Journalism Students Visit Macon Kraft Paper Mill

Atlanta Division journalism students made an all-day field trip to Macon Monday (Dec. 3), touring the Macon Kraft Company paper mill and forest area and tracing production of paper from seedling trees to finished product.

Stanford Smith, head of the journalism department, took the students on the trip which was arranged through Edward Stout, regional manager of American Forest Products Industries. The students saw first-hand the full story of paper, the all-important product in any field of journalism.

Host to the students was N. R. Harding, manager of the company's wood department. He met the class at the Fire Danger Rating station in the company-owned forest area.

FIELD EQUIPMENT was demonstrated which measures the likelihood and danger of forest fires on any day. The company's forest fire-fighting system and tree-planting program was described and shown to the students by E. T. Newsom, chief forester for the company.

William Coates Jr. of the company staff conducted a paper-making lecture and guided the students on a tour of the mill itself.

Anticipating an interest in newsprint, Mr. Coates telephoned the Coosa River Newsprint mill in Alabama just before the Atlanta Division group arrived to get additional information on newsprint production. The Macon mill produces Kraft paper.

The company entertained the students at a barbecue luncheon.

AD College of Business Now South's 2nd Biggest

Nationwide Survey by Delta Sigma Pi Shows School Second Only to U. of Miami in South

A nationwide survey has shown that the Atlanta Division's College of Business Administration is the second largest in the entire South. It is the 11th largest in the country.

The survey was carried out by the national chapter of Delta Sigma Pi, professional business fraternity which has a chapter here.

This year's Day and Night college of business combined ranks second only to the University of Miami, which only recently moved into the evening field. Last year the University of Texas was first in the South, but that school has now fallen to third place.

The survey also showed that the Day division of the college alone is the largest business school in Georgia. The night school has long led the state in size. Combined, their enrollments total 2,948.

THE BUSINESS college has always been recognized as one of the top schools in its field and with the addition of many new courses and staff members this year, it ranks near the top in the country. It offers two four year degrees — a Bachelor of Business Administration and a Bachelor of Commercial Sciences. The Night school has offered these degrees since its inception in 1917, but the Day school added four year degrees since World War II.

Dean George Manners heads a staff of some 30 full-time and 40 part-time instructors in the college. Dean Manners, a member of Delta Sigma Pi, has been head of the college for about five years.

Signal Not to Publish Again Until Jan. 4

Tonight (Friday, Dec. 7) marks the Signal's last issue of 1951.

The Atlanta Division's weekly will not appear again until the first week of classes in the mid-winter quarter. The next issue will be dated Friday, Jan. 4.

Peabody Is Closing Seminar Lecturer; Diplomas Awarded

A prominent Atlanta attorney was the final lecturer Tuesday on the program of the Small Business Seminar which was held at the Atlanta Division throughout the fall quarter.

Martin H. Peabody spoke on "Legal Knowledge the Small Businessman Needs." A member of the Atlanta Division faculty, Mr. Peabody was legal consultant to the Board of Veterans Appeal in 1946-47, Georgia Assistant Attorney General in 1947-50, and is a member of the law firm of Gaines and DeGive. He is a member of the Atlanta Bar association, Georgia Bar association, Atlanta Lawyers club, and Province Commander of Kappa Alpha fraternity.

Approximately 150 businessmen and women of Atlanta were issued diplomas for their work in the series of seminars which has extended over a period of 10 weeks with lectures by prominent businessmen and educators of national renown.

ATLANTA DIVISION CHEMISTRY DEPT. GETS NEW EQUIPMENT, COMPLETE RENOVATION

The chemistry labs on the third and fourth floors of the Atlanta Division will be the equal of any in Atlanta when the present $40,000 renovation and modernization program is completed. Work on the department started last summer when almost all new equipment was installed. Work is still going on — either installing new equipment or repairing old. All the rooms have been painted and new tops are being put on the few old lab tables that have not been replaced. Every chemistry student will have his individual lab and equipment when the project is completed. The above pictures show some of the new facilities and some students at work in the department. Dr. Marion Kurtz is head of the department. — Photos by Jack Dinos.

A Letter to the Editor

Editor
The Signal

As a student interested in continuing my education beyond the undergraduate level, I am asking that the Signal publish the facts as to why the Atlanta Division of the University of Georgia does not offer a graduate program for day and evening students.

I would also like to see printed the attitudes of the Governor, members of the legislature, board of regents, faculty, students and the extent to which the Signal and our student officers have considered and/or supported a graduate school for the Atlanta Division.

I personally feel that we are wasting the full capacity of our faculty, who are more than qualified to carry on the additional responsibilities of a graduate school.

Edward J. Callahan

• Editor's notes The Signal is wholeheartedly in favor of Mr. Callahan's ideas on the subject of a graduate school. However, we believe in first things first and we are presently plugging for a bachelor's degree in arts. After we obtain this goal, we think, will be the proper time to start on a post-graduate program.

Students Invited to Join Atlanta Dramatic Group

Atlanta Division students who want to learn to act have been invited to join "Dramahouse," an Atlanta dramatic group.

Dramahouse, the largest group of its kind in Atlanta, puts on mostly radio productions over WABE, the Atlanta Board of Education's station. The group puts on one program a week and holds workshop once a week.

Night School Marketing Club Formed With 38 Members

A new Marketing club to be affiliated with the American Marketing association, has been formed in the Atlanta Division's Night school.

An organizational meeting was held last week when officers were elected and a constitution adopted. The American Marketing association is expected to issue the new group an official student charter soon.

The purposes of the club—which is similar to the Marketing club already active in the Day school—are to promote marketing education and "continue the spirit of fellowship and goodwill among marketing students in the evening classes at the Atlanta Division." The club will foster scientific study and research in the field of marketing and encourage public understanding and appreciation of marketing problems. Once each quarter, the new group will sponsor a marketing division lecture by an outstanding leader in the field from the Atlanta area. At least one social meeting will be sponsored each quarter and such other meetings as are deemed necessary will be held.

AT THE ORGANIZATION meeting, the following officers were elected: James P. Washington, president; Ronald W. Clark, vice-president; Nancy Lou Ivins, secretary; and James H. Burch, treasurer. These officers will serve two quarters, as provided in the constitution.

Thirty-eight charter members joined. They are James Washington, Dorsey Wilbanks, J. T. Jinks, D. R. Anderson, Frank Pease Jr., H. C. McCormick, Charles L. Taylor, John T. Eberhardt Jr., James H. Burch, Martin L. Wells, Paul W. Hurt Jr., F. T. Poole, Elmer F. Goodwin Jr., Ronald W. Clark, Michael P. Sertich, William V. Speer, Harry T. Coats, S. L. Milligan, James E. Proctor Jr., I. B. Waldrop, John E. McDaniel, Charles E. Whitt, Hugh G. Haruley, Nancy Lou Ivins, James G. Hill, W. Jack Bunkley, Jack Baranowitz, Herman L. Parrish, Albert F. McGee, James W. Wiggins, Donald L. Milburn, Lewis L. Johnson Jr., John J. Sadler Jr., William C. Bell, Alma Graham, H. K. Forrester, Eula Whitley, and Ed MacDonald.

OTHER INTERESTED persons may contact any of the four officers of the group until Wednesday, Dec. 12, to be included among the charter members.

The first regular meeting of the club will be in the form of a Christmas Party at the home of Dr. Ole S. Johnson, Faculty Advisor, Saturday evening, December 15, 1951. The Executive Committee is in charge of all arrangements for this first meeting. All members are urged to attend.

Nursing Students Organize Club Here

A meeting of the graduate nurse students of the department of Nursing Education was held recently for the purpose of organizing a Nursing Foundation club.

Miss Virginia Klæhammer, assistant head of the graduate nurse program at the Atlanta Division, will be sponsor for the new club. Miss E. Louise Grant, head of the department, spoke to the group on the advisability and benefits derived from such an organization.

Mrs. Anita Landau, student-representative on the graduate nurse program committee, reported on similar organizations at other universities. A temporary chairman, Mrs. Sarah Helen Mote, and a temporary secretary, Mrs. Landau, were appointed by the group for the purpose of drawing up a constitution and by-laws to be presented for approval at the next meeting which will be held January 10, in the winter quarter.

feels a cold hand on her shoulder, becomes panicked and throws the seance into confusion. She sings the Lord's prayer while Monica, the daughter, sings the aria, The Black Swan. In the second act, Monica, who is in love with Toby, is dancing with the deaf mute when Flora surprises them, beats them both and throws Toby out of the house. Flora then gets drunk and Monica lets Toby back in whereupon he hides behind a curtain. Flora hears a noise and getting no answer, since Toby is deaf and dumb, shoots into the curtain, killing him.

Baseball men from all over the nation converge on Columbus, Ohio, this week for the annual "Minor Leagues Convention." This convention and the one the majors are having in New York next week take over the sports spotlight.

Usually the minor meeting is the place where the baseball men start talking trades. This gives them a week to think and barter until the major league show.

If the news from the old reliable grape vine is right, then baseball is in for one of its most trading years. Every big league club needs help of some type.

If any player's name has been mentioned the most it is Boston's Ted Williams. During the past four months Williams' name has been associated with deals involving 14 big league clubs.

Other name players that have been tied to deals are Carl Furillo, Gil Hodges, Ralph Branca, and Peeewe Reese of the Brooklyn Dodgers; New York Giants great second baseman, Eddie Stanky; Bubba Church, Andy Smeinick, Eddie Waitkus, and Dell Ennis, Philadelphia Phillies players; Stan Musial, Mr. St. Louis Cardinal himself; St. Louis Brownie pitching star, Ned Garver; and Larry Doby, and Luke Easter from Cleveland. Many other prominent players have been placed on the trading block.

SEVERAL CLUBS have completed numerous trades involving mostly second rate players. It is thought that this is the key to larger trades to come.

Getting back to the minors, Atlanta Cracker president Earl Mann is working overtime to get Atlanta a contending ball club. He has tried to complete trades with over 20 minor league and several major league clubs.

Mann's greatest handicap is the fact that he has few players to offer in trades. He went to the convention in hopes of buying players and not trading but it seems that the other baseball men want manpower and not money.

However, it is certain that there are many deals in the making and Mann is sure to use his cleverness to weave a pennant contending club for the local baseball fans.

1951 COULD easily be given the title of "Upset Year" on the gridirons of the nation. Teams were continually springing upsets from week to week without let up.

Management Society Meets Wednesday

The Atlanta Division's new Society for the Advancement of Management met Wednesday and discussed plans for contacting personnel managers of Atlanta and vicinity to send a representative to interview our graduating seniors for employment. Members of this organization have plans to be one of the most active groups in the school of business.

The following officers were elected: Charles Storm, president; Norman Smith, executive vice-president; Charles Dyer, vice-president; Ronald Clifton, treasurer; Charles Hawkins, secretary, and Joe Hyder, corresponding secretary.

In the Southeastern Conference to keep up with the upset pattern football coaches pulled one of the oldest scoring weapons out of mothballs and put it into use.

For the first time since 1936 the field goal became a major scoring weapon. In all, 10 field goals were booted to tie the conference record also set in 1936. A new record was established in the fact that nine schools kicked field goals.

Georgia, Mississippi and Tulane were the only teams not to use the field goal.

In the case of two SEC teams the three-pointed spelled both victory and defeat. Vanderbilt used it to clip Alabama, 22-20. Alabama turned around and slipped past Georgia, 16-14, by its use. Mississippi State made good by defeating Tulane, 10-7, and their country cousins LSU turned the tables and downed Mississippi State, 3-0.

Oddly enough these four games were the only ones decided by the three points produced by the field goal. In all the other games in which it was used, the winning team had a comfortable margin of victory.

AUBURN WAS the only football team in the nation to successfully make all their extra points. Sophomore Joe Davis booted 20 straight pat's to set a new SEC record.

Mississippi State's luck finally ran out during the last game of the season. Prior to that game State had scored in only four contests and won all four but arch rival Mississippi bumped them, 49-7.

Alabama and Kentucky will never again run up big scores in the opening games of the season. After Bama trounced Delta State, 89-0, and Kentucky devastated Tennessee Tech, 76-14, the Tide lost the next four and Kentucky dropped three. It seems that they ran themselves out and it took them quite some time to get their breath back.

Kappa Theta sorority has pledged the following girls: Ruth Brooks, Arlene Head, Alice McCurdy, Jean Moody, and Lois Wellborn. The pledging ceremony was held at Jackie Wages' home recently. These girls will be formally initiated at a special dinner to be held at the Ansley Hotel December 16.

Big plans are being made for the sorority's little protege, "Cooter." She is from Dr. Felton Williams' home for children. A special Christmas party in "Cooter's" honor will be held at Joyce Bailey's home December 17.

Another card party is being held for all Kappa Theta active and alumnae members. Much fun is in store for all at Betty Richardson's home December 28.

The night of December 14 will mark a gala evening for the members of Chi Rho Sigma sorority. On that night, they are having their annual winter formal at Legion Post No. 72 with a breakfast following.

Everyone will dance to the music of Dick Mayfield's band from 9 p. m. until 1 a. m. A decorative theme of Christmas will be carried out with holly, a lighted tree, and plenty of mistletoe. The breakfast will be held at Leb's from 2 a. m. until 3:30 a. m. for the members, their dates, and a few guests.

The new Miss Chi Rho Sigma will be tapped by last year's sorority Miss, Helen Colquett.

There will be a Christmas party for the under-privileged children of Formwalt Mission home. The children are the age of six to eight. Everyone is invited to go Christmas caroling with Chi Rho Sigma and Sigma Kappa.

Sigma Kappa Chi pledges for the past week have undergone the first part of their hazing period at the school. Tonight (Friday) will climax the pledge stunts as the boys hold a "ticket" sale downtown. Formal initiation will be held sometime at the beginning of the mid-winter quarter.

The fraternity's annual Christmas dance will be held at Post 72 where they will have a band and dancing until the wee hours Thursday, Dec. 20. At the party, toys will be collected from the members to be given to the orphans home.

Blue Key Honorary fraternity has made plans to sponsor a Christmas party for underprivileged children. The party will be held in the 6th floor library Thursday, Dec. 13, at 7 p. m. Funds for the party were made available through the proceeds realized from the Blue Key student book exchange.
