Exam Grind On; Finals Start Dec. 9

Fall quarter examinations will start in the Evening division Friday, December 9, and in the Junior division Tuesday, December 17.

Registration for the winter quarter began Monday of this week and will continue, as usual, until a week after the new quarter opens.

Registration procedure will be changed for next quarter. Students will be given a schedule card when they register, and class cards will be given directly to the teachers by the office. Schedule cards will be shown to the bookstore clerks to speed the issuing of textbooks. Previously students were given class cards which they handed to the teachers.

Dr. Sparks urged all students to register as soon as possible in order to prevent a log-jam of work in the office during the last few days.

The winter quarter begins in the day school January 2 and in the night school the next evening.

Dr. Sparks said several new teachers will be on hand in January to relieve the crowded situation and the demand for certain courses. Among new courses planned is one on business guidance. Qualified business leaders of the city will be invited down to speak and conduct forums on topics of interest.

Here is the complete exam schedule as prepared by the office:

Signal Staff Halts Editing to Tremble Over Final Exams

This is the final issue of the Signal before the Christmas holidays. The staff now joins with other students in trembling over the thought of final examinations. Good luck, kids.

The next issue will be off the press on Wednesday, January 8. In the winter and spring we hope to follow the custom set this fall of publishing the Signal on the second and fourth Wednesday of each month.

The editor would like to take this opportunity to express gratitude for all the fine compliments the paper has received this fall, and also for the constructive criticism which we hope to use in making the paper better and more interesting in the future.

Many thanks are also due the loyal staff which has come here to work at night, giving up leisure hours for this important school project.

IT'S THE 'RAMPWAY'. Bill Marr, editor of the new combined Junior and Evening College yearbook, is presenting first prize money of $10 in cash and a free annual to Blanche Salmond, who was declared winner in a contest to name the annual. Her suggestion was "The Rampway". It was judged one letter better than the title "Rampways" that was turned in by Ann Johnson and Donald Higgins. From left to right are Miss Salmond, Mr. Higgins, Editor Marr and Miss Johnson. Signal staff photo by Frank Tuggle.

Homecoming Banquet Tops; Miss Sturman Best Scholar

This will put the 1946 Evening College homecoming banquet in the record and at the same time nominate it as one of the best of the 13 successive Thanksgiving events.

The Ansley Dinkler and Civic rooms were filled for the affair last Wednesday.

The only reward Bill Baxter and his fine crew of helpmates will need is summed up in the sampled opinions of several who had not attended a previous banquet. Consensus: "It was swell."

Stidious Natalie Sturman, 17-year-old Evening College student, walked away with the Retail Credit $100 cash scholarship award. Her average: 7.5 out of a possible 8.

Scholastic honors appear to follow Natalie. She came to Evening College on a scholarship from Commercial High where she was a member of the National Honor Society. She wants to be a teacher of accounting and her hobbies are reading and bowling. She had a straight "A" record in high school.

Don Floyd got the $20 football parley.

Speeches and remarks were to the point and sufficiently brief to make the show run without a lag once it got started.

There was dancing to Bob Jones' fine music from nine until 12. And even then a lot of the crowd wasn't willing to leave. The hat was passed at midnight, and music sweet and swingy rolled out for another hour.

It was generally agreed that the only improvement which could be made next year would be to have it in our own yet-to-be-acquired auditorium-gymnasium.

'Rampway' Picked As Yearbook Title

Gym Contract Will Be Let Soon by FWA

The school's efforts to secure a big gymnasium-auditorium came a step nearer reality this week with the announcement that the government plans to let a contract for the work in the very near future.

Dr. Sparks received notification of this anticipated action from the Bureau of Construction Facilities of the Federal Works Agency. He said that all contracts and papers must be set up for the project this week.

The gymnasium will be 100 by 200 feet with a seating capacity of about 2,000. It will have four basketball courts, three for practice and one reserved for games.

The government agency thinks a suitable surplus building for our needs has been located at one of the abandoned Georgia airfields.

The building will be erected at the side of the school and will be used for student assemblies and athletic events.

RAMPWAYS

Buzzing conversation of the cafeteria suddenly subsides and all diners fasten eyes on a forlorn GI who has just dumped his tray and all its contents to the floor with a resounding clatter.

Classes Meet Tonight, Begin Beauty Search

The new University Center yearbook is now off to a good start.

Its name is "The Rampway".

The Nocturne and the Gateway pass out of existence after years of being identified with the Evening and Junior divisions, respectively. From now on, we are one school so far as the yearbook is concerned, and it will be known by the one thing that identifies our school more than any other physical characteristic—the ramp.

The name was selected as the best entry from several hundred turned in during a school-wide contest. The winner, announced at last week's homecoming banquet, was Blanche Salmond. She gets $10 in cash and a free annual.

Ann Johnson and Donald Higgins tied for second place and each were awarded free yearbooks. They missed a three-way tie for first place by one little letter. Their suggestion was "Rampways", but the publications board decided against the plural name after long discussion. One reason for turning it down was that it would exactly duplicate a feature in the Signal.

The Rampway editors announced this week that plans are being made for judging the yearbook's beauty section entries at a dance sometime after the first of the year.

Class meetings are being held in the Evening division tonight (Wednesday) for the purpose of nominating beauties whose pictures will be submitted for this feature. Each class will select two entries.

Junior division classes are also meeting this week to name their glamour girls, and organizations of the school are turning in their representatives.

Debate Club Argues With N.G.C. Dec. 12

The Junior College debating team will meet declaimers from North Georgia College here at the school Thursday, December 12, at 11 A. M.

The subject for debate: "Resolved, that labor should have a direct share in management."

The visiting teams, one affirmative and one negative, will square off and strike at our debaters, A. J. Jones and Charles Vaughn for the affirmative, and Robert Chaffin and Wayne Cooper, negative. Everyone is invited.

The opposition will make a tour of the building with Dean Goldsmith and will have luncheon in the school cafeteria.

Barbara Represents Atlanta at Birthday Party for Birmingham

Honors continue to heap upon the fair young head of Barbara Nunn, the Junior College lass who has sung and laughed her way into the heart of Atlanta.

The latest tribute to the talented young lady came when she was named to represent the city of Atlanta at the 75th birthday celebration of Birmingham, Ala.

Official delegates were in the steel city from 100 cities, neighboring states and the sister city of Birmingham, England. But none were more sought after than our own fair Barbara.

'Gateway' Out; Get Your Copy

Last year's "Gateway" (the Junior College yearbook) is now on sale. All persons who want a copy are requested to see the editor in room 108A as soon as possible.

All copies must be sold in order to meet the cost of printing this edition. This is the last of the Gateway as the separate Junior College annual.

Next year the Evening and Junior College yearbooks will be combined under a new name.

The Spirit Of Christmas . . .

This is our last opportunity to visit with you through the columns of the Signal until after the first of the year. In this closing message of 1946 to you students, we must run the gamut of yuletide and the birth of 1947. Let us, then, be the first to wish all of you a very merry Christmas and a happy, happy New Year.

You are perhaps not in the mood at this time to share with us the first emotions of the Christmas spirit. Your mind is concerned with final examinations which are now upon you, and fresh in your memory is the feast of Thanksgiving observed only last week.

But in these next 20 days, it will come upon all of us, this spirit of Christmas. The crowds . . . the list that doesn't include something for your best girl because you can't for the life of you think what it's to be . . . the Bing Crosby album that's been put away since last year . . . the warmth from the light of a candle and the color of green holly.

And with all this, pray let there also be the spirit of love and tenderness and sacrifice and wanting to share our many blessings with others. For this is the true spirit of Christmas, not that other.

It's not just the sound of Bing's voice . . . Silent Night, Holy Night; all is calm; All is bright . . . Sleep in Heavenly peace. . . Somehow, it's that star there, hanging low in the eastern skies, shining brightly in the crisp December night.

Somehow, it's the little urchin with the dirty face you saw on the street today; and you find yourself wondering for the first time if he will grow to be a sturdy man, if Christmas morn will find him at the same street corner with the same dirty face.

Somehow, it's a group of weary travelers crossing the plains in the direction of a star to a town called Bethlehem, seeking a little child whose birth was foretold by the prophets . . . and they found him wrapped in swaddling clothes and lying in a manger among the cattle.

All of us are looking for something this Christmas season. As individuals, as members of a state, as citizens of a nation, as people of a world, everyone is looking for something. High men and low, rich and poor, powerful and powerless, looking, searching.

We have called upon the great minds of our universe, the eminent philosophers, the physicists, the economists, the deep thinkers. We have spent billions of dollars to split the atom and are now spending billions more in an effort to control what we have done. We have founded a United Nations to preserve peace and prosperity among men by means of laws and boundaries and warnings. And yet no man can say that we have found the Peace for which we search.

For centuries before that first Christmas, men had searched for the Symbol of peace and good will on earth. But they did not find Him until they came together, humbled by a new-found spirit that was to guide men of all stations. And they knelt together, rich and poor, great and small, there in the straw of a stable.

There is still a spirit of peace and good will in the world that is the true spirit of Christmas. Most of it is still locked in the hearts of mankind, but its possibilities and promise are among us. The hearts of men will open and all will be right with the world when we, like the wayfarers of old, cross the plains of distrust and jealousy and greed and come to the place where abides the Spirit of that first Christmas.

Oh, little town of Bethlehem, How still we see thee lie;

And in thy dark streets shineth, An ever-lasting light;

The hopes and fears of all the year, Are born in thee tonight.

Our Good Name Is Worth Protecting

The time has come to speak out firmly about an unfortunate condition that has cropped up in this school.

More and more since the fall quarter began, there has been a noticeable spirit of vandalism and rowdiness here, mostly apparent in the day division.

This seems to be sponsored by a very small group which has no regard for either property and personal rights or the code of civil decency.

Our institution in the past has enjoyed the distinction of having the best name of any university in this area, but a few more months of such stuff as has been going on recently will do much to destroy that good name.

It is too bad that innocent people have to suffer for the acts of such a crowd, but it appears to work out that way.

In our own case, one of the Junior College sororities became the victim at a recent dance held in the refectory. In at least one instance noted, there was open drinking at the dance. An officer of the sorority approached the guilty party in the act of tipping up a bottle and demanded that he stop or leave the dance.

An official of the school who happened by that evening discovered that a number of boys were drinking. Evidence of this was discovered in one classroom. As a result of this episode, two students have been placed on probation and several others are being put under close surveillance of faculty authorities. At least eight boys were ordered out of the building that night.

In all fairness to our students, it should be admitted that a great deal of this kind of thing is being carried on by boys who are attracted here from the outside by the dances. There were several strangers in on the deal that night.

This is just one example of what we're talking about. Others are here for everyone to see and be disgusted with.

One morning recently, a tear gas bomb was exploded in the boys' room on the main floor. Coke bottles have been found smashed against doors. A gooey pastry was thrown against one of the upper floor doors making an unsightly mess. The janitors are kept busy removing the most obscene material from the walls of the boys' room. One grows to expect such filth at a public place, but this is a university!

Where can the blame for this be laid? The social service people say it is a general laxity of morals brought on by the war. In a broad general sense that may be a good explanation, but in our own case it certainly should not be excused or tolerated for this reason.

Most of the students in this school are the same square-shooting, decent folk who have gravitated to this institution for years and years. And they are the ones who can stamp out this small, obnoxious thing that has come into our midst.

They should by all means read the riot act to students as well as outsiders who get into the building and forget how to act decently.

They should do it for one thing, simply because they want a decent school with a decent name attached to it. For another and completely selfish reason, they should take the matter in hand because every act of this kind is only cutting out from under them some of their liberties and freedom of action.

The school administration can do its part by promptly expelling anyone else caught at such playful antics as tossing tear gas around or smashing doors with pastries. The good leaders among our students—and there are plenty of them—can do their part by seeking out and stamping out such abuses.

To ease the minds of parents who may read this appeal, let it be said again that most of our students are nothing but the best. The editor has talked personally to the leaders of several organizations and they have expressed great concern over this matter. In the future, the school is making certain that ample protection is provided at all functions at the school so that the hundreds of students endeavoring to have some innocent fun will not be deprived of it by a few who haven't learned the good graces on how to act.

It is too late in the year 1946 to inspire members of the present Evening College Student Council to improve their attendance at meetings. But we hope that when winter quarter classroom representatives are elected, they will show more interest in school affairs by coming to the meetings.

The absentee record this fall has been entirely too great. All of us have a lot to do these days, but if you know you cannot handle the job, it is better to decline at the time you are nominated.

Are You a Quitter Or a Sticker-Outer?

The fall quarter is about over and students are in the midst of poring through their books in preparation for final examinations. This may not be the psychological moment to broach the subject of returning to college next quarter, but we'll take a chance on persuading you to give it a thought.

Every fall the University Center is overflowing with enthusiastic new students with high purposes of getting a college education. But by Christmastime, many have lost some of their enthusiasm and decide they'll just skip the next quarter. This usually results in their never returning to school.

There is no use trying to make you believe it is an easy road here toward winning a sheepskin. You know, and especially is this true in the Evening College, that it is a rough trip. The big majority of our students work at full-time jobs during the day and come here for study at night.

If you have just entered school, you may want to say to yourself that five years is a mighty long time to come here night after night. Sure it is, but if you will stick it out for just two more quarters—and that's only until June, there's a ten-to-one chance you'll discover you don't mind coming to school at all. It will get to be a part of you that you'll miss when school is out for the summer. And next fall you'll be right at the front of the line waiting to get back in.

You may have enrolled this quarter because a friend persuaded you to do so; or you may have done it on a spur-of-the-moment ambition to do something useful. All right, now you are here. Why not stay? Just remember that if you drop out after this quarter, you are not doing a thing that marks you from any man or woman on the street. Anyone can do that. It's the easiest thing in the world to just not show up for the job in January. Why not be different and go through the mill for your college education?

From the Library

By MYRTA THOMAS CARPER

Our pet project is bogging down—we won't say that it is due to lack of cooperation on the part of the students and professors. Perhaps it is because we need an advertising director!

Realizing that our Evening College students have little time to do "research" in the Library and yet must write term papers and prepare special reports, and that professors have little time to check on available material for their students, we conceived a bright idea to help. At least it will be a bright idea if we can make it work!

Briefly, we have a small library staff on duty from 9:30 A. M. to 9 P. M. five days a week. When 25 to 50 students rush in between classes to get "4 or 5 books for a report to take out," most of which are already out, obviously we cannot give efficient service.

But if those students would come in when they first know of the assignment and fill out the reserve card (reproduced below), this would give us, say from Monday to Wednesday, or even from 6 to 7:30 to delve into resources not obvious to students. Better papers would result, and harrassment on the part of students and library attendants would be cut to a minimum.

Meanwhile, if professors would fill out the special card (reproduced below), or at least give us a copy of the mimeographed assignments, or advise us in some way that 50 or 100 students will be preparing papers at a specified time on given subjects BEFORE THE ASSIGNMENT IS GIVEN TO THE STUDENTS, we could rush out and beg, borrow, or buy in short or inadequate fields of study. We most earnestly request professors to visit the librarian to discuss the resources available for their courses. If that is impractical, write us a letter!

Students failing to bring in homework often give the teachers the excuse that "I don't have a place to study."

To offset this and to assist in every way possible, the school has put a great deal of time and effort into its new library.

When coming down the ramp, if erring students would do a hard right into the library for an hour or so they would find there the required essentials for productive study and reference work.

Practically every reference required will be found on the shelves, with good lighting to make the hunting easier and comfortable chairs and tables arranged for his convenience. Get into the library habit; it will speed up your home work and leave you with more free time in the evenings.

IN THE ORGANIZATIONS

Edited by Betty Ann Kemp

Sigma Kappa Chi

Sigma Kappa Chi held its formal and informal initiation Sunday, December 1. Fourteen pledges were initiated.

The fraternity will have a hayride to Indian Creek Lodge on December 6. A spaghetti supper and dancing will be highlights of the evening.

The fraternity, organized and chartered in September, received pins this week. They are black and gold Maltese crosses.

The S. K. Chi's have also made plans to have a stag party later this month. Time and place are to be announced.

Dramatics Club

Interested in possums and dramas? Then read this:

The Junior College Dramatics Club, at a meeting Nov. 5, elected officers and decided that a possum hunt and dance should be included in the order of things.

Officers elected were: Johnny Vann, president; Charlene Williams, vice-president; Jimmy Webb, treasurer; and Thelma Field, secretary.

One of the directors, Bob Wall, is making arrangements for the hunt. No plans have been announced for the dance.

No definite plans have been made for dramatic productions, but several plays are being considered.

Delta Alpha Delta

The DAD's are in dreamland these days, busy selecting the sorority's Dream Man of 1947 who will be tapped at the Christmas formal, Dec. 12.

A partial list of the kind of guys the sorority thinks dreams are made of includes: Bill Pope, Pat Riggs, Bob Watson, "Shorty" Lorentzson, Ralph Chapman, Charles "Buz" Hoffman and Leonard Saunders.

The new Dream Man will succeed Tommy Thomas.

Masonic Club

The Masonic Club, recently organized at the University Center, had its second regular meeting since organization November 26 in the college cafeteria. At this meeting it was decided to frame a constitution and by-laws at the next meeting. Plans for bringing two orphans from the Masonic home to a club meeting were discussed.

A Committee from the Club attended the Morningside Lodge No. 295 to witness the presentation of a Master's degree. The Committee was composed of Harold Jackson, Ed Walsh, and Charlie Morgan, Jr.

Attending the meeting were William Suttles, M. C. Lockwood, Charlie Morgan, Jr., Major Charlie Morgan, Sr., Harold Jackson, Earle R. Hughey, J. C. Camp, Dr. George M. Sparks, James Wilson, and Ed Welsh.

Glee Club

A look into just what the Glee Club is doing reveals the fact that the singers are hard at work on about three different pieces. These are "In a Persian Market", by Conoby; "Three Blind Mice", by Riegger, and "The Battle Hymn of the Republic", Fred Waring's arrangement.

When asked about near future plans Mr. Hoffman said the Junior College section club will present a Christmas Carol program on Dec. 16th.

Just a word about the membership of the Glee Club. It seems that all those who auditioned and made the Glee Club are not being too regular in attendance; this is not good, as anyone can see. Soooo, friends, come on and give us your full support, you'll never regret it, 'cause we do have lots of fun practicing. Also a word to you who have not auditioned for the Glee Club. We want more members and if you can sing or like to sing, how about seeing Mr. Hoffman next Tuesday night and join in the fun.

Alpha Kappa Psi

Three important dates loom up for the fraternity's holiday social calendar.

The first is a stag party on December 18, followed by a date

Christmas party the Saturday before Christmas and a big New Year's Eve party.

Delta Lambda Sigma

After going through a hectic "hell week", the Delta Lambda pledges were informally initiated at the Grant Park Woman's Club November 23. This was just preliminary to the formal initiation to be held during Christmas week at the Ansley Hotel.

Christmas plans to date include an annual party to be given at the home of an alumna December 15.

Delta Sigma Pi

Deltasig pledges will have it "hot 'n' heavy" the week-end of December 14. Informal initiation will be Saturday, Dec. 14; and, if they are still holding their own, will be formally taken in the next day.

December 19, the alumni will give a Christmas party at the Georgian Room of the Biltmore Hotel. Dancing will probably be the feature entertainment.

Deltasig Lodge will play host to the regular chapter December 21 at a Christmas party.

Intramural Key

Marion Minor, John Eaves, Cecil Pool, Gabe Thomas, McCoy White and Bill Sacks were elected at the last meeting to be taken into Intramural Key.

Kappa Theta

Kappa Theta pledges will be formally initiated December 15 at the Piedmont Hotel.

They just will get in on the big Christmas dance December 16 in the Georgian Terrace ballroom where Bill Clark's orchestra will keep 'em dancing.

The ballroom will be decked with holly in the usual Yuletide motif. Officers will head the lead-out through the traditional gold Kappa Theta crescent.

Venetian Society

Venetians and their dates had a "large" evening at Lake Murray, Conley, November 21, where they were entertained by the sponsors.

Two sponsors for the coming year and the society's two candidates for the beauty section of "The Rampway" will be elected at the next meeting December 5.

The week of December 1 will revive the traditional baby caps and buttermilk bottles for pledge week. Pledges are: Jack Belle Isle, Bob Bishop, Gilbert Bryan,

Students Appear In Guild Show

Two well-known University Center students, Bob Humphrey and John Kollock, are featured in the cast of the Atlanta Theater Guild's next production, "Night of January 16th." Humphrey is featured as Elmer Sweeney, a rookie policeman, and Kollock as Sigurd Jungquist.

In presenting "Night of January 16th", the Guild turns from farce to murder drama. As part of the trial scene, volunteers from the audience will become jurors and they alone will decide the fate of the defendant, Karen Andre.

The drama will be presented at the Atlanta Women's Club Auditorium on December 10, 11, 12, 13 at 8:30 p. m.

Phi Chi Theta

Following the pledging of new members, December 3, Mrs. Howard Johnson was hostess at a social at her Longshore Drive home.

Crimson Key

Last night, December 3, June Van Sickle, Ruth Maddox and Frances Duke were "tapped" for membership into the organization.

Evelyn Crawford Cochran, inactive president, who has been out of school this semester, will return to resume her duties as active president next semester.

Wedding Bells Ring For Jr. College Miss

An interesting recent social event for the Junior College was the marriage of Elizabeth Winn and William F. Crowell Saturday, November 23rd, in McDonough, Georgia.

Betsy is the daughter of Col. and Mrs. Norman Winn. Frances also a student at Junior College, is her only sister.

The young couple is well-traveled. Because of Col. Winn's position, Betsy's family has moved about and recently returned from the Philippines.

Bill received his discharge from the Navy, May 5, 1946, after serving three years in the South Pacific.

The couple is residing with the bride's parents until their home is completed.

Miss Winn is employed as both feature writer and model for the Southern Outdoor, a paper for hunters. She is also an accomplished horsewoman and has taken part in several international shows.

School Hits Jackpot In Scarce Items

The school has hit a bonanza of scarce equipment, including desks, chairs, cabinets and typewriters.

Arrangements have been completed with the War Assets Corp. to buy virtually all the office equipment at the old OPA headquarters on Grant Place. The furniture was declared surplus shortly after the decontrol program was started.

The school bought the supplies under a new government program that permits educational institutions to make the purchase at 95 per cent discount.

Bowling Alleys Will Open Soon

One of the most welcome additions to the school's recreational facilities is a pair of the most modern bowling alleys. Construction on the alleys will soon be under way. Already stocked up on the sixth floor is enough pine and maple hardwood to floor both alleys.

Thus far, only one person has voiced a pessimistic thought about the alleys. Mr. Strong, consulting engineer for the Construction Division of the University System of Georgia, has expressed great concern about the hours at which the alleys will be open to students. The alleys, which are to be placed against the back wall of the gym, will end directly over his office on the fifth floor.

THE SPORTING SCENE

By Tom Norman

The "Linament Bowl" game is over for another year, giving the Delta Sigs twelve months until next Thanksgiving morning to plan their revenge against the 6-0 defeat they suffered this time at the hands of the A. K. Psis.

It was two evenly-matched teams that fought it out on the soggy turf of Dykes Stadium, North Fulton High School, last Thursday morning in the annual two-handed touch game.

After a scoreless first half, Gabe Thomas arched a 20-yard pass to Tracy O'Neal, who took eight steps to cross the Delta Sig goal line for the only points of the game. The try at conversion was no good.

The Delta Sigs, spearheaded by the accurate passing arm of Jimmie Jernigan, came right back to threaten a score, but the attack was broken up on the two-foot line when Gabe Thomas of the A. K. Psis intercepted a Delta Sig pass over the goal line for a touchback.

The Delta Sig scoring threat was set up when Phil Maffett snagged an A. K. Psi pass out of the air on the mid-field stripe and Jernigan unslung his passing arm. A pass to Charlie Broome carried to the 30, another to Harold Duncan put the ball on the four-yard stripe, and Broome jumped into the air right on the goal line to get one but fell inches short of a score. Although operating from the losing side, the offensive high spot of the game seemed to be the Jernigan to Broome pass combination. This netted most of the Delta Sig gains.

The margin of victory for the A. K. Psis was a series of well-practiced plays, a supply of reserves and the accurate kicking toe of Gabe Thomas.

The one touchdown was set up by two Thomas kicks that drove the Delta Sigs into a corner back on their five-yard line. After kicking out of the danger zone, A. K. Psis took over on the Delta Sig 45.

Dick O'Callaghan shoveled a pass to Hugh Schutte good to the 30 and O'Callaghan repeated one to Al Corley, getting a first down on the 20. The next play was Thomas to O'Neal for a touchdown.

Tommy Brewer, southeastern conference official, came out to referee the game.

Peggie Morris and Delta Sig End Don Stewart arriving during the second quarter. While Stewart went into the game, Peggie explained the reason they were late: Stewart was sleeping soundly when she called his house to find out if he was ever coming for her.

The stands bolstered as never before by the youngest generation.

Wife June taking over as trainer when L. C. Duncan took a hard knock and was brought off the field.

And wife Rosemary admonishing Harold Duncan to get up off the wet ground where he was resting during half.

The University Center boys' basketball team lost a 25 to 51 practice game with the East Point Elks Nov. 26.

The "Owls" got off to a good start and trailed only 17 to 20 at the half but shot only eight more points the rest of the game.

"Lefty" Richardson led the losers with eight points, followed by "Lefty" Hancock with seven. Cooper, Hayes, Van Frank, Lee, and Beall also played good ball for the University Club.

Coach Burgess has a squad of real hustlers that will give all opponents a real battle after they get a little more game experience and practice together.

The Elks lineup included Millard Posey and Ray Crowe, former Evening College court stars.

Next game for the school team will be a return practice game with East Point Friday, Dec. 13, at the College Park gym. Coach Burgess, who had 13 players in uniform for the last game, says it will be 12 or 14 this time.

The boys' squad will open the regular schedule Dec. 18 against a strong Oglethorpe University team.

Dear Editor . . . .

The voice of the student body is an important and influential function of this institution. It adds new courses, changes schedules, causes improvements and alters customs. Letters to the editor should be typed or written very legibly on one side of paper and left in Signal box one week before publication.

Editor Signal:

The careless attitude of the average student is overwhelming. I asked a class of 24 how many know the procedure for getting the Student Council to act on an appropriation or amendment. No one could answer.

Is this a display of school interest or lack of cooperation to inform us? Are we to be denied the right of progress because of our lax attitude.

You can appear before Student

Council as an individual, as a member of a group or as a petitioner for actions.

The Student Council acts on social and advisory matters without the student body's consent. Constitutional amendments must have a two-thirds majority of the student body.

Do you have a suggestion for our betterment? Do you know how to present it? Well, let's see some action.

—Alice Walters.
