leveled hundreds of towns over 10,000 square miles of mostly impoverished, rugged countryside from Sicily to the Alps.

Within one week the death toll had reached 3,000 and, according to the numbers of still missing people, it could go as high as 10,000. Many people who were buried alive under tons of rubble died because there were no rescue teams available.

A total of 179 communities were damaged and 310,000 people lost their homes.

Many people lacking food, housing, and medicine died even though they survived the quake.

The disaster was intensified by the Italian government's lack of plans for handling such an extensive disaster. First the government reacted by denying the quake and refusing foreign aid. When aid was finally accepted, it was often delayed by government red tape for several days.

The Italian government temporarily relocated some of the survivors in sea-side resorts. The rubble was then sprayed with formaldehyde to reduce the chance of disease. Many of the cities lost in the earthquake had survived Pompeii thousands of years ago.

ANGRY VOLCANO

Even saints and ladies can blow their tops when the time is right.

On May 25, 1980 Washington State's 9,677-foot Mount St. Helens blew its top with a force that was 500 times more powerful than the Hiroshima bomb.

This was the first volcanic eruption within the continental United States in over 60 years, and the most destructive.

Thirty-five people died in the blast which turned the mountains' surrounding lush forest lands into a desolate moonscape.

The blast shot a stratospheric cloud of grit ten miles up into the air. This cloud spread across the entire United States, dumping tons of soft gray ash as far east as Montana.

Scientists have calculated that within hours of Mount St. Helens' eruption, the same amount of ash, mud and molten minerals was spewed as Mount Vesuvius produced when it buried Pompeii and Herculaneum in A.D. 79.

OUT OF THIS WORLD

While earth monitored its progress in November 1980, the unmanned spacecraft Voyager I completed the final phase of its journey as it past the rings of Saturn. The second largest member of the sun's family, Saturn was seen for the first time in glittering clarity.

During its two-day encounter with Saturn, the robot ship that is commanded only by computers, cruised by Saturn's moon Titan coming within 2,500 miles of its surface.

Once Voyager I was near the planet, cameras took pictures of Saturn's thousands of rings, some of which were braided. According to scientists, before the returned photographs were observed, it was believed that Saturn had only six rings. Researchers are still confused by the rings that are braided, since this phenomenon goes against the laws of gravity.

The spacecraft skirted within 77,200 miles of Saturn's cloudy surface at its peak velocity of 56,600 miles per hour, before heading out of our solar system on an aimless journey among the stars.

HOT TIME IN THE COUNTRY

Early in June a blanket heat wave began in the southwestern United States sending temperatures as high as 119 degrees, and claiming at least 122 lives — one of the worst heat waves the U.S. has ever experienced.

It was so hot in Texas that birds were reported falling dead from the sky, and automobile windows shattered in the heat.

As roads buckled and cars stalled a section of Interstate 40 in Oklahoma actually exploded from the heat.

Over 36,000 acres of tinder-dry woodland went up in flames in Arizona and Colorado.

In Arkansas, 2.2 million broiler chickens died in their coops from the intense heat wave.

Josip Broz Tito, 87. He ruled Yugoslavia for nearly 35 years. Tito broke with Stalin in 1948 to fashion his own form of Communism which featured touches of capitalism in the form of "selfmanagement". He was well known for his help in founding the "nonaligned" movement in the 1950's, which most Third World nations claim to support.

Mae West, 87. Known as the original blond bombshell, the Brooklyn native delighted 1930's movie goers with her naughty one-liners that made fun of sex. Known for her phrases — "C'mup'm' ... see muh some time," and "When I'm good, I'm very good, but when I'm bad, I'm better."

Jesse Owens, 66. A black-track-and-field star who crushed Hitler's hopes of using the 1936 Berlin Olympics to showcase Aryan supremacy, when he won four gold medals.

Alice Roosevelt Longworth, 96. President Theodore Roosevelt's eldest daughter and the wife of House Speaker Nicholas Longworth. As a Washington hostess she was best known for her biting wit and the advice she had embroidered on her sitting room pillow, "If you can't say anything good about someone, sit right here by me."

Allard K. Lowenstein, 51. A former congressman who campaigned for liberal causes. He organized young activists in the 1960s, was a civil rights organizer, promoted the 1967 "Dump Johnson" movement, and launched Eugene McCarthy in a bid for the presidency. A onetime political disciple shot him to death in his New York law office.

Steve McQueen, 50. His china-blue eyes and macho roles helped make him one of the biggest box-office stars in the 1960s. His films include "The Great Escape" and "The Sand Pebbles." McQueen died from cancer of the chest and during the last months of his life he underwent controversial treatment, that included laetril, in Mexico.

George Meany, 85. Known for the blunt lectures he was fond of administering to U.S. Presidents and the public alike. Meany began life as a bronx plumber. He came to prominence as the president of the AFL-CIO from its beginnings in 1955 until 1979.

Clyfford Still, 75. He was an abstract expressionist painter who shunned both the label artist and all the trappings of the art world. In an effort to disperse the European legacy of cubism, surrealism, and the Bauhaus he was known for covering his canvases with exaggerated jags of color.

WE REMEMBER ...

Harold Clurman, 78. Best known as one of the founders of the innovative Group Theatre in 1931; he was an actor, director, producer and critic. For five decades he brought a cultural, social, and moral force to American theatre with his presence at Broadway openings.

Dorothy Day, 83. Best known for founding the Catholic Workers movement in 1933. She was a militant pacifist and social activist who was said to be good at, "comforting the afflicted and afflicting the comfortable." When called a saint she replied: "I don't want to be dismissed so easily."

William O. Douglas, 81. Served a record term of 36 years as a Supreme Court Justice, known best as a champion of the First Amendment by trying to safeguard the rights of individuals.

Jimmy Durante, 86. Made a career out of pulling playful jokes and singing silly songs that began on a New York vaudeville stage and ended on television screens in a career that spanned 65 years. His closing line was always, "Good night, Mrs. Calabash, wherever you are."

Alfred Hitchcock, 80. He kept us squirming in our seats with the cinematic suspense he aroused in 53 movies crafted to play on our nightmares as well as our anxieties.

Alexi Kosygin, 76. Served as the Soviet Premier from 1964 until last October. Known well as a politician-engineer who, assisted by Leonid Brezhnev, removed Nikita Krushchev from power in 1964.

Katherine Anne Porter, 90. Best known for her short stories which dealt with, "self-betrayal and self-deception, in all its forms." She once said, "I am interested in the individual thumbprint." Her works included "Pale Horse, Pale Rider" and "Flowering Judas."

Jean-Paul Sartre, 74. A French existentialist and philosopher who first embraced Communism and later Maoism. Influenced many postwar intellectuals and is best known for his contention that God is dead and so man can only define himself through his own actions.

Peter Sellers, 54. An English comedian known for his portrayal of many diverse characters including the mentally unbalanced Dr. Strangelove, clumsy Inspector Clouseau of the Pink Panther films, and the gardner turned presidential adviser from "Being There."

Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, Shah of Iran, 60. He became the Shahanshah (King of Kings) of Iran when he was 21, and was exiled ten years later. In 1953 the CIA helped him regain power and he proceeded to change his country from a feudal nation to a modern state. In 1979 he was forced to flee Iran once again when his reform-minded "white revolution" came into conflict with traditionalist Muslims and sparked a revolt. His exile took him to five countries before he died in Egypt.

LENNON

Soon after singer-songwriter John Lennon was shot to death on December 8 at the Dakota apartments, hundreds of mourners began to assemble themselves in front of his home. They brought flowers and pictures and tears, while singing such wellknown tunes as "All You Need is Love."

The nightmare began when Lennon returned from an evening recording session with his wife, Yoko Ono. A 25-year-old man appeared in the entrance of the Dakota apartments, called out Lennon's name, and proceeded to shoot him four times with a .38 caliber revolver.

Pronounced dead on arrival to Roosevelt Hospital fifteen blocks away, surgeons tried to revive Lennon for 30 minutes but finally had to surrender to the severe wounds in his chest, back and shoulder.

Questions quickly arose as to why Mark David Chapman, who apparently worshipped the 40-yearold former Beatle for 15 years, senselessly ended Lennon's life with violence.

When police arrived at the site, the killer was patiently thumbing through J.D. Salinger's classic novel of adolescent rebellion, "Catcher in the Rye."

Countless television and radio tributes would follow, including a 10-minute silent vigil requested by his wife on Sunday, December 14 at 2pm (EST).

She asked that people pray for Lennon the way he had prayed for the human race.

Films, films and more films. Lyceum has shown about 350 films in the last year and promises to show even more in the coming year.

The purpose of the Student Government Association's Lyceum Film Committee is to educate the audiences as to the ways in which film expresses ideas in an art form, to enlighten the audience through exposure to new filmmakers and their craft, and to entertain the audiences by showing the best products from around the world.

Lyceum Films seeks each quarter to present an overview of the developments and achievements of the world cinema. Through such a process, the program seeks to increase the public awareness of the role film plays in the social, political, cultural and artistic environment.

In the future, the program hopes to extend this educational function beyond the actual screening of films. This will be achieved through the development of workshops, seminars and extended classroom instruction.

Not content to just show films, however, Lyceum attempted to create events that would interest and entertain the student body.

Along these lines, television commentator Hal Suit appeared at a forum about the draft registration; film critics Eleanor Ringel and Jim Whaley talked about their craft; and artist Tom Cooper presented his multi-media show.

Lyceum has made an effort to involve the community in the act of filmgoing by putting on special shows. Last summer GSU played host to the Samuel L. Jones Boys Club, which attended an afternoon matinee of Rock n' Roll High School.

And it's all free.

"AMAZING ATLANTA — UPTOWN, DOWNSOUTH"

Atlanta is a city of the classic South with beauty, elegance, honor and tradition.

But Atlanta is also part of the new South with contrasting elements and widely divergent lifestyles.

Attractions are plentiful and varied in Atlanta major sports, amusement parks, theatre and symphony, resort complexes, museums and galleries, historic landmarks, nightlife, outdoor recreation and much, much more.

Historic Stone Mountain: Created to honor the Southern way of life, Stone Mountain Park is an educational, historical and recreational event for everyone.

The Omni: The Omni sports arena is the home of the Atlanta Hawks basketball team and the Atlanta Chiefs soccer team. The Omni International Hotel Complex, covering 5½ acres under a single roof is the home of fun and excitement. Designer boutiques, cinemas, restaurants and a 470 room luxury hotel surround a large ice-skating rink on the floor level.

Grant Park Zoo: Home of the famous Cyclorama, a three-dimensional panoramic painting of the historic 1864 Civil War Battle of Atlanta.

Fox Theatre: Finest surviving example of the great movie houses of the 1920's. A magnificent combination of Egyptian and Moorish architecture, the Fox is one of only two theatres designated as a national landmark. The beautiful ceiling of the Fox reflects the night time sky with twinkling stars, sunrise and sunset and moving clouds.

Six Flags over Georgia: A family theme park which offers rides, adventures, "screams and dreams." Six Flags is world-famous for the Mind Bender, the world's only triple-loop roller coaster.

Underground Atlanta: Located only two blocks away from Georgia State, the historic "city beneath the streets" features restaurants, boutiques and discotheques.

Atlanta is a dynamic city on the move, always growing, always changing. Gerogia State University is in the center of this historic and beautiful city and GSU is growing and changing too. Become a part of your city and your university.

Atlanta — a city without limits.

Halloween is not just for kids. All kinds of strange costumes were found on students at Georgia State this October 31. Some people were dressed in familiar characters, but many students were creative and had their own look.

Police warned parents this year to keep their children from trick or treating in neighborhoods at night, in order to prevent any more kidnapping or killings that have plagued Atlanta for the past year.

To compensate, many Atlanta clubs, bars, neighborhoods, and day care centers provided Halloween parties for children and adults.

The day of witches, ghosts, and goolies turned out to be a fun and safe holiday, although many neighborhood homes were disappointed they were not visited by trick or treaters.

The "Star Wars" gang was on hand to enjoy the holiday festivities at Underground Atlanta.

The Department of Speech and Drama's Readers Theatre gave audiences a memorable experience with the production of four plays by Lanford Wilson.

Robert Watson directed the plays with a minimum of props and costumes, using innovative theatre techniques. One play, Wandering (A Turn), was a five minute dialogue done in the dark over a speaker.

The energetic and expressive actors were Vicki Constantinides, Heather Hodson, Dana Hughes, Randy McIntire, Kathleen McWhorter, Elizabeth Nix, Karen Nowick, Randy Palmer, Heather Reed, Sara Thornberg, Tom Truett and Jack Wilhite.

Sara Thornberg, Tom Truett and Jack Wilhite. "Wandering," "Stoop," "Sextet (Yes!)," and "The Family Continues" were performed in room 115 of the General Classroom Building.

MORE'S TROUBLES

"A Man for All Seasons" was the Players' production for Winter quarter.

Directed by Dorset Noble, the Robert Bolt's 1960s play was performed in the Student Center Theatre.

The actors were Steve Zemyan (Common Man), Patrick Gaffney (Sir Thomas More), Terry McQuinn (Richard Rich), David Rosinger (The Duke of Norfolk), Tina Carey (Lady Alice More), Berl Boykin (Cardinal Wolsey), Philip Kendrick (Thomas Cromwell), Eric Samson, (Signor Chapuys), Walter Reeves (William Roper), Matthew Walker (King Henry VIII), Judy Armandroff (A Woman), and Randy Palmer (Thomas Cranmer).

"A Man for All Seasons" revolves around Sir Thomas More and the difficulty he had dealing with the political system of Tudor England. His inability to compromise his conscience leads to Sir Thomas More's imprisonment, trial and execution.

FALL CONCERTS

The major fall concert was a huge success with the Little River Band and the Dirt Band playing together in the GSU gym on October 18. This was the Dirt Band's second performance at Georgia State University.

S. Tilghman

The SGA Programs Board Concert Committee brought both new names and familiar bands to Georgia State University in the 1980-1981 school year.

Pam Cross, director of the Plaza Concerts, concentrated on showcasing bands which had not yet played in the Atlanta area. She also tried to bring GSU talent into the university plaza.

On Sept. 9, the Downtown Executives made their second appearance at Georgia State University. The band is entirely comprised of GSU students: Scott Hardy on keyboards, Doug De-Shazo on drums, Mike Hardy as singer-guitarist, Gerry Armentrout on bass and Bobby Summerlin on guitar. The Downtown Executives have appeared at the Agora Ballroom, Club 688, C.W. Shaw's and Numbers.

On Sept. 26, the band Lobe Tan made their debut at Georgia State University. Lobe Tan features danceable originals and familiar tunes. The band explains their name by comparing the effect of their music to riding in a convertible on a sunny day — the only part of your face that gets tanned is your forehead, or the outer lobes of your brain. Members of the group are Ken Schenke, guitarist; Les Horn, bassist; Danny Bigay, drums and Max Koshewa, singer. Lobe Tan has performed at Hedgin's, The Angora Ballroom and C.W. Shaw's.

The Mistakes, a band composed entirely of high school students, made their GSU debut on Oct. 9. The band performed original material and copy tunes. They classify their sound as "high energy new wave."

M. Havi

The winter concert series brought the Marshall Tucker Band to Georgia State University. Co-sponsored by the Georgia Tech concert committee, Marshall Tucker and White Face appeared at the Georgia Tech Alexander Memorial Coliseum on Jan. 17. Marshall Tucker describes their sound as "Southern Rock." White Face is a local group, and this was their second appearance at Georgia State University.

THE WINNER IS ...

HE TRIED

On April 31, 1980 Independent presidential candidate John Anderson came to Georgia State to speak to students in the Urban Life Auditorium. Anderson is the only presidential candidate to have acquired that distinction.

When representative John Anderson lost in the Republican Primaries, he refused to give up. He hoped to gain support as a third choice by playing on people's fear of Reagan's perceived hawkish views and disappointment with Carter's performance.

Anderson's campaign tactics included taking some unpopular stands he called "new realism." He rejected tax cuts, fearing an increase in inflation, and supported mandatory energy conservation.

Managing to get only seven percent of the vote on election day, Anderson concluded, "To start a whole movement, a third force in politics, in under six months, is too short a period."

Anderson spoke at GSU last spring.

REAGAN'S REIGN

Ronald Reagan, the 1980 Republican presidential candidate, is a former actor and California governor. A conservative Californian Republican, Reagan waged his campaign opposing big government.

Among the proposals Reagan promised to try to accomplish are initiating reductions in the regulatory role of government, disposing of bureaucratic creations (For example: the Department of Education and Energy), and eliminating the many federal forms businessmen are required to fill out.

Candidate Ronald Reagan was said to have a personality encompassing many of the characteristics considered valuable in the give-and-take of Washington politics. Obviously the voters agreed that Reagan had what it takes in both personality and philosophies on government when they elected him by a landslide over Jimmy Carter on November 4, 1980.

Can a man go from making "Bedtime for Bonzo" movies with a chimp co-star to guiding a nation and come out a success??? The answer lies four short years away.

Reagan is our 40th President

ELECTION '80

CARTER'S PRESIDENCY

During his four years in the White House, Jimmy Carter battled many problems. Among the reasons Carter lost favor with Americans were the hostage crisis in Iran, his foreign policy decisions and approach to the Soviets, the U.S. economy, rising unemployment and brother Billy's publicized antics.

When he entered office four years ago, Carter encountered the problems common to most presidents — a fiercely individual and independent congress often fragmented by the ability of lobbies to block legislation.

During his term though, Carter did achieve some success: civil service reform; airline, trucking and financial institutions deregulation; restored relations with China; Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty; farm programs; M.S. missile planning and persuading NATO to increase arms readiness.

A DEBATER'S DEBATE

The two major presidential candidates — Jimmy Carter and Ronald Reagan — met only once for a debate. After much wrangling The League of Women Voters got both candidates to settle on the evening of October 28 in Cleveland for the debate. This was a great risk for both candidates because there would be no time before the vote to repair mistakes and shattered images. Both candidates brought their campaigns to a stand-still while each studied the other's opinions and positions on various topics in preparation for the debate.

The debate was necessary to avoid giving an opponent the chance to say he tried to evade the other's challenge. There were problems, however, for both candidates to overcome as they prepared to help the nation decide who would govern for the next four years.

President Carter had to tone down his tendency to fire a confusing barrage of statistics, and concentrate on developing a few points thoroughly. Reagan had to present a defensive debate, trying to focus on Carter's record which he viewed as being one of general incompetence.

Even though many people feel the image molding that make up presidential debates is one of the least important issues on which candidates should be judged, there is no doubt that images do have an impact on the outcome of presidential elections. There is no doubt that when two carefully rehearsed politicians debate, the event can prove to be a gamble for both. In this case it has been surmised that former actor Ronald Reagan gave one of his best performances during the Carter-Reagan Debate. According to some critics, Reagan may have won the election that evening.

RESULTS

Nineteen eighty was an election year that held many surprises for the American people. A nation that expressed annoyance by complaining that neither Republican nominee Ronald Reagan nor Democratic candidate Jimmy Carter offered the American people any real choice elected Ronald Reagan by a landslide.

On election day November 4, 1980, with a lead of 51 to 41 percent in the polls, Ronald Reagan defeated incumbent President Jimmy Carter by 483 electoral votes to Carter's 49.

Other election surprises included a Republican gain of 33 seats in the House and four governorships — the strongest Republican showing since 1966. The most significant benefit for the Republicans, however, was the gain of eleven seats in the Senate. This gave the Republicans a Senate majority for the first time since the Dwight Eisenhower years in the 1950's.

"DAY 444"

It took 444 days for the U.S. government to aid in the release of 52 Americans held captive in Iran. After much red tape, compromising and frustration, the American victims of terroism were home again.

The nightmare began on November 4, 1979 at the American Embassy in Teheran, Iran, when Islamic militants raided the embassy with weapons and seized those Americans who had not escaped.

President Carter immediately insisted that the Iranians had violated international law, and the United States would not negotiate with terrorists.

But when it was clear the militants, who were not supported by the Iranian government, would not release the Americans, U.S. officials began negotiations.

Nothing seemed to be accomplished. Ayatullah Ruhollah Khomeini and his followers requested in rage that the former Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, who ruled Iran for 30 years, be returned to undergo political interrogation. The United States did not submit but, after a number of visits to different countries, the Shah died of cancer in Egypt.

Each time a breakthrough in negotiations began to surface, Americans were disappointed by reports from Iran that the hostages would not be freed.

Freedom finally came on January 20, 1981. The day Ronald Reagan was installed as President of the United States, while a tired Jimmy Carter struggled in his last minutes of office to free the hostages.

With the help of the Algerian government, Deputy Secretary of State Warren M. Christopher and the U.S. government developed a successful plan for freeing the 52 Americans.

The terms were a U.S. pledge not to interfere in Iranian internal affairs, the unblocking of Iran's frozen assets, elimination of all economic sanctions and U.S. claims against Iran, and the return of the Shah's wealth in the United States.

Once they were home, the former hostages were greeted with millions of yellow ribbons, typical of a verse from the song "Tie a Yellow Ribbon 'Round the Old Oak Tree" which became the hostages theme.

Americans were horrified and disgusted at the tales of captivity which soon unraveled when the former hostages eyes were open to freedom again.

But the terrifying tales did not overshadow the joy and relief felt by millions of Americans as they united for at least one national cause on January 20, 1981.

"I'm very happy that the hostages are free from the Iranians. Now when will they be freed from the news reporters, newspapers and other media?"

Donna Hood

"I think President Carter should have called up Khomeini and demanded immediate release or suffer swift and effective retribution!"

Tracy Harris

"I felt Carter handled the crisis well without any violence. I believe there should have been a quicker response taken by the U.S. to get the hostages out sooner."

Georgia State History

What do the names Georgia Tech Evening School of Commerce, Atlanta Division of the University of Georgia, Georgia State College of Business Administration, and Georgia State College all have in common? They have all been names of what is now known as Georgia State University.

It all started in 1913 with 47 students under the direction of Wayne S. Kell. After two other directors, Dr. George M. Sparks took over the institution in 1928.

In the 1930s, a reorganization of the state government in Georgia created the Board of Regents to govern the University System of Georgia. The Regents decided that the Georgia Tech Evening School of Commerce should be an independent college in the new system.

It was independent until 1947 when the Board of Regents placed the college under the leadership and direction of the University of Georgia.

In 1955, the Board of Regents separated Georgia State from the University of Georgia. It was to specialize in business and was named "Georgia State College of Business Administration." An expansion had begun around 1957 — just after Noah Langdale Jr. became the second president of Georgia State. This expansion made the Board of Regents start to consider modifying the name because the "Business Administration" title did not define the functions of the institution.

In 1961, the Regents changed the name to "Georgia State College." With the addition of the College of Education, Urban Life, Allied Health Sciences, and General Studies, the Board of Regents in 1969 changed the title to "Georgia State University."

G.S.U. started with forty-seven students in 1913 and reached its peak enrollment fall quarter 1975 when 21,075 students were registered. Fall quarter 1980 has an enrollment of 20,333.

In addition to classes, Georgia State University offers many chances for students to participate in sports activities. Extramurals and intramurals are open to all Georgia State students. Recreation services are open to all GSU students, faculty and staff.

Intramural sports involve competition between organizations on campus. Activities include coed-softball, flag-football, volleyball, basketball and indoor soccer. Most games are played at the Panthersville Athletic Field or the GSU gym. Winter quarter, a ping-pong tournament was held in the Student Center game room.

Extramural sports involve activities between GSU teams and teams from other colleges and universities.

One of the most active GSU teams is the ice hockey team. They play at the Iceland rink in Marietta.

Men's and women's bowling clubs are also active at Georgia State University.

Recreation services provided by Georgia State University include swimming, canoeing, snow skiing and Touch the Earth.

A student will enjoy Georgia State University more if he takes full advantage of the many sports activities available to him.

Georgia State is not limited to the concrete campus that is six city blocks of downtown Atlanta. There are also the Indian Creek Lodge Recreation Complex and the Panthersville Athletic Fields. The pool complex, adjacent to the P.E. building, contains a diving well and a six-lane pool.

Athletic services are provided free-of-charge, and they offer many opportunities to meet people and make friends.

So come on — try it!

SOFTBALL

A REAL PROPERTY OF A REAL PROPER

Coach Jim Robinson led the softball team through a 15-22 season. Although the season was a losing one, the team had landslide wins over Columbus College 28-0 and 15-4. Other big wins were over Valdosta State 15-4 and North Georgia 16-7. Key wins included Georgia Southwestern, Auburn, and a triple win over Georgia Tech. The team captured fourth place in the GAIW Tournament.

BASEBALL

It was an amazing year for the Georgia State baseball team, with the squad turning in Coach Jack Humphrey's season goal of 30 wins while losing 24 in only the second year for the team. The season was capped off with a third place finish in the Sun Belt Conference Tournament at Mobile, Alabama, in which GSU put five team members on the twelve-member All-Conference Team: pitcher Robbie Waits, catcher Kelly Eslinger, second baseman Tim Chastain, outfielder Russ Eagle and freshman designated hitter Brent McGuire.

Outfielder Russ Eagle was drafted by the Atlanta Braves' farm system after the tournament and participated in the rookie camp during the summer.

The spring schedule kicked off on a strange note when GSU traveled to the University of Georgia in late February and played during a light snow. GSU ended up losing the game, 14-6, the only time during the season that the Panthers showed a losing slate.

GSU could not beat Georgia later in the season when they traveled to Panthersville, but did manage to beat Georgia Tech on a windy day, 16-12.

WOMEN'S TENNIS

The Georgia State Women's Tennis team coached by J. Michael Ash, had one of their most outstanding teams this Michael Ash, had one of their most outstanding teams this year. The team had a five game winning streak going this season with wins against Wesleyan, Brenau, Hope, Geor-gia Tech, and Mercer-Macon. This streak was broken only four times with GSU repeatedly coming back to win a total of 13 games this year. Our women recorded four perfect matches along with five 8-1 victories. The team was defe-ated by Georgia Southern 1-8, Alabama 0-9, Georgia 0-9 and 1-8, with narrow losses to Mercer-Macon 4-5, and University of Alabama-Birmingham by the same score.

The Georgia State men's tennis team has an improved record this year with a 16-8 finishing score for the year. The team has more than tri-pled the number of wins over the 1979 mark. The GSU tennis team won the Mercer Invitational Tennis Classic and swatted their way to second place in the Sunbelt Confer-ence Tennis Championship held in Tampa, Florida. Tom Lindberg defe-ated UNCC's Rick Mendell 6-0, 6-0 to take the conference number two singles slot and the doubles team of Lindberg and Brett Harte also finished second.

Georgia State University's Golf team did not have a winning season this year, but they showed plenty of determination and will to win. The season is full of tournaments, all of which are out of town. This past year the team placed 12th of 13 teams in the Augusta College Invitational, 6th of 9 in the Carson-Newman Inv., and last in both the Prudential Inv. and the Sun Belt Tournament.

MEN'S CROSS COUNTRY

The men's cross country record of 6-3 in dual meets was a complete surprise to everyone — one of the best seasons in years. The team was undergoing a rebuilding period when the surprise came about. Two freshmen, Todd Eldredge and Ronny Brown, and 25-year-old ex-marine Pat Newberry from DeKalb, were the top three runners of the season. The team operated with a minimum of five runners. They placed third in the Georgia Intercollegiate Championship and third in the Sun Belt Conference as well. Pat Newberry finished eleventh in the tournament and Todd Eldredge finished 16th overall.

SWIMMING

Georgia State University enjoyed another winning season in 1981, having a perfect 6-0 record in January. The swimmers defeated Georgia Tech, Southeast Missouri, University of the South, South Florida, Citadel, and College of Charleston, reel-ing off six wins in a row. Dating back to the 1980 season, the swimmers have amassed 15 wins in a row and are 29-3 for the past three seasons as of January. Chip Gjertsen was undefeated in every event he entered. Gjertsen competed in the 200 and 500 yard freestyle and the 400 yard relay. He set a new pool and school record in the 100 yard freestyle of 48.2 against South Florida.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

The Lady Panther's basketball season was opened with a six game winning streak. These victories were over Tift College, Florida State University, Shorter College, Georgia Southern and Albany State College. The team, coached by Jim Jarrett, is one of the best in the state. The outstanding players are guards Denise Lloyd and Teresa Allen and forward Sheryl Martin. Senior Teresa Allen was presented with the Division I Women's College Player of the Month trophy. Atlanta Hawks coach Hubie Brown presented the trophy to Allen. Through six games this season Teresa averaged 27.2 points per game. She also set a new school record of 34 points against Florida State University.

MEN'S BASKETBALL

The Georgia State University Panthers had a challenging and frustrating season during the 1980-81 school year. The season started well with three wins for the Panthers against Clinch Valley, S.C. Spartanburg, and Georgia Southern. Then their winning streak came to an abrupt halt. Injuries plagued the team this season. Knee surgery for Rondy Tucker and an ankle injury for Franklin Bennett shattered the Panthers hopes of excelling this season. Roger Couch coached his team well, but in the end the undersized team couldn't pull through.

Coach Roger Couch gives a supportive talk to his team. Archie Booker captures the ball. Rondy Tucker defends the ball against Middle Tennessee State. George Ramsey dribbles away from defense.

Rex Gaugh sinks a shot.

Don Ross protects the ball from the defensive player. Frank Bennett watches from the sideline. Up, up and away.

Enthusiastic, energetic, supportive — these are just a few of the qualities possessed by this year's Cheerleading Squad. The team of eight has an equal amount of girls to guys. Co-captains Mitch Stubbs and Debby Burton are also Chairpersons on the Spirit Committee. Their job is to increase student participation in many of the school's activities. The G.S.U. Cheerleading Squad attended camp during the summer. They were awarded two ribbons for their cheerleading performances.

DRILL TEAM

During the 1980-81 school year the 14 members of the Drill Team were very busy. Captain Parri Allen and the rest of the girls performed at 30 home basketball games and traveled with the team to Birmingham, New Orleans, and Jacksonville to perform at the Sun Belt Conference. Drill team is hard work; the girls practiced twice a week for two hours and spent fall quarter learning and perfecting the routines that they performed during the winter games.

In addition to practicing and performing, the Drill Team also found time to work with the spirit committee to increase student attendence at the basketball games. During the weekend of February 12-14, the M & M Candy Corporation sponsored the team and contributed 18,000 candy bars for the students.

The Drill Team members also gave their time on a Saturday afternoon by performing at a Lyceum Kiddie Matinee.

RECREATION SERVICES

Recreation services are open to all GSU students, faculty and staff and offer access to many free programs and services. Formed at Georgia State University in 1973, the recreation services provide programs that range from acquatics to a special program known as Touch the Earth. The Physical Education Complex, the Indian Creek Recreation Complex and the Panthersville Athletic Fields give students a chance to relax and escape from our "concrete campus."

All by S. Tilghm

In the pool complex, adjacent to the P.E. Building, there is a 25-yard, six lane pool and a diving well. Classes are offered free-of-charge for beginner, intermediate and advanced swimmers. Also, there is a special course, hydro-slimnastics, for the figure-conscious.

Backpacking activities included several overnight trips through North Carolina and day hikes through north Atlanta's Chattahoochee State Park.

Other activities sponsored by the Recreation Department were sailing on GSU sunfish sailboats, cycle trips, kayaking, whitewater boat trips, snow skiing and a Christmas break trip to the Okefenokee Swamp.

Scuba diving lessons are offered by Georgia State Recreation Services.

Swimmers practice lifesaving techniques at the GSU pool complex.

Swimming lessons are offered by Georgia State Recreation Services for interested students, faculty and staff.

GSU students work at Bando Karate in the GSU Athletic Center.

Three GSU students learn the techniques of scuba diving.

Aerobic Dancing classes offer the GSU coed a chance to stay in shape.

Individual work-outs are a part of the GSU recreation program.

TOUCH THE EARTH

Touch the Earth is the outdoor recreational activity sponsored by the G.S.U. Recreation Department. This program is designed for Georgia State faculty, staff, and students as a means of getting out of the city and getting involved in outdoor experiences such as caving, backpacking, cycling, sailing, scuba diving, rafting, and skiing. The trips are planned for weekends, summer, and quarterly breaks.

Touch the Earth began as a club in 1974 by Jack Hart. He started with two activities, caving and backpacking, and now Touch the Earth has over eleven and continues to grow every year. The cost of participating in most trips for the students is only food and transportation expenses. Equipment is provided by the Recreational Department and can be checked out by the individual.

Cycling can be an individual sport.

Two students canoe through the Okefenokee Swamp. Students raft down the Ocoee River.

INTRAMURALS

The 1980-81 intramural program at Georgia State University opened July 13, 1980. Sports include flag football, basketball, volleyball and the turkey trot. The Panthersville facility, which opened three years ago, enables students to play flag-football and softball. The intramurals program at Georgia State University offers a chance for university teams to compete in sports activities. New sports added in the 1980-81 season include coed-softball, men's softball, mixed doubles tennis, mixed doubles racquetball and golf. All intramural teams are open to students enrolled at Georgia State University.

Intramural flag-football provides excitement on the weekends.

EXTRAMURALS

The Georgia State University extramural program is sponsored by the Recreation Department. It offers competition between GSU sports teams and teams from other colleges and universities. The women's bowling team and the ice hockey team were both excel-lent this year. The Recreation Department has several sports clubs including fencing, water skiing, sailing, white water, ice hickey, badminton, bowling (men and women), racquetball and volleyball. Extramural sports are open to all GSU students.

The Fencing Club teaches coordination and self-confidence.

Players battle for the hockey puck at Iceland.

HONOR HIGHLIGHT

$A\Lambda\Delta$ INDUCTS DR. VERNON CRAWFORD

On November 4, Dr. Vernon Crawford, Chancellor of the Georgia Board of Regents, was inducted as a guest initiate of the freshman honor society, Alpha Lambda Delta. Joining Dr. Crawford as Alpha Lambda Delta inductees were seventeen freshmen all in their second or third quarters who have maintained at least a 3.55 grade point average. Chosen by the students who were initiated last year, Dr. Crawford, a Georgia Institute of Technology's honorary alumnus in 1966, joins a distinguished list of guest initiates, including G.S.U. President Noah Langdale and G.S.U. alumnus Marie Dodd, a member of the Board of Regents.
